F. D. R. SAYS U. S. TO FIGHT REAR GUARD ACTION

Reveals War Plan of United Nations.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Feb. 10.—President Roosevelt today revealed that the present grand strategy of the united nations is to fight a rear guard action until the overwhelming superiority necessary to ultimate victory is built up.

He disclosed the allied war plans at his press conference when he was questioned about reports from various quarters of the country that the nation is suffering from extreme complacency in the face of bad news from the Pacific.

He acknowledged that part of the country is suffering from complacency, but was certain that not all of it is so affected. He said the nation is becoming increasingly realistic about the existing situation as a better understanding is being obtained of the situation day after day.

Talking in Terms of Realism.

The President told reporters he was talking in terms of basic realism. This is a world encircling war, he said, and the first objective—what he might term the grand strategy—was to prevent a break thru and wear down and destroy as much of the resources of the enemy in men and weapons as possible during the period the united nations are building the necessary overwhelming superiority.

The united nations are scheduled to take the offensive in 1943 under the strategy perfected by the President in his conference with Winston Churchill, prime minister of England. Until that time, the President indicated today, the allies will continue to fight what military experts regard as a rear guard action.

Too "Iffy," Says President.

Mr. Roosevelt was asked to comment on the recent statement of William L. Batt, materials expert of the War Production board, who declared many people in this country and Britain did not realize that the war could be lost. The President dismissed the topic as too "iffy" for consideration.

He was asked whether he had any comment on the "I told you so" attitude of persons who opposed entry into the war and had been silent for two months and are now beginning to be heard again. He said he didn't understand the question.

The questioner added that he was referring to persons who criticised the prewar arms program as not producing sufficient guns and other weapons to defend the nation. Another reporter interjected the information that the questioner was seeking to refer to Sen. Burton K. Wheeler [D., Mont.].

They've Been Answered, He Says.

If such people mean the appropriations and authorizations for arms were not large enough, they have been answered, Mr. Roosevelt said.

Mr. Roosevelt declined to comment on newspaper reports of a speech of Mitchell Hepburn, premier of Ontario, declaring that the Japs had gained control of the Pacific and the United States fleet is in hiding.

The President disclosed he had issued a memorandum during the day calling on all government department heads to undertake an inventory of all persons who might be classified as 1-A in the draft, were they not subject to deferment, and to begin training of replacements.

Sets Up Regulations.

In the memorandum he established regulations governing all requests for deferment on the ground they are essential to the war effort. The regulations decreed that no person shall be deferred unless he is engaged in duties essential to the war effort or supporting activities and then only on the recommendation of the department head.

Deferment beyond six months shall be made only when the head of the department certifies that the attainment of reasonable competence in the post requires two years of training, that a replacement has been provided but is not sufficiently trained, and when the Selective Service commission has found that a scarcity of persons with qualifications to fill the position in question exists.

Australia Pegs Wages, Prices; Limits Profits

CANBERRA, Australia, Feb. 10.—Prime Minister John Curtin announced tonight that the war cabinet has decided on intensified direction of labor and industry, and stricter control of prices, investments, wages, and interest rates.

Curtin said the measure of control proposed was believed to be the only means whereby the national resources could be thrown into the united war effort. The sacrifices involved, he said, would be equitably spread and men and materials available would be used to the best advantage.

The war cabinet's plan forbids the sale or investment of capital except for war purposes, such as war loans or officially sanctioned issues. This measure is designed to prevent speculative investments such as the purchase of real estate or jewelry.

Prices to Be Pegged.

Prices of all goods and services will be pegged at present levels. Increased charges will be permissible for imports when landing costs rise. The marketing of primary products normally auctioned may be affected.

Profits will be pegged at a maximum of 4 per cent on capital and reinvested reserves. This profit allows a margin of 1 per cent over the war bond rate. Profits exceeding 4 per cent will either be passed to consumers in price reductions or taxed.

The commonwealth bank will be asked to control interest rates by fixing a schedule for different classes of investment bearing an appropriate relation to the bond rate.

Wages Remain as Now.

Individual wages will be pegged for the duration of the war at present levels, but an arbitration court will be allowed discretion permitting the completion of existing negotiations and wage adjustments. The adjustment of wages to cost of living will be continued.

Immediate effect will be given the man power regulations promulgated recently, requiring all employment be obtained thru government labor bureaus and forbidding the dismissal of employés in vital industries or change of occupation. Persons engaged in industry will be forbidden to absent themselves from work except for prescribed reasons such as sickness or recreation leave.

The government will have power to place any area under military control to deal with emergencies such as enemy activity and the need for protecting or evacuation of the civil population. This power also will be invokable to meet acute industrial trouble. All forms of speculation in commodities will be prohibited.

LESS FOR AMERICANS

BY HAL FOUST.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Feb. 10.—Further reductions in the American standard of living during 1942, as a wartime necessity, were foreseen by the department of commerce today. At the same time, it was learned that Price Administrator Leon Henderson is advocating further curbs on civilian consumption of supplies needed for war.

The commerce department estimated that 53 per cent of America's 1942 industrial output will be for war and measured a further reduction in the amount of goods available for civilians. In 1941, civilians received 78 per cent of the country's industrial output as compared with the 47 per cent estimate for this year.

Wage Increases Opposed.

With less available to purchase, Henderson is reported to be opposing general wage increases sought by labor. His contentions have been placed before the war labor board, which is considering pleas from the American Federation of Labor and the Congress of Industrial Organizations.

Labor argues that a rise in living

ENLIST BAT-MAN FOR TESTS WITH ARMY CHUTISTS

Dallas, Tex., Feb. 10 (AP).—The army accepted today a barnstorming stunt man's offer to conduct bat-wing tests he believes will develop a new technique for parachute troops.

In a special order the war department waived age restrictions to permit enlistment of Elmo Bannister of Terrell, Tex., a 31 year old veteran of a thousand jumps.

Bannister contends that by using the wings a soldier could drop to within 250 feet of the ground before opening his 'chute and then could "land on a dime, carrying some 75 pounds of equipment." Maneuverability of the wings would enable 35 or 40 men to alight virtually in formation, Bannister added.

Decorate Yank Who Heard Jap Planes at Oahu

Washington, D. C., Feb. 10 (AP).—The war department today announced the award of a Distinguished Service medal to Staff Sergt. Joseph L. Lockard, the soldier who reported the approach of the Japanese planes toward Pearl Harbor on Oahu Island early on the morning of Dec. 7 and whose report was disregarded by his superior.

Sergt. J. L. Lockard.

In addition to receiving the award Lockard will be sent to an officers' training school at Fort Monmouth, N. J., the department said.

Act on General's Recommendation.

A special communique announcing this said in part:

"Acting on the recommendation of Lieut. Gen. Delos C. Emmons, commanding general, Hawaiian department today awarded the Distinguished Service medal to Staff Sergt. Joseph L. Lockard. Gen. Emmons said:

"'Sergt. Lockard, then a private, was the operator in charge of the detector unit operated by his organization on the Island of Oahu on the morning of Dec. 7.

"'In order that instructions in the operation of aircraft warning equipment might be given to another soldier under training, he, in devotion to duty, remained at his station upon completion of the scheduled operating period. At approximately 7:02 a. m. a signal was detected on his instruments, which, in the opinion of Lockard, signified a large number of airplanes in flight approximately 132 miles distant.

Furnished Complete Report.

"'At that moment Lockard was placed in a position of great and grave responsibility to his country. After rechecking the distance and azimuth [direction], Lockard promptly contacted the duty officer of the information center and furnished him with complete particulars of the readings.

"'Subsequent investigations have proven conclusively that the airplanes reported by Lockard were the large Japanese air force which attacked the Island of Oahu.'"

FIVE DIVISIONS HIT CENTER AND DRIVE AT FLANK

General Calls Fight 'Savage.'

Washington, D. C., Feb. 10 (AP).—Great numbers of veteran Jap troops are exerting tremendous pressure on the center of Gen. Douglas MacArthur's line on Bataan, the war department reported today, but the defenders have dealt the invaders hard blows in "particularly savage" fighting.

They mopped up Jap infiltration units on the left of the line, fought sharp patrol skirmishes on the right, and shattered with artillery fire a new attempt to land troops on the west coast of Bataan with the apparent purpose of taking the Americans and Filipinos in the rear.

125,000 Japs in Fight.

Five veteran Japanese divisions [presumably 125,000 men] were present on Bataan peninsula, the army said, together with supporting forces, a force occupying Manila and another manning Japanese shore guns which have been intermittently pounding Corregidor and the other island forts.

Text of the communique:

"On our left a local counterattack by troops cleared up remnants of Japanese units which had previously filtered thru our lines. Enemy attacks to relieve isolated detachments were repulsed. Renewed attempts at landing on the west coast were stopped by our artillery.

"On the right there were sharp patrol actions, while in the center enemy pressure increased. Fort Drum was under enemy artillery fire for a brief period. Our counterbattery fire is believed to have been effective.

Five Divisions in Line.

"Enemy reinforcements, which have been particularly heavy during the last few days, are making their presence in Bataan increasingly evident. The 3d, 16th, 18th, 28th, and 65th Japanese divisions have been identified as participating in the fighting in Bataan, while the 48th under Lieut. Gen. Ichiji Dobashi is on the line of communication. Another force, under Lieut. Gen. Susumu Morioka, is manning the Japanese guns on the Cavite shore and occupying Manila. In addition, there are large numbers of Japanese supporting troops in other sections of Luzon."

The earlier communique said:

"In a message to the war department, Gen. MacArthur emphasized the grim determination of his American-Filipino troops. The identifications of five veteran Japanese divisions on Bataan peninsula, in addition to many other supporting troops, and the reported landing of reinforcements in the Lingayen gulf areas, indicate the heavy odds against them.

"Fighting in Bataan during the past 24 hours was intermittent but of a particularly savage nature. The enemy suffered heavy casualties.

"During the last 24 hours our troops shot down seven enemy planes. This brings the total hostile aircraft positively confirmed as destroyed in the Philippines since the outbreak of the war to 163. Many others were hit and probably destroyed, but their loss has not been definitely confirmed.

"Siege fire directed against our forts from concealed enemy batteries along the Cavite shore continued. Our counter battery fire met with some success.

"In a relatively minor aerial action [over the Dutch East Indies] a small formation of American P-40 fighting planes encountered a flight of Japanese bombers. In the ensuing combat one enemy plane was destroyed. None of our planes was damaged."

Navy Requests the Loan of Standard Binoculars

Washington, D. C., Feb. 10 [Special].—The navy today asked all owners of standard binoculars with rating of 6 by 30 or 7 by 50 to lend the glasses for naval usage for the duration of the war. It offered compensation of $1, coupled with a promise to return the glasses after the war. This practice proved very successful in the last war. At that time the navy borrowed 31,000 usable binoculars, out of 51,217 pairs offered.

THE WAR IN BRIEF FROM FIGHTING FRONTS OF WORLD

Latest developments on battle fronts:

The United States war department announced that Gen. MacArthur's forces in the Philippines were resisting what was described as increasing enemy pressure. "Particularly savage" fighting was reported on Bataan peninsula. MacArthur told the war department that his troops had dealt the Japanese some hard blows and that his artillery had stopped new Japanese attempts to land on Luzon Island. The army said five veteran Jap divisions (presumably 125,000 men) were on the Bataan front with supporting forces.

Singapore's Outposts Fall.

From Singapore came the admission that British defenders were retreating from the island's outer ring of forts under new Japanese assaults by land and air. The invaders were strengthened by reënforcements which landed on the island from across Johore strait.

Commanders of British troops fighting in Burma declined comment on Japanese claims that the city of Martaban had fallen. Martaban is located on the banks of the Salween river. A dispatch from Rangoon pointed out that the city's capture would mean that the Japanese had crossed the Salween river and had a fairly clear path to the Burmese capital less than 100 miles away.

U. S. Warships Trick Japs.

An official at Batavia, Netherlands East Indies, described how four American destroyers tricked the Japanese naval and troop expedition in Macassar strait during the three day running battle in January. The maneuvers of the destroyers were credited with delivering the main setback to the Japanese armada. Several transports were sunk by the United States warships.

It was announced that Japanese troops have landed near Macassar, capital of Celebes Island. Macassar is located in southwestern Celebes and 500 miles from Surabaya, main allied naval base in Java.

According to a dispatch from Moscow, the Red army was encountering the most stubborn resistance yet from the retreating Germans who were said to be hurling large numbers of ski troops into the battle on the north central front.

A British communique issued in Cairo, Egypt, said there was no close fighting with axis forces which have taken positions 50 miles west of Tobruk.

[Details on pages 1, 2, 3, 10, and 11.]

URGES OVERTIME PAY FOR SERVICE ON BATTLEFIELD

Washington, D. C., Feb. 10 (AP).—Rep. Harold Knutson [R., Minn.] offered legislation today to give extra pay to the armed forces for overtime fighting in the Philippines.

His bill, which he said he would urge the military committee to consider quickly, would allow time and one-half pay for all regular duty over 40 hours for the Philippine fighters and double time for Sundays.

"This is an equalizing proposition," said Knutson. "It's no joke. We ought to treat everybody alike. Gen. MacArthur's men should have the same consideration in the matter of overtime payment that is given to industrial workers who are demanding and getting time and one-half and double time for their extra work."

GIVE UP OUTER RING OF FORTS AS FOES PUSH ON

Invaders Attack by Air and Land.

BULLETIN.

TOKIO (from Japanese broadcasts), Feb. 11 (Wednesday), (AP).—Japanese troops advanced to within five and a half miles of Singapore City today when they stormed and captured Bukit Timah peak, highest point on the island, Japanese imperial headquarters announced.

[A similar Japanese claim was reported 24 hours earlier by the Rome radio.]

A communique broadcast at 12:20 p. m. (10:20 p. m. Tuesday, Chicago war time) said the Japanese operating on Singapore Island were continuing to drive the defenders before them.

BY C. YATES McDANIEL.

SINGAPORE, Feb. 10 (AP).—From dawn to dusk Japanese invaders, greatly strengthened by new landings from across Johore strait, today beat at British defenders who are falling back from the outer ring of Singapore's defenses under enemy assaults by air and land.

In their hour of near-disaster imperial forces fought stubbornly, making the invader pay dearly for every inch of ground.

Anti-aircraft batteries clung to their guns, but still the hordes of heavy bombers and dive bombers came.

Predicts More Ordeals.

Sir Shenton Thomas, Singapore's governor, declared solemnly:

"We are all in the hands of God, from Whom we can get comfort in our anxieties and strength to play the man and help one another in all the ordeals which are to come."

[London quarters were gloomy over Singapore's grave situation, but authoritative sources were inclined to discount suggestions that the Japanese had infiltrated into the city itself. Latest information to London, however, put the invader 10 miles from Singapore city. A Singapore radio station—apparently the main station, for there are a number on the island—went off the air at 6:30 a. m. Tuesday, Chicago time. The British radio quoted Chungking messages to the effect that Singapore was still in direct wireless communication with the Chinese capital at 10 a. m. Tuesday, Chicago time.]

A Day of Withdrawals.

It was a day of withdrawals also among the international press corps. A military spokesman gave his daily talk on the military situation to an audience of three—representatives of two local newspapers and myself.

For a fortnight I have been the only American newsman in Singapore and today the British correspondent of the United Press and the Australian representative of International News service joined the Reuters manager and several Australian correspondents aboard an outward bound vessel.

I looked down on Singapore in the late afternoon on a scene of striking contrasts.

To the north, columns of black smoke billowed skyward from burning oil tanks, providing a somber backdrop for the stage on which the grim drama is reaching its climax.

British Apply the Torch.

The opposing guns ceased their pounding for a brief moment but darting in and out of the drifting clouds of smoke, Japanese dive bombers were delivering their last loads of the day before darkness called them back to their bases.

Near the center of the stage clouds of light gray smoke arose from rubber plants, pineapple canneries and factories to which the owners had applied the torch to prevent their use by the enemy.

The scene to the south was one of unnatural calm. In the far distance wisps of smoke spiraled slowly over fishing villages on the small Dutch islands which dot the straits between Malaya and Sumatra.

Tea Dance Held as Usual.

Inside Singapore harbor steamers, Chinese junks, Malay fishing craft, and sampans rode at anchor just as they did when I first looked over the waterfront a year ago.

Along main roads in the foreground motor cars, trolleys, and rickshaws were carrying people home after the day's work. In front of the famous Raffles hotel cars were depositing patrons of the daily tea dance and outside the movie house immediately below people were lining up in front of the box office to see Joel McCrea and Ellen Drew in "Reaching for the Sun."

The enemy's troops were believed to stand 100,000 strong on the island itself and immediately across Johore strait. With his overwhelming air of superiority he was steadily extending the area of his conquest.

The British command, in the second successive communique to announce a forced withdrawal of the imperial line, reported late in the day:

"During last night the enemy succeeded in making further landings on the island in the area between Mandai and Kranji [the area along the northern part of the island eastward from Kranji estuary].

"The enemy has maintained continuous dive bombing and machine gun attacks on our forward areas in the western sectors thruout the day as well as high level bombing attacks by large formations of aircraft.

"At the same time, he has maintained heavy pressure and has continued to infiltrate in this area.

"Despite stubborn resistance, there has been some further withdrawal of our forces."

See Fire and Smoke.

During the early morning hours fires glowed red along the northern part of the island and later in the day gray clouds and black pillars of smoke obscured the forward battle areas.

The enemy's landings were made in steel vessels. How far the invader had beaten to the east from the Kranji-Mandai area was not officially disclosed.

JAPS DEMAND SURRENDER

TOKIO, Feb. 10 [From Japanese Broadcast] (AP).—Thousands of leaflets signed by Lieut. Gen. Tomoyuki Yamashita were scattered over Singapore today demanding the surrender of that stronghold because "the Japanese forces desire to refrain from seeing the city reduced to ashes." The leaflets said:

"I advise immediate surrender of the British forces at Singapore from the standpoint of 'Bushido' [chivalry], to the Japanese army and navy forces which already have dominated Malaya, annhilate the British fleet in the far east, and acquired complete control of the [China] sea and the Pacific and Indian oceans as well as southern Asia.

"In view of the fact Singapore has been an important British base since the 18th century, as well as a melting pot for eastern and western civilization, the Japanese forces desire to refrain from seeing the city reduced to ashes. Japan has taken up arms in order to conquer injustice and restore justice without the least intention to expand her territory or to invade foreign soil.

Threat to Crush Foes.

"The Japanese forces, fighting on the basis of this principle, will crush down the enemies who oppose Japanese action by their will to extend the war of civilization.

"I wish to take this occasion to urge the immediate surrender of you British officers, whose wives and children must be waiting anxiously."

A Domei News agency dispatch said the position of the defenders was growing increasingly desperate as thousands of troops with equipment poured into the island across the granite causeway repaired by Japanese engineers after it had been broken by the British in their retreat from Malaya peninsula.

To repair the Johore-Singapore causeway, Domei said, Japanese engineers swam to the breach at night and took measurements while British attention was distracted by heavy artillery fire and the advance of the initial landing parties across Johore strait.

Work Thruout Night.

They assembled their materials the next day, and as soon as a coördinated attack of the landing parties had cleared out British positions guarding the southern end of the causeway they began their repairs, the dispatch said.

They worked frantically thru the night bridging the chasm.

HERE IS HOW JAP 'HORDES' POURED INTO SINGAPORE

Too Many for Us, Says an Australian.

BY SERGT. IAN FITCHETT.
[Official Australian Reporter.]

SINGAPORE, Feb. 9 [Delayed]—[Australia Associated Press to (AP)].—The military position on Singapore Island by late afternoon could be described only as serious.

Enemy landings followed the smashing barrage which grew to a crescendo from 10 p. m. yesterday following an afternoon of destructive shelling and mortar fire.

Shortly after dark last night some of our searchlights were knocked out. They were our only means of observation until the moonrise at 1 a. m.

Our strongest held positions on the coast running west from the Kranji estuary were left completely unmolested, but on either flank the fire was poured in, making the approach of troops holding those areas difficult.

Pour in "In Hordes."

Towards 11 p. m., the enemy started getting ashore.

No sooner were the first Japanese landings engaged than the enemy started to pour in in "hordes"—as a battalion commander put it.

Our artillery and machine gunners were sweeping the straits with fire all this time and also concentrating on the beach opposite, but the enemy seemed to be in strength. Meanwhile, his gunfire was crashing into our positions.

It was a solid drumfire which went on for some hours without cease.

The colonel of a west Australian machine gun battalion said he thought that the enemy was using steel troop landing craft. He had report after report from his gunners that they saw their bullets striking flashes of flame as they hit the steel sides of the boats.

Forward Troops in Trouble.

How the enemy got them down is uncertain. Possibly, he embarked his troops from a point farther north on the mainland and sailed them down the coast after dark.

These landings soon had our forward troops in trouble and they had to fall back to a level line. In the desperate early morning fighting, party after party found their way cut off and there were a hundred small struggles of the moment, infantry, gunners and anti-tank men joining together to get themselves and their gear out.

Reinforcements were of Indians as all further Australians were rushed to the area.

Dawn gave light for enemy bombers again. They have been at it all day. The longest period from dawn to 4 p. m. that they did not have some planes bombing was 31 minutes.

A Story of Huge Numbers.

Our fighters made a gallant effort to aid the troops but it was the old story.

So it has gone on all day with very little definite information coming in beyond confused tales of desperate fighting.

Beyond artillery fire, we can do little to prevent their flow of boats to the mainland.

The troops have done their best all day.

But it is the old case of huge numbers crushing thinly held lines.

47 SEAMEN RESCUED FROM 2 SHIPS SUNK BY SUBS REACH CANADA

AN EAST CANADIAN PORT, Feb. 10 (AP).—A United States flying boat led to the rescue of 27 survivors of a Greek freighter who were among 47 crewmen arriving here today after two sinkings by enemy submarines in the western Atlantic.

The survivors from the Greek merchantman said a U-boat shelled their ship for 3½ hours, then raked their lifeboats, killing two of their mates and wounding three. The flying boat spotted them and directed a British ship to the rescue.

The other 20 seamen were from a freighter of undisclosed nationality. A search is under way for 28 of their mates adrift in lifeboats.

JAPS LAND AT SECOND POINT OF NEW BRITAIN ISLE

CANBERRA, Australia, Feb. 10 (AP).—Australia learned today of a new Japanese landing on her island soil on the south coast of New Britain at Gasmata. New Britain, previously invaded at Rabaul on the northeast tip last month, is in the Bismarck archipelago just to the northeast of New Guinea.

Australia's air force, which has constantly harassed this Japanese foothold, last night carried out an attack on enemy shipping closer to the coast of New Guinea.

Additional militiamen were ordered called up for full time duty.

BRITISH FIGHT ON IN BURMA AS JAPS CLAIM MARTABAN

Clash with Enemy North of River Port.

RANGOON, Burma, Feb. 10 (AP).—British troops tonight smashed at a small Japanese force north of Martaban, and their commanders declined comment on an enemy claim that the city itself had fallen.

Martaban, on the west bank of the treacherous Salween river where the defenders have stood firm for 10 days, is of strategic importance. Its capture would mean that the Japanese had thrown a bridgehead across the Salween and had a relatively clear path ahead to the great port of Rangoon, less than 100 miles away.

Coastal roads and a railway skirt the tideswept Gulf of Martaban to Rangoon, the much bombed port of the vital Burma road.

Bombers Keep Clear of Rangoon.

Japanese bombers kept clear of Rangoon today, well aware of the sting of American and British flyers who have made the approaches to the port a graveyard for Tokio's planes. But they loosed their thunderous loads on the railway station at Thaton, 38 miles up the Rangoon railroad of which Martaban is the terminus.

RAF bombers assaulted Japanese field headquarters at Paan, 30 miles up the east bank of the Salween.

The rest of the front, about which Generalissimo Archibald P. Wavell expressed "satisfaction" on Sunday, appeared quiet.

Communique Not Clear.

The British communique did not make clear on which side of the river the skirmishing near Martaban took place. The river flows almost directly south but a bend just before it reaches the gulf places some land on the west side to the north of the town.

Last week, the British acknowledged that some patrols had negotiated the wide and swift waterway but these were believed mopped up.

Holding the mouth of the long and sinuous Salween appeared vital to the mixed force of British, Chinese, Indian, and Burmese troops. Further north, the river has deep gorges and beyond to the Burma road sharp and irregular plateaus—some towering 8,000 feet—aid in the natural defense of the rich gateway to China.

Japs Claim City's Seizure.

TOKIO, Feb. 10 [From Japanese Broadcasts] (AP).—A Domei news agency dispatch today reported the entry of Japanese troops into Martaban, Burmese city on the west bank of the Salween river, this afternoon, after all day bombing forays of Japanese warplanes yesterday in which railway rolling stock at a station north of the city and many military trucks were destroyed. Martaban is across the river from Moulmein.

MIKADO HONORS COMMANDER OF JAPS IN MALAYA

TOKIO, Feb. 10 [From Japanese broadcasts] (AP). — Emperor Hirohito conferred two high decorations today on Lieut. Gen. Tomoyuki Yamashita, commander in chief of Japanese forces in Malaya, the Order of the Golden Kite, third class, and the Order of the Rising Sun, first class. The order of the Golden Kite is Japan's highest military award.

The announcement said they were granted in recognition of Yamashita's services in the China war, where he was chief of staff of the invading forces. [Presumably his reward for the drive to Singapore is yet to come.]

YANKEE FIGHTERS IN HAWAII RELAX IN LAP OF LUXURY

Lavish Hotel Is Taken Over for Them.

HONOLULU, Hawaii, Feb. 10 (AP).—Fighting men of the Pacific are spending their off hours in the luxury of the expensive, richly decorated Royal Hawaiian hotel, which in peaceful times catered to the cream of Hawaii's tourist trade.

Sailors and marines, and some soldiers, too, in need of rest and relaxation after arduous periods at sea or in the air, find both in liberal quantities at the luxurious hotel on Waikiki beach, now called the "R and R annex."

Rooms still bear the sign "$18 per day." But now the guests pay only $1 a day if they are officers, and nothing but a laundry fee of 25 cents a week if they are enlisted men.

Enjoy Many Facilities.

The frills are gone, but servicemen get food, linen, and incidentals like table tennis, the use of radios and phonographs, games, movies, and occasional dances to ships' orchestras.

The fleet has leased the hotel for the use of its officers and men at a cost of $17,500 a month. Part of the hotel's accommodations are for the army's use.

Limited recreational facilities have existed for much of the fleet in the form of tennis courts, game centers, and swimming pools at Pearl Harbor and Barber's Point, but the war has brought a demand for 24 hour "R and R" facilities.

Stringent blackout regulations and the exigencies of return trips to the naval base and ships made it imperative that some form of overnight and week-end rest and recreation facilities be made available, and the Royal Hawaiian supplied the answer.

Only the Inside Is Changed.

Outwardly, the big hotel is much the same. The grounds have not been touched.

Inside, it's different.

The famed Coconut Grove cocktail bar has become a soda fountain where servicemen may indulge in sundaes and soft drinks in front of muralled walls. Instead of expensive shops, the lobby now houses a canteen where tobacco, candy, and magazines may be purchased.

In the beautiful Lanai dining salon, bluejackets eat simple wholesome fare.

TORPEDO SINKS U. S. TRANSPORT; BELIEVE 29 LOST

HONOLULU, Feb. 10 (AP).—Sinking of the small army transport Royal T. Frank in Hawaiian waters Jan. 28 was described today by one of the ship's officers, who said he did not see the submarine but saw the torpedo "coming straight for us." It struck opposite the starboard boiler and exploded with terrific force.

"As soon as I saw the torpedo's wake," he related, "I ran forward and shouted 'torpedo.' I did not witness other activities, as suddenly I was caught between an automobile and a heavy beam. I managed to struggle loose after being carried beneath the surface and soon was picked up."

The vessel, a 224 ton former freighter which had been operated in Hawaiian waters for many years, was taken over by the army and reconditioned as a transport at a cost of $100,000. The war department announced that 33 survivors reached port but 29 are missing and believed lost.

PACIFIC COUNCIL MEETS AS GLOOM SHROUDS LONDON

British Expect Singapore's Capture by Japs.

LONDON, Feb. 10 (AP).—The newly created Pacific war council met tonight to frame a common policy in the western Pacific as waves of Japanese troops smashed at Singapore, last stronghold of the British empire's might in the Pacific.

Prime Minister Churchill presided over the council, which convened in a capital overcast with gloom at accounts of Japanese successes on the beleaguered island stronghold.

Situation Grows Worse.

As the council met, the united nations faced not only the loss of Singapore, but the last vestiges of control of the western Pacific. Regarding Singapore itself, informed sources found "no comfort" in the situation which grew worse with new communiques telling of desperate British attempts, apparently without air support, to hold the enemy.

Meeting with Churchill were Sir Earle Page, Australian representative in London; W. J. Jordan, New Zealand high commissioner; Prof. Pieter Gerbrandy, the Netherlands prime minister; L. S. Amery, secretary of state for India, and experts from the allied fighting services.

The council's decisions will be transmitted to Washington, D. C. They presumably will deal with defense of the Netherlands East Indies and Australia.

Envision New Outcry.

Political informants said they believed the fall of Singapore would be the signal for an outcry in the house of commons dwarfing that which followed the loss of Crete.

Once again Churchill's advisers and his cabinet, not Churchill himself, will be the chief target. One member of parliament declared the present cabinet could not survive the fall of the mighty Pacific bastion.

In the house of lords today, the government escaped a defeat by three votes, but an adverse vote there could not cause the government to fall as would a defeat in commons. The house of lords vote was 20 to 17 against a move to disapprove any increase in the hours of employment of young persons under 16, as contemplated under a general emergency order of Dec. 23, 1941.

Cite Reason for Predicament.

Analyses of the military situation at Singapore meanwhile had the air of postmortems. The reasons for the predicament of British forces there could be enumerated as:

1. The Japanese have control of the air over Singapore.
2. The Japanese have more and better troops. The invaders under Lieut. Gen. Tomoyuki Yamashita are veterans of the Chinese conflict.
3. The British once more, as in Flanders, have been forced to fight encumbered by a large civilian population which must be fed and housed.

Wave of Smallpox Hits Paris; Vaccination Urged

PARIS, France, Feb. 10 (AP).—An outbreak of smallpox in the Paris region prompted the Academy of Medicine to issue an urgent recommendation to the populace today to be vaccinated.

BATAVIA PAPERS CALL TWO WAR COUNCILS NEEDLESS BUROCRACY

BATAVIA, Netherlands East Indies, Feb. 10 [Aneta].—Batavia papers today criticized the "unnecessary burocracy" involved in the creation of two war councils in Washington, D. C., and London and expressed fear that what has been gained in the war to date may be buried "under a heap of paper work." The papers referred to the combined chiefs of staffs group in Washington and the advisory Pacific council in London, which includes representatives from the Netherlands, as well as the British dominions.

The Java Bode declared: "As long as we think that we can win the war by making two jumps forward and one backward—the establishment of the high command decidedly being two jumps forward and the creation of the two war councils one jump backward—the definite victory over the forces of evil will remain a pious wish.

"Even a magnificent general like Sir Archibald P. Wavell cannot win a war when his freedom of movement is hampered by the creation of such a complicated mechanism as these two groups. The spirit of burocracy must be destroyed before we even can think about destroying our enemies."

Churchill Is in a Battle, Too, Says London Daily

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, Feb. 10.—Tho admitting that the Singapore defenders are fighting "under worse conditions than at Crete," and that the news of the Japs' advance is causing "feelings of gloom, anger, and indignation" in Britain, the Daily Express declares editorially today that the battle is not only between armed forces but "between Prime Minister Winston Churchill's judgment and that of the leaders against him." It calls on the British people to display "unwavering confidence and resolution" in the prime minister.

JAPS LAND FOR DRIVE TO TAKE CELEBES CAPITAL

Seek Control of Straits of Macassar.

BY E. R. NODERER.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

BATAVIA, Java, Feb. 11 [Wednesday].—Japanese invasion forces today launched an assault on Macassar, capital of Celebes, with the dual purpose of cutting the potential lifeline to the Philippines and seizing control of the Macassar straits, down which supplies for an attack on Java must come.

These landings in southwest Celebes, some 300 miles across the Java sea from the naval base at Surabaya, mark the most southerly point yet reached by the enemy in his steady advance since the war broke out on Dec. 7.

Across the straits in Borneo, 200 miles away, enemy forces continued their advance on Bandjermasin. If both Macassar and Bandjermasin fall into Japanese hands, as seems likely, control of the straits will pass to the enemy, who will then be in an excellent position to establish a base for an attack on Java.

While aid to the Philippines is not going thru the straits of Macassar at present, this is the main channel if the offensive passes to the allies sometime in the future.

Already Strong in Borneo.

The Japanese already are in a strong position on the Borneo coast of the straits thru occupation of Balikpapan and Tarakan.

Possession of Macassar also would be a further threat to the line of communications to Australia, over which supplies and reënforcements from the United States must reach the Netherlands East Indies. At Kendari, in southeast Celebes, the Japanese already have based planes which are bombing Surabaya and shipping off the southern coast of the Indies, plying between here and Australia.

From Macassar to Bali Island, adjoining Java and one of the places where an invasion base might be established, is 375 miles. From Macassar to Keopang, on Timor Island, is 450 miles. Both Bali and Keopang have large airdromes formerly used by civilian lines from here to Australia. Keopang is only 550 miles from Darwin, the allied base in Australia.

City Is a Principal Port.

Macassar is one of the chief ports of the Netherlands East Indies. On the southwestern finger of Celebes, it is one of the most important trading centers of the northeastern part of the archipelago. In the last year 1,000 steamers and 7,000 sailboats cleared this port, carrying products of the "great east" to all parts of the world.

The harbor possesses a roadstead protected by a chain of coral islands which would make it valuable for Japanese warcraft. It has a quay wall 1,350 yards long and at low tide can accommodate ships drawing up to 30 feet of water. There are two other wharfs, one 500 yards long and another 280 feet long.

The invaders are said to be meeting stiff resistance from the Dutch forces, but the destruction of supplies and bridges already being carried out indicates that the defenders expect to fall back in the face of heavier enemy forces.

Yesterday 20 Japanese bombers made their second attack on the Malang airdrome, near Surabaya. No damage was reported to the airdrome, but bombs falling near by killed one person and wounded several.

A Dutch officer who has returned to Java after fighting with guerrilla bands in Borneo says the Japanese advance in small parties, well equipped with automatic weapons and trench mortars. Their marksmanship is not very good.

Live on Rice and Fish.

He described a group of British Indian Punjabi troops from Sarawak who escaped from an action with only green painted rifles and swords. However, they have accumulated odds and ends of clothing from the Dutch army and now present a picturesque appearance with their flowing black beards above a uniform consisting of a green Dutch coat, khaki shorts, stockings, and one Dutch and one British shoe. Some wear a Dutch officer's cap perched atop their turbans.

The Dutch guerrillas trek thru the mud and swamps, climbing over endless obstacles in the jungle to attack the Japanese in darkness. Almost continual rain keeps them drenched to the skin. At camps, where the best light is that from candles, they try vainly to dry their garments over campfires. They sleep soaking wet on mats and live on burnt rice and salt fish when they can get that. When they cannot they make a "stew" of roots, leaves, and fruit.

The guerrillas rarely cause any large losses among the Japanese, but by picking off a dozen here and a score there the casualties mount.

CALLS ON IRELAND TO HELP U.S. IN ITS FIGHT WITH AXIS

Dillon Cites Alliance of Friendship.

BY HUGH CURRAN.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

DUBLIN, Ireland, Feb. 10.—Notwithstanding William T. Cosgrave opposition party's adherence to a policy of neutrality, Deputy Leader James Dillon today for the third time within a year declared his conviction that a united Ireland should take its stand with the allies against the "treacherous attack made on the United States by Germany, Italy, and Japan."

Attempts being made to tear the Irish people away from the traditional alliance with America should be resisted, he said at his party's annual conference. America had given asylum to his grandfather, father, and brother, and whoever attacked America was his enemy, he added. Most of the Irish people, he pointed out, could say the same thing.

Refers to First RAF.

"Twenty-five years ago," Dillon continued, "an American expeditionary force came to Europe with the words upon their lips, 'Lafayette, here we are to pay back the debt America owes to France for the help France gave her when she was fighting for her independence.'

"What is more precious to me than any question of prosperity is the sovereign independence of the Irish nation and we got it thru the efforts of Mr. Cosgrave and his colleagues, but with the support of the American people.

"I say now the United States stands in vital peril of its existence and whatever the consequences to my political career, I hope and pray that some day we will hear upon the lips of the Irish people a similar message to that which inspired the American expeditionary force of 25 years ago.

Praises U. S. Friendship.

"We can't offer more than we have got. It may be very little in the immense drama that is being enacted all over the world, but poor as it may be, it is all we have got, and in my considered judgment it is none too much to offer the friends who stood by us for two centuries and without whose friendship this nation would not exist today.

"I do not underestimate the perils for our people. I do not underestimate the cost in which it would involve us, but I say our sovereignty and independence means more to us than money, wealth, or safety. I say the survival of the Irish nation depends upon the maintenance of the Irish-American alliance.

"I tell you that in my judgment at the present moment the German government, using its traditional policy of terror, is threatening our people with an immediate terrible blitz if we approach closer to the United States of America. The threat is shortly going to take the form of warning us that if we do not draw further away from America the blitz will come upon us.

"If our people will yield one fraction of an inch to the intimidation I warn you they are on a slippery slope the end of which will be a rupture of the Irish-American alliance. In the desolation which this nation will then find itself . . .. it will be merely an introduction to a development which will end in this country being turned into the German Gibraltar of the Atlantic."

CHIANG CONFERS WITH INDIAN LEADERS TO MAP AID FOR BRITAIN

NEW DELHI, India, Feb. 10 (AP).—Generalissimo Chiang Kai-shek conferred with top Indian leaders today in an apparent effort to enlist their full coöperation on the side of the united nations. Observers speculated on whether he could effect a reconciliation between Britain and the All-India congress which has been demanding complete independence.

After conferring with the viceroy's executive council, Chiang talked for 90 minutes with his old friend, Pandit Jawaharlal Nehru, former president of the Indian National congress. They decided to meet again tomorrow, probably with Maulana Kalan Azad, president of the All-India congress.

The generalissimo is expected also to confer with Mohandas K. Ghandi, Sir Tej Bahadar Sapru, liberal nationalist leader, and Mohammed Ali Jinnah, All-India Moslem league president.

South Africa Acts to End Communications Sabotage

JOHANNESBURG, South Africa, Feb. 10 (AP).—A fresh outbreak of sabotage which disrupted telephone and telegraph communication between the Transvaal and Cape province resulted in assignment of escorts for line repairmen today. Two linemen have been attacked while attempting to repair damaged communications. A reward of $4,000 was offered for information concerning cutting of wires. Limited communications were restored today.

U.S. MISSIONARIES HELD BY JAPS IN HONGKONG SAFE

Americans Reported Short of Food, Tho.

KWEILIN, Kwangsi Province, China, Feb. 10 (AP).—Chinese Christian refugees from Japanese occupied Hongkong today reported that American missionaries trapped there when war broke out in the Pacific were interned in the former British crown colony.

All were reported safe but suffering from a food shortage.

Among the Americans at Hongkong are the following faculty members of the American supported Lingnan university at Canton:

Prof. and Mrs. C. N. Laerd; Prof. and Mrs. H. C. Brownell and their 14 year old daughter; Prof. and Mrs. A. R. Knipper and their 12 year old daughter; Prof. H. S. Frank; Prof. H. G. Rhodes; a Miss Gower; a Mrs. Warden, and Messrs. Kelly, Brown, and Castle. There was no news of the whereabouts of another faculty member named Guthrie who joined the army.

60 Catholics Reported Safe.

The refugees said Miss Marion Dubley of the Hongkong YWCA also was interned.

Sixty American Catholics, including eight who arrived at Hongkong from the United States just before the outbreak of war, also were reported safe.

[Reported safe by the Maryknoll Sisters, Maryknoll, N. Y., was Sister M. St. Bernard Donnelly, a sister of Daniel L. Donnelly, 48 West 71st street, and of Mrs. Edward McCann, 6837 Yale avenue, Chicago.]

Among American faculty members of Lingnan university interned on the campus at Canton were said to be Prof. J. M. Henry, Prof. W. E. Hoffman, Prof. and Mrs. W. E. MacDonald, and their daughter, and an American nurse. Dr. and Mrs. W. W. Cadbury also were said to be safe.

Baptist Missionaries Held.

At the Baptist mission at Hwanghsien in Shantung province were said to be Dr. and Mrs. E. B. Glass, the Rev. C. L. Culpepper, Miss Florence Lide, and Miss Martha Franks.

Missionaries of the American church mission held in their homes at Wuhan [Hankow] were said to include Bishop A. A. Gilman, the Rev. C. L. Pickens, Miss Olive Tomlin, and R. A. Keep.

HOW U. S. SHIPS FOOLED JAPS IN BATTLE REVEALED

Destroyers Reversed and Sank Transport.

BATAVIA, N. E. I., Feb. 10 (AP).—Four United States destroyers were credited today with delivering the main setback to the Japanese naval and troop expedition in a daring action in Macassar straits during the running battle of Jan. 23-26.

"One evening toward dusk four American destroyers sighted a Japanese cruiser sailing southward down the Straits of Macassar," said an authoritative official.

"The American destroyers advanced toward it, and as they got nearer they spotted a line of three Japanese destroyers behind the cruiser and two more destroyers behind these. On the shore side of the protecting line of warships were a number of Japanese transports laden with troops and equipment.

"The American destroyers immediately charged full steam ahead at the middle of the line of protecting warships. Darkness of night had descended.

Race Between Ships.

"They broke thru the line, firing furiously, and as soon as they were between the line of warships and transports they swung northward and raced between the two lines of Japanese ships in the opposite direction.

"Their guns fired thruout at the Japanese warships, which swung completely around and chased the American ships northward, leaving the transports they were protecting completely uncovered.

"As the American destroyers, pursued by two Japanese cruisers and five Japanese destroyers, sped northward thru the night the Americans ran into a rainstorm which made visibility exceptionally bad. All the American ships immediately executed an about turn and steamed back southward toward their original objective.

Return Unscathed.

"The Japanese did not see them turn and continued northward, thinking they were still chasing the Americans. Thus free, the Americans were able to come down in full force on the unprotected line of Japanese transports. They made full use of their hard won advantage, sinking several of the transports.

"They completed their work and returned to their original base before the Japanese warships found out what had happened. The American destroyers came out of the action almost unscratched."

U. S. SHIP SAVES 120 AFTER ENEMY SINKS VESSEL

BATAVIA, Netherlands East Indies, Feb. 10 (AP).—An American ship rescued all 120 passengers and crew—including some American women and children—found adrift in lifeboats after their vessel had been shelled and sunk by the enemy, it was learned today.

The first boat lowered from the doomed ship, containing women and children, capsized, but by a seeming miracle it was righted by the crew.

At 12:15 p. m. Saturday, ten hours after the ship left port, the enemy craft appeared and ordered it abandoned. Following the narrow escape of the first lifeboat, five others were launched successfully and the enemy then shelled and sank the ship.

An 8 year old girl, reported to be the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Max Myers, proved to be a heroine. Myers, a Goodrich Rubber company employé, and his wife also were aboard the ship. When the lifeboat capsized the little girl clung bravely to the side, despite a head injury, until rescued.

Soldier's Date

JANET BLAIR.

San Diego, Cal., Feb. 10 [Special].—A soldier from Michigan, whose identity was carefully shielded, today was the first claimant on a "Love Insurance, Ltd.," policy which for 25 cents a month insures Camp Callan soldiers against loss of their home town sweetheart's affections.

Claim of the soldier that he had suffered an irreparable amatory setback is being thoroly investigated, according to Private Clifford Elliott of Altoona, Kas., originator of the unique insurance plan.

Reason for the complete investigation is obvious, Elliott declared today. Not only will the soldier receive $15, the amount in the love insurance reserve, but he also will be entitled to an extra premium—a date in Hollywood with Janet Blair, winsome movie actress, who volunteered to take the first "loser" on a tour of filmland's night clubs.

Scores of photos of Miss Blair have been distributed the policyholders to send to their girl friends back home. "That's to remind their sweethearts that a date with a movie queen will be the reward of a soldier if his own girl friend is untrue to him," commented Elliott.

SEIZE EX-TOKIO POLICE CHIEF IN CALIFORNIA RAID

Find Arms, Ammunition; Arrest 20.

Salinas, Cal., Feb. 10 (AP).—A former Tokio police chief and another high police official of Japan were among 20 Japanese seized by federal agents today in their widespread raid on Japanese settlements.

A raid on a Buddhist temple netted three priests along with considerable contraband. FBI agents said one of the three, the Rev. Koyo Tamanaha, once was the Tokio chief of police.

Hold Friend of Emperor's Brother.

Yaichi Takatayashi, proprietor of a laundry, was described as a former police official of Japan and a close friend of Emperor Hirohito's brother. Both had been in this country only a few months.

FBI Agent Nat J. Pieper led 138 federal, state, county, and city officers in scattered raids thruout northern Monterey county, site of some of the Pacific coast's largest military developments. The raiders visited Salinas, Monterey, Watsonville, Pacific Grove, Carmel, and a "mystery colony" at Chular.

A truckload of ammunition, rifles, shotguns, binoculars, compasses, short wave radios, and motion picture equipment was seized in a Watsonville sporting goods store operated by Bunkichu Torigoe, an alien Japanese with a police record. He was arrested.

Find Arms, Ammunition.

The FBI searched 45 places and confiscated five pistols, eight rifles, 14 shotguns, six radios, a box of sulphuric acid, four floodlights, one crystal microphone, one amplifier, four spotlights, 60,845 rounds of rifle ammunition, 14,833 rounds of shotgun ammunition, 50 rounds of revolver ammunition, four motion picture projectors, eight pairs of binoculars, and six cameras.

BRITISH, DUTCH CONTROL NEWS OF EAST INDIES

Under the allied combined command in the southwestern Pacific there is no official American press setup to present news of action by American forces there and United States officers are under orders no tto speak for publication. This was disclosed in cablegrams received by THE TRIBUNE in the last few days from its correspondent, E. R. Noderer.

Noderer recently moved from Singapore to the Dutch East Indies. He is accredited with the United States war and navy departments as a correspondent and also with the Dutch authorities.

Wavell in Charge of Publicity.

Noderer learned of the lack of American facilities during three visits to the allied combined headquarters in the Dutch Indies, Sir Archibald Wavell, British general, is supreme chief of the combined command, and Lieut. Gen. George H. Brett, former chief of the United States army air corps, is deputy chief.

"I gave Gen. Brett my telegram which indicated war department approval and requested credentials authorizing contact with the United States forces in the southwestern Pacific," Noderer cabled THE TRIBUNE.

"Gen. Brett approved the idea, but said Gen. Wavell is in charge of the high command publicity."

Noderer then declared: "The United States forces are not getting credit for their activities, which is a source of considerable dissatisfaction in the highest American quarters.

"Many Good Stories Not Written."

"A British naval officer told me he is liaison officer between the American press and American troops, but United States authorities feel strongly that the news should be presented from the American viewpoint.

"I took this up with the American consulate here [Batavia, Java], which cabled Washington, D. C., and I now understand a man is to be sent here soon. Meanwhile, many good stories are not written."

Noderer stated that the British have moved in beside the combined command headquarters with an elaborate press department and that the Dutch have a very good press setup.

LUXURY LINERS CARRY TROOPS TO PACIFIC ISLANDS

American Supply Line to New Zealand Formed.

Boston, Mass., Feb. 10 (AP).—A report that United States naval forces had established a trans-Pacific supply terminus at Wellington, New Zealand, after convoying contingents of American service men to way station islands along the route, was received today by the Christian Science Monitor.

In a cable dispatch from Wellington, where an allied censorship has been established, Joseph C. Harsch reported after a month with strong units of the Pacific fleet out of Pearl Harbor that "the battle of the supply line from America's factories to the far Pacific battle front has been won."

The Monitor correspondent reached Wellington yesterday aboard a destroyer that was described as the first unit of a naval force under command of Adm. Herbert F. Leary, who will direct allied naval forces in the Anzac area.

He said the original mission of the naval force that set out from Pearl Harbor was "to cover the movement of reinforcements" that were poured ashore from former luxury liners at Pacific islands.

Attacked Jap Islands.

Part of this same fleet also attacked the Japanese mandated Gilbert and Marshall Islands.

Declaring he was not privileged to tell what had happened since the Japanese attack on Pearl Harbor, Harsch added that it would "make every citizen of the allied nations lift their chins a notch."

Harsch told of the arrival of the vanguard of a United States naval force at Wellington, described his landing from a destroyer, and commented:

"Behind the color of this little drama lay a symbol of an important American victory.

"Japan has suffered its first serious reverse. An American admiral commands the terminus of the supply route. The way stations have been secured. Bluejackets are here. And the way is open for reinforcements and the vital weapons of war.

"Pacific Battle Won."

"Japan won the first blow at Pearl Harbor, but Japan lost the battle of the supply lines. Japan's best, guaranty of victory was to close that line."

He told of traveling part of the way from Pearl Harbor with the navy forces that attacked Japanese bases in the Gilbert and Marshall Islands, before transferring to another unit by breeches buoy in mid-Pacific.

There were "days among the tropic islands where ships well known to the luxury trade poured American reinforcements into way stations," he said, and there were waving flags and hats as the destroyer ended its 4,000 mile journey at Wellington harbor.

Japs "Sank" the Force.

One night he heard the Japanese radio announce the sinking of the force with which he was sailing, but dawn found the entire unit intact.

"Our destroyer was only one unit," he said. "What else Adm. Leary commands is a military secret. But as an eyewitness to the whole vast proceeding spreading over thousands of miles of ocean I feel completely confident that, whenever the initial enemy thrust can be stopped, the final result is only a matter of time. Our materials can get thru and our factories are producing.

"During this period long lines of communication vital to ultimate success have been nailed down hard with reinforcements and ceaseless naval patrols and hard jabs at enemy points of attack until today the channels are wide open and Japan is only beginning to feel the full potential impact of American might."

The correspondent said the destroyer arrived at Wellington a day ahead of schedule.

The secrecy of the operation prevented any major demonstration at the outset, he said, but when the bluejackets went ashore they "had difficulty in spending any money." Hotels gave them free meals and citizens took them into their homes. The crew, he said, agreed it was the best port they had touched in many months.

3 Seized in Brazil for Speaking German in Public

RIO DE JANEIRO, Brazil, Feb. 10 (AP).—Three men have been arrested for speaking German in public in a police drive to ban public use of the German, Italian, and Japanese languages in the city of Joinville, dispatches reaching here today said. Joinville is in the heart of the German district in the state of Santa Catharina.

5,000 FROM N.U. SELL WAR BONDS; CALL ON ALUMNI

More Workers Adopt Pay Roll Plan.

Northwestern university students—5,000 of them—are campaigning this week for the sale of defense bonds and stamps among alumni in the Chicago area. The drive started Monday. Under the program the students will try to reach the 20,000 alumni by phone, letter, or personal visit.

At the same time the students, including many co-eds, will urge the alumni to turn over some of their defense stamps to the university in place of cash contributions. The university already has mailed stamp albums to 50,000 alumni and friends thruout the country as part of its effort to help finance the war.

Just One Phase.

The Northwestern campaign is just one phase of what the Chicago area is doing on the financial front of the war. John G. Gallaher, deputy administrator of the defense savings staff in Chicago, said yesterday that 41 more Chicago business houses have been added to the list of 100 per cent participants in the voluntary pay roll allotment plan for buying bonds. This means that every one of the 8,000 employés of the 41 companies is buying bonds.

County employés also are helping. Yesterday approximately 7,000 employés received their pay checks for the second half of January with a total deduction of $26,875 for the purchase of bonds.

Employés of the Chicago office of the state department of finance recently pledged to put 4.25 per cent of their salary into bonds, but purchases in January of $7,138 showed that they are buying at an 8 per cent rate.

Buy $5,000 Worth of Bonds.

Employés of the William Wrigley Jr. company, thru their credit union, yesterday bought $5,000 worth of bonds. Local 777 of the Taxicab Drivers union pledged that its 6,000 members each will contribute $1.25 to $1.50 a week for bonds. The Chicago Denmark committee pledged to sell $1,000,000 worth of bonds, and the Jewish American International Workers' order promised to make a house to house call in Jewish communities promoting bond sales.

The Federal Reserve bank has sold $608,945,000 worth of bonds since May 1, Alfred T. Sihler, vice president, reported.

WITNESS TELLS HOW DESTROYER SANK A JAP SUB

San Francisco, Cal., Feb. 10 [Special].—The 12th naval district today released an eyewitness account of the sinking of a Japanese submarine by an American destroyer in the Pacific ocean. No date or location was specified in the report, written by a public relations officer aboard a destroyer convoying 22 freighters and transports.

The submarine was sighted at lunch time, apparently long before it was aware of a destroyer in the vicinity. The American ship attempted to ram the undersea craft, but the latter crash dived and escaped the thrust. The destroyer then dropped about a dozen depth charges. Eventually air bubbles and patches of oil slick brought from the destroyer's men the comment: "There's another one for the fishes."

A GIANT BULWARK AGAINST THE AXIS —SOUTH AMERICA

The colored map on the back page shows the continent of South America, which in recent weeks has demonstrated its loyalty to the cause of the democracies against the axis.

Of the 10 republics of South America, all but two—Argentina and Chile—officially have severed diplomatic relations with the axis. In Chile's election on Feb. 1 a prodemocracy ticket headed by Juan A. Rios for president won by a landslide vote. This, it is believed, soon will bring Chile into the ranks of those countries which have broken relations with Germany, Italy, and Japan.

Already Argentina and Chile have pledged to cut business relations with the axis, to keep a watch for fifth column activities, to bar war materiels from going to the enemies of the democracies, and to conduct themselves so as to tend to end totalitarian influence in South America for all practical purposes.

Timetable of Anti-axis Moves.

The chronological order of South American moves directed at the axis follow:

Dec. 7, 1941—Peru declared solidarity with the United States.

Dec. 8—Colombia severed relations with Japan. Brazil proclaimed solidarity with the United States. Bolivia announced it considered all American nations as nonbelligerents.

Dec. 9—Argentina, Uruguay, and Venezuela declared the United States a nonbelligerent. Ecuador proclaimed solidarity with the United States.

Dec. 10—Paraguay and Chile declared solidarity with the United States.

Jan. 24, 1942—Peru severed relations with all three axis powers.

Jan. 25—Uruguay and Paraguay broke relations with axis powers.

Jan. 28—Brazil and Bolivia severed relations with axis nations.

Jan. 29—Ecuador broke relations with the axis.

Jan. 30—Venezuela broke relations with the axis.

Many Axis Nationals There.

Sometime after Dec. 7 Colombia broke relations with Italy and Germany, since on Jan. 31 it was listed among the nations which had severed relations with all the axis powers.

Among the South American republics are more than 2,250,000 nationals of the axis countries. The populations of the republics, with the number of their German, Italian, and Japanese citizens as given by the Associated Press, are shown in the following table:

Country.	Population.	German	Italian	Japanese nationals
Argentina	13,318,320	59,415	780,000	2,600
Bolivia	3,426,296	13,000	500.	200
Brazil	43,246,931	45,000	1,000,000	145,000
Chile	5,000,782	20,000	12,000	900
Colombia	9,334,392	2,977	1,440	206
Ecuador	3,200,000	1,173	626	16
Paraguay	1,000,000	10,000	5,600	25
Peru	7,000,000	2,122	7,618	22,728
Uruguay	2,146,545	6,000	100,000	20
Venezuela	3,491,159	3,000	1,500	20

These figures do not include residents of German, Italian, and Japanese descent. This group totals more than 6,000,000.

Brazil Bigger Than U. S.

The South American republics range from the smallest, Uruguay, with 72,153 square miles, to Brazil, with 3,275,510 square miles. Brazil covers an area somewhat larger than the continental United States.

Principal exports of the South American nations are: Argentina, cereals, meats, and flaxseed; Bolivia, tin, silver, and tungsten; Brazil, coffee, cotton, and cocoa; Chile, nitrate and copper; Colombia, coffee, oil, and gold; Ecuador, coffee, cacao, and oil; Paraguay, cotton and quebracho; Peru, oil, cotton, and copper; Uruguay, meats and flaxseed, and Venezuela, oil and coffee.

ARMY TANK DRIVER FROM CHICAGO KILLED IN PHILIPPINES BATTLE

Charles A. Heuel.

Private Charles A. Heuel, 20 years old, a tank driver with the United States army in the Philippines, was killed Feb. 3, according to an official war department notice received by his sister, Mrs. Marie McKevett, of 4601 North Marmora avenue. Private Heuel was a graduate of Washington High school. He leaves three sisters in addition to Mrs. McKevett, and three brothers. One of the latter, Harvey, is in the army air corps. Memorial services will be held at 7 a. m., Feb. 28, in Queen of Angels church.

422,000 ENLIST IN CANADIAN ARMY, NAVY, AIR FORCE

OTTAWA, Ont., Feb. 10 [Special].—Out of a total population of 11½ millions, 422,000 Canadians have enlisted in the army, the navy, and the air force for service anywhere and by March 1943, it is planned to have a total armed force of between 595,000 and 615,000 men, Col. James L. Ralston, defense minister, stated in parliament today.

At the same time, he hinted that in securing fuller development of Canada's program of providing food, weapons, and armed forces for the British empire, there must be a further mobilization of man and woman power. Ralston said that "there is much to be done in the way of directing the citizens of Canada toward the task where they can serve best. This . . . is to be supplemented by much more comprehensive measures."

The government soon may seek to apply the compulsory powers of national selective service to all aspects of the war effort, as well as to the military service. Training of Canadians over 35 years of age for a home defense army has been intimated.

URGE COAL USERS TO FILL BINS AND KEEP THEM FULL

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Feb. 10.—The United States Chamber of Commerce today warned of a possible coal shortage due to war-caused disruptions in labor and transportation.

Secretary of the Interior Harold L. Ickes, in a similar bulletin, said the risk is most serious in communities with anti-smoke laws restricting consumers to certain kinds and sizes of coal.

"No one knows how much longer the surplus capacity of our coal mines will be available," H. A. Gray, acting director of the Office of Solid Fuels coördination, reported to the chamber. "Indications are that the time will be short. By exercising foresight now, consumers will be able to save themselves trouble later when the full impact of the expanded war armament program has struck."

Urge Increase in Stocks.

A similar conclusion was reached by the chamber's natural resources committee. It reported:

"If anything should happen to transportation facilities, such as loss of trucks for lack of tires or congestion of the railroads; or if man power becomes short because of military service requirements; the great capacity of the bituminous coal industry could not be fully utilized. Altho there is immediately an ample supply of coal, it is essential that this supply be increased to guard against interference with production, transportation, and distribution.

"Any complacency on the part of users of bituminous coal as to future supplies should at once be replaced by determination to build up as large stocks as possible."

Ickes said that keeping the bins full will protect owners against temporary delivery stoppages. Such practices, he added, will help to relieve the mines and the transportation facilities of part of their burdens during periods of peak demands and make it less likely that shortages will occur.

NO SHORTAGE HERE.

Coal company executives last night said that Chicago is in an excellent position concerning coal reserves, and is not threatened with any shortage, so far as they can foresee at present.

Chicago has a coal surplus now, said James C. Hoskins, president of the Hoskins Coal and Dock corporation. Supplies should easily meet all normal needs for the rest of the winter, he added.

Frank Donovan, president of the Rutter Coal company and former president of the Chicago Coal Merchants' association, said reports of Chicago coal shortages are "greatly exaggerated." He declared there is enough coal available to meet even a worse situation than feared in Washington.

Transportation shortages have slowed by three days coal deliveries from West Virginia and Eastern Kentucky.

NORMANDIE FIRE NOT SABOTAGE, QUIZ INDICATES

Big Vessel Lies on Side in River Mud.

BY WILLIAM FULTON.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Prosecutor Hogan.

New York, Feb. 10.—While the burned out hull of the former French luxury liner Normandie lay on its side in 40 feet of water here today, District Attorney Frank Hogan of New York county announced the fire which raged thru the vessel yesterday was caused by carelessness.

After working all night long with 20 assistants in the examination of 70 witnesses, the New York prosecutor said late today suspicions of sabotage were unfounded. The big ocean liner was under conversion into a new naval auxiliary, renamed the U. S. S. Lafayette, when the disaster occurred.

"There is no evidence of sabotage," said Hogan. "Carelessness has served the enemy with equal effectiveness."

Supports Admiral's Theory.

Hogan's findings bore out the statement of Rear Adm. Adolphus Andrews, commanding the 3d naval district, that sparks from an acetylene torch accidentally ignited a pile of life preservers and started the blaze which soon enveloped the 83,000 ton ship, third largest vessel in the world.

One workman died in the disaster and 128 other civilian employés, sailors, and coast guardsmen were officially treated for injuries. Still others received minor injuries. There were 1,500 men aboard when the flames attacked the vessel yesterday in the middle of the afternoon.

The Normandie, her sides and superstructure painted a bluish camouflage gray, became top heavy last night with all the water pumped into the flames by fire boats and shore fire fighting apparatus. At 1:37 a. m. [Chicago time] this morning the ship went over on her side like a big, tired elephant collapsing in its waterhole.

Three decks were entirely burned out, according to naval officials. There was no official estimate on the time it would take to complete the salvage job, the largest of its kind ever attempted in marine history, and commission the ship in the navy.

Condition of Engines Vital.

The extent of the damage to the Normandie's huge boilers and engines, which generated 160,000 horse power, will be an important factor in determining the number of months it will require before the vessel can be made shipshape again.

It is expected that a navy technical board will be appointed immediately to go into the whole question of salvage operations. It took more than six months to salvage the old St. Paul, an 11,000 ton vessel converted into a troop transport, which developed a sudden leak and keeled over in her berth here on April 25, 1918.

Censorship Steps In.

The dramatic capsizing of the Normandie was also featured by considerable confusion over press censorship, and the pushing around of photographers and newspaper reporters on the dock.

During the afternoon the photographers took many shots of the blazing ship and the rescue scenes from the land and from the air, but during the evening several squads of soldiers carrying rifles barred any further picture taking.

At the same time some reporters were allowed to go onto the pier for a press conference with Adm. Andrews, while others were stopped. One reporter was told he would be shot if he proceeded.

Pictures were still taboo when the ship tipped over, but at 3 a. m. a half dozen photographers reached Adm. Andrews with their protest. The admiral then personally accompanied the photographic corps to the dock side and superintended the picture taking. These last pictures had to be submitted to the navy for censorship, however, before they were released.

Observers generally regarded the confused situation as an example of lack of coöperation or coördination between the army and navy authorities.

Blames Sparks from Torch.

District Attorney Hogan, in discussing his investigation, scouted the theories of sabotage as of "crackpot" origin and revealed that all the witnesses were in substantial agreement that the fire had started when the sparks from an acetylene torch bounced back into a pile of life preservers which were wrapped in burlap material.

The fuzzy nap on the burlap flared up so quickly that nearby workmen were powerless to extinguish the flames and had difficulty in escaping with their lives.

Immediately the fire began, the 20 to 25 men who were near by tried to stamp out the flames. Asked whether this might not have resulted in spreading the fire thru sparks—whether it was not a case of inexperienced handling making a fire worse—Hogan said that he did not believe so, that even if there had been a fire engine on the dock, he doubted whether anything more effective could have been done.

Hogan said he and his assistants had questioned coast guardsmen and civilians at the dock, in hospitals, and at his office almost from the time the fire was discovered. He said that there had been talk of sabotage, but that it all came down to distinctly vague reports such as somebody's having heard another worker remark: "This ship will never leave port."

Washington, D. C., Feb. 10 (AP).—William S. Knudsen, production chief for the war department, wore his lieutenant general's uniform to work for the first time today. Knudsen, former director general of the office of production management, was given the "three star" rank by President Roosevelt when transferred to the war department job.

COURT REVERSES CONVICTION OF 3 ELECTION JUDGES

The Illinois Appellate court yesterday reversed the conviction by County Judge Edmund K. Jarecki of three officials of the 53d precinct of the 11th ward on charges of election fraud allegedly committed during the April, 1939, primary.

The three are Albert Ferro, 28 years old, a Democratic judge, and Frank Guinta and Mary Segvich, 27, Republican judges. Miss Segvich was fined $1,500 and the men given two year county jail sentences by Judge Jarecki. Their appeal was based on the charge that ballots which were tampered with were so treated after they placed them in the hands of the board of election commissioners.

The decision, written by Justice Kickham Scanlan and concurred in by Justices Hugo Friend and John J. Sullivan, said that "the protection of the ballot boxes does not require that election officials who have not been proved guilty of misconduct be punished."

EX-BACKERS HIT LA GUARDIA RAID ON CIVIL SERVICE

New York, Feb. 10 [Special].—The Citizens union, long a supporter of Mayor Fiorello La Guardia, today protested against his threatened dismissal of President Paul J. Kern and Wallace S. Sayre from the municipal civil service commission as "a shocking attack on the merit system."

The group announced it would institute court action to restore the two to office if they are dropped. The mayor, after a hearing yesterday on charges of unbecoming conduct, reserved decision on their ouster. The Citizens union took issue with La Guardia's charge of insubordination, which he dropped yesterday, contending that civil service commissioners are expected to be independent and not subordinate to the mayor. The statement called his view "a misapprehension of the scope of his authority."

Cepak Leads for Trustee in Primary at Cicero

Edward Cepak, organization candidate for trustee on the Democratic ticket, rolled up 6,408 votes yesterday in the Cicero primary. His nearest opponent was Rudolph Krejci, a trustee for the last four years, who had the backing of President George Stedronsky. Krejci received 1,803 votes. The third Democratic candidate, with no organized backing, was Miles Wrodek, who got 135 votes. Albert Kapsa, only Republican candidate for the job, received 881 ballots.

BARE RECORDS OF WITNESSES OPPOSING DIES

House Members Question Foes of Committee.

BY WILLIAM STRAND.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Feb. 10.—A number of opponents of the Dies committee on un-American activities who are fighting to have its searching investigations discontinued were revealed today before the house rules committee as being associated with organizations widely regarded as communist front.

The revelations resulted from close questioning by the rules committee of witnesses appearing against a pending resolution which would extend the life of the Dies committee until Jan. 3, 1943. Consideration by the rules committee is the last routine legislative step necessary to bring the measure to the house floor where its passage seems assured.

A year ago the vote was overwhelmingly in favor of continuing the Dies investigations and was regarded as a thumping indorsement of the work of Chairman Martin Dies [D., Tex.] by his colleagues.

Bares Un-American Activities.

Sensational exposure of communist and Fascist organizations at work to overthrow the United States have resulted from the inquiries by the Dies group. Last week details of a "yellow paper" revealing Japanese activities in this country before Pearl Harbor were made known and disclosed for the first time that 8,000 Jap spies have been active in laying the groundwork for the present war.

Witnesses critical of Dies who testified at today's rules committee session unexpectedly found themselves telling about their own past careers when they completed their attacks upon the Texan. The committee insisted upon knowing what activities the witnesses have been engaged in that would give them an interest in the committee on un-American activities.

Dies, a member of the rules committee, listened attentively to the testimony but, because of his personal interest in the proceedings, took no hand in the questioning. Later he contented himself with opening his files to show the records of those who had appeared against him.

Brotherhood Member Appears.

Martin H. Miller, who described himself as the legislative representative for the Brotherhood of Railway Trainmen, had told the committee that he was directed to speak against the Dies committee by A. F. Whitney, the president of the organization. Under questioning by Rep. Hamilton Fish [R., N. Y.], Miller admitted that he could not pretend to speak for all members of the brotherhood as there had been no meeting of the membership or any general instructions for him to appear.

Dies' records show that Whitney has been identified with a dozen organizations or activities which the committee investigators term communist front, including the International Labor Defense, which is recognized as the legal arm of the communist party.

Contributor to Red Magazine.

The committee records also disclosed that Whitney has been a contributor to the magazine Champion, the official magazine for the Young Communist league, and in 1938 was a speaker before the Philadelphia peoples' forum of the communist party.

Miller read into the record a letter written by Whitney in which the latter charged that the Dies committee is one of the authorities frequently quoted by axis propagandists in short wave radio broadcasts. According to the letter, this was the finding of the radio monitoring section of the Federal Communications system.

It was recalled that the chief analyst for the FCC in its monitoring of radio broadcasts is Goodwin Watson, who has been assailed on the floor of the house as another closely identified with a number of communist front organizations.

House Votes to Bar Pay.

His record occupies a quarter of a page in the Congressional Record and shows his associations with such groups as the American Congress for Peace and Democracy, American Student union, Coördinating Committee to Lift the Embargo, International Workers Order, and Work Camps for America.

Dies investigators found also that Watson signed an open letter to President Roosevelt in 1940 protesting attacks on the right of the communist party to use the ballot, and in 1941 signed a statement to the President defending the communist party.

Before approving the independent offices appropriation bill, now pending before the senate, the house adopted an amendment specifying that none of the FCC funds could be used to pay Watson's $5,600 a year salary.

Socialist Churchman Appears.

Another witness who assailed the Dies committee was Charles C. Webber, who identified himself as executive secretary of the National Methodist Council of Social Services. Pressed to tell more about himself, he admitted membership in the Civil Liberties union, and said he was formerly a member of the American Labor party and the American League for Peace and Democracy.

"Are you a socialist?" was the blunt question of Rep. E. E. Cox [D., Ga.].

"Not now, but I used to be," replied Webber, squirming.

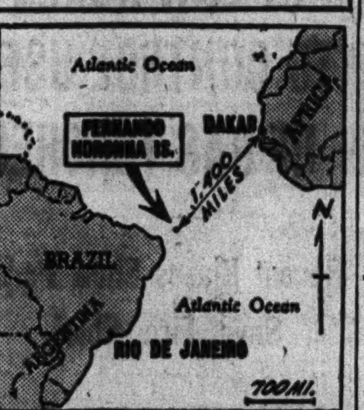
"I don't think there is so much danger from communism now as there used to be," interposed Rep. A. J. Sabath [D., Ill.].

"Don't fool yourself," snapped Cox, silencing Sabath, who was not heard from again.

Dies committee records listed five organizations regarded as communist affiliates with which Webber has been identified and none of which he mentioned to the rules committee.

The rules committee will continue its hearings tomorrow.

Defense Move



Location of island declared Brazilian federal territory yesterday

RIO DE JANEIRO, Brazil, Feb. 10 (AP).—The Fernando Noronha archipelago, northeast of the great Brazilian hump, was declared federal territory today by presidential decree as the nation strengthened itself against possible attack. A decree transferred the island and nearby rocks from the state of Pernambuco to the federal administration "in the interests of national defense."

The volcanic islands are 125 miles off the coast of Brazil and almost in a direct line with Vichy held Dakar in Africa, only 1,400 miles away. Gen. Francisco Gil Castello Blanco, veteran of 39 years of army service, was named commander of the enlarged garrison.

Undoubtedly, the government hopes to prevent any attempt by the axis, with which it severed relations last month, to use the islands as a stepping stone for an assault on Brazil by air or sea. Several harbors, defended by forts, are in the archipelago. The islands also are used as a penal colony.

Lieut. Franklin Undergoes Operation for Appendicitis

New York, Feb. 10 (AP).—Naval Lieut. Franklin D. Roosevelt Jr. underwent an operation for appendicities today in the United States Naval hospital in Brooklyn. Capt. G. E. Robertson, officer in command of the hospital, said the operation, performed by Commander H. A. D. O'Connor, was successful and that Roosevelt's condition was "very satisfactory."

LA GUARDIA QUITS AS DIRECTOR OF CIVILIAN DEFENSE

James Landis Takes Post with Full Authority.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Feb. 10.—President Roosevelt today accepted the resignation of Mayor Fiorello La Guardia of New York as director of the Office of Civilian Defense as a senate appropriations subcommittee prepared to explore the realm of rhythmic dancing.

James M. Landis, former dean of the Harvard law school, who was named executive of the unit at the time La Guardia's régime first came under sustained criticism, was named sole director of OCD. His decisions, the President said, will be final.

Nothing was said by the President concerning the criticism of Mrs. Eleanor Roosevelt's activities as co-director of OCD—revelations that Mrs. Roosevelt has made the federal defense unit a rendezvous of her protéges, such as dancers, movie actors, and suspected or confirmed fellow travelers.

Seeks White House Cover.

These disclosures in the house last week gave the capital and the nation some of its most interesting reading in weeks. Mrs. Roosevelt has retired to the White House from which she indicated she intends to fight her critics.

After a press conference yesterday in which she encountered a barrage of questions from men reporters, Mrs. Roosevelt announced she would hold no more conferences in the Office of Civilian Defense, but would resume her former practice of meeting the ladies of the press at the White House.

Mrs. Roosevelt referred questions relating to accusations made against her conduct of office to Landis, or sidestepped them by stating she would have nothing to say until after she had met her congressional accusers face to face.

No Pay for Services.

La Guardia did not draw a salary as head of OCD, because he was being paid as mayor of New York. His tenure of the two posts drew blasts of criticism for not performing either task well.

Technically La Guardia did not resign, as he never was appointed formally to the post. Because of a quirk in the New York state law, which he felt barred acceptance of such an appointment, La Guardia was drafted to serve as OCD co-director, Mr. Roosevelt said. La Guardia merely asked to be released from this draft.

4 FLYING CADETS KILLED WHEN 5 TRAINERS CRASH

Phoenix, Ariz., Feb. 10 (AP).—Four air corps cadets were killed and a fifth parachuted to safety when five training planes crashed in a blinding rainstorm near Hachita, N. M., last night.

Lieut. Col. O. R. Deering, public relations officer at Luke field, said the dead were: Earl Buster Fritz, 24, Owen, Wis.; Fay Edward Book, 23, Sterling, Ill.; Walter S. Beamer, 28, Lansing, Mich., and Charlie B. Coates, 24, Lubbock, Tex. Thomas A. Bohr, 23, Columbus, O., saved himself by taking to his parachute when his ship became unmanageable.

The wrecked planes of Cadets Fritz and Book were found early today. Those flown by Beamer and Coates were located by an aerial searching party in late afternoon. They had crashed about eight miles apart.

The cadets were en route from Luke field to El Paso, Tex., on a routine night training flight.

Missouri Crash Kills Two.

Blue Springs, Mo., Feb. 10 (AP).—An army observation training plane from Sherman field, Fort Leavenworth, Kas., crashed into a vacant lot 100 yards from Main street late today, killing Lieut. Boyd V. Mann, 30, of Olathe, Kas., and Lieut. N. R. Meek, address unavailable.

REP. M'KEOUGH HITS EDITORIAL IN THE TRIBUNE

Takes Attack in House on Col. McCormick.

Washington, D. C., Feb. 10 (AP).—Rep. Raymond S. McKeough [D., Ill.] today denounced an editorial appearing in THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE and charged the publisher of the paper, Col. Robert R. McCormick, with treason.

McKeough read into the house record the editorial which he said contended that it was "time that those who willed the war were driven from their hiding places to the front line where they can share the agony which they created."

Tries His Interpretation.

Asserting that the editorial constituted an inferential attack upon President Roosevelt, McKeough told the house:

"I say that, in any other place, under these circumstances, THE TRIBUNE editorial would have no proper place in the high field and splendid service the newspapers of our country are rendering; but now that we are at war I challenge Col. McCormick's patriotism, and I say that that language, at this time, makes him subject, at least to thinking people, as being guilty of treason, and I so charge him.

"I hope his conduct will not be an example for the other newspapers of our country to follow, but on the contrary, that they will live up to their high traditions and protect their sacred rights of freedom of the press by not resorting to license, vilification and the giving of comfort to the enemies of our government in Berlin, Tokio, and Rome."

Expands His Charges.

"It may have been perfectly defensible, I presume," McKeough said at another point, "in the eyes of Col. McCormick, prior to Pearl Harbor, to have satisfied his vanity, his great partisanship—yes, his hate of the commander in chief of our country's forces in the person of the President of the United States, Franklin Delano Roosevelt."

"But," he added, "I submit that this language appearing in a great newspaper—at least great from the standpoint of circulation, and I use the word great because of its circulation, and not because of any contribution that it has made to the welfare and progress and security of our beloved country . . . falls within the pastel shades of treason."

With the country at war, McKeough said that he had hoped that "even tho Col. McCormick hated President Roosevelt," the colonel would "first of all remember that he was an American."

TEXT OF EDITORIAL

Following is the text of the editorial to which McKeough referred:

PRIVATE RICHARD GRAFF.

"Private Richard Graff, who was killed while fighting with Gen. MacArthur's forces in the Philippines, is the first of The Tribune family to die in action in this war. He had been with us for nearly 11 years when he enlisted a year ago last month.

"We mourn the loss of a conscientious co-worker, of a friend, of a gallant soldier. He will not be forgotten. THE TRIBUNE will honor his memory and, of course, will take whatever steps may be necessary to see that the widow is spared financial worry.

"Richard Graff, and like him, almost every other man who has given his life for his country in this war, had no part in the making of it. He did not will it. He did nothing to instigate it. He did not go roaring up and down the country shouting for blood. He was no war monger.

"It is a striking fact, which at this moment cannot be forgotten, that it is men like Graff who are facing the enemy today, risking their lives for their flag, while the war mongers remain comfortably and happily in places of security. It is time that those who willed the war were driven from their hiding places and sent to the front where they can share some of the agony they have created.

"Richard Graff was not afraid to face privation, suffering, and death. He was no night club hero. A volunteer, he sought no comfortable berth as a navy press agent on Broadway or as a state department cooky pusher in Washington. He played a man's part. Let the others dare as he did or live and die in disgrace."

BROOKS TO SPEAK BEFORE SHRINERS IN CITY TODAY

Sen. Wayland Brooks will address the Shrine club of Chicago in Hotel Sherman today, upon his return from Peoria, where he talked last night before the Peoria District council of the Boy Scouts. Tonight he will meet with members of his class at the Oriental Consistory, after which he will leave for Detroit, Mich., for a Lincoln day speech tomorrow.

Friday night the senator will address the Howard District Business Men's association in the Edgewater Beach hotel. His Saturday schedule takes him back to Peoria to speak at the annual Lincoln Memorial banquet sponsored by the Peoria Bar association.

KATE O'CONNOR.

Miss Kate O'Connor of 240 East Delaware place, who has been in charge of supervision of the Illinois minimum wage law for women and minors since 1934, has accepted a new position with the federal wage and hour division in Chicago, it was learned yesterday.

Miss O'Connor is special regional representative in charge of women's and children's labor laws, and in that post acts as liaison officer between the division and state governments, employers and employés.

A native of Rockford, Ill., Miss O'Connor was the first person to be named head of the state minimum wage division after enactment of the law regarding women and children. She was a pioneer in the movement for women's suffrage. For 16 years she was deputy clerk of the County court of Winnebago county.

AWAIT COURTNEY DECISION SOON IN SENATORIAL RACE

Old Horner Organization Whips Up Sentiment.

BY PERCY WOOD.

State's Attorney Courtney is expected to give an answer within a few days to the many downstate Democratic leaders, plus some party workers in Chicago, who have been importuning him to run for the senatorial nomination against Congressman Raymond S. McKeough, choice of the Nash-Kelly organization. The impression among some of his friends is that he will make the race.

Factional sentiment in the prosecutor's behalf is being whipped up among those who formed the framework of the old Horner organization, which twice took the Chicago organization's measure in primaries. The spearhead of this movement appears to be former Congressman James T. Igoe, who has been an insurgent for several years and was given much credit for organizing the Horner organization in 1936 when the late governor gave the machine one of its infrequent trouncings.

Calls McKeough Third Rater.

"This fellow McKeough is a third rate candidate," Igoe said yesterday. "If a firm wanted a man for a big job, would they hire an errand boy? The party leaders made a fatal mistake when they picked him, because Courtney is the man. My phone is ringing constantly with messages from those who headed the Horner organization downstate, and some Chicago workers as well, who have been imploring Courtney to run.

"They want Courtney to come downstate for a meeting, so they can show him how strong is the sentiment in his behalf."

It was learned that petitions circulated in Courtney's behalf last Friday at a meeting of downstate Democratic leaders, county chairmen, and legislators have been mailed to him, with bundles of pledge cards signed in downstate counties. Courtney is known to be impressed by this mounting stack, and was quoted by friends as saying it was doubly significant because it was unsolicited.

Prepare for Discipline.

As the Democrats heard more and more of the possibility that Courtney would become a candidate, it was reported that steps were being taken to discipline any ward committeemen who might leave McKeough for Courtney.

In this connection, it was said that petitions bearing a name other than Clayton F. Smith for president of the Cook county board were ready for circulation, as well as others which did not include the name of Commissioner Harry E. Perry. Both men supported Courtney when he ran against Mayor Kelly in 1939.

Former State Rep. Benjamin S. Adamowski is still in the senatorial picture, with a desire to run, but undecided on his course. He was mentioned for the nomination for congressman at large by several of the crowd in Springfield.

LAKE COUNTY'S HOSPITAL HEADS QUITTING JULY 1

The Lake county board of supervisors, meeting yesterday in Waukegan, accepted the resignations of Doctors Charles Lieber and Karl M. Beck, who have been joint superintendents of the County General hospital since last July. The physicians, who practice together, said that with their private patients the work was too heavy. Dr. Lieber became superintendent in 1921 and either he or Dr. Beck had the post each year until the joint arrangement was made. The post pays $5,000 a year. The resignments take effect next July 1.

Gen. Frank, acting as the representative of President Roosevelt, made the presentation in his office before a few high officers and friends of the Niningers.

SCOUTS LAUDED BY ROOSEVELT FOR WAR TASKS

Washington, D. C., Feb. 10 (AP).—President Roosevelt, in his annual message to the Boy Scouts of America, tonight said that Scout training had been of "heartening" aid in organizing the armed forces. His message was read by Vice President Henry Wallace in a broadcast marking Boy Scout week on the Scouts' 32d anniversary.

Americans must "meet their responsibilities to our youth . . . by providing training programs that will help equip the present generation to cope with life's problems in the difficult days ahead," the President said. "Much more will be asked of the Boy Scout as we go forward with our program to preserve our liberty and to bring peace on earth thru complete victory over our enemies."

PLAQUE IS GIVEN DOG FOR SAVING NINE LIVES IN FIRE

Tuffy, a 1 year old mongrel dog, received a plaque from the Anti-Cruelty society yesterday for saving the lives of nine persons when fire started Jan. 14 in the home of Christopher Eck at 6918 Windsor avenue, Berwyn. Tuffy awakened Mrs. Eck, who aroused her husband and the seven other members of the family.

All fled to safety except Eck's daughter-in-law, Mrs. Alvin Eck, and her two children, Alvin Jr., 2 years old, and Melvin, 14. They were rescued from the roof by firemen.

Louis Krueger, an investigator for the Anti-Cruelty society, presented the plaque to Tuffy in the family home.

CITY LAW ASKED TO CONTROL USE OF GAS TORCHES

Recent Blazes Show Peril, Says Fire Chief.

Use of acetylene or gasoline torches, frequent causes of disastrous fires, should be regulated by city ordinance, Fire Commissioner Michael J. Corrigan said yesterday in announcing that he will ask the council to make such an addition to the city code.

Corrigan in making known his intention of seeking control of torch uses, noted that the fire which virtually destroyed the French liner Normandie at its Hudson river pier, in New York City, was started by an acetylene torch, that a torch started a $250,000 fire in a government warehouse a few weeks ago and that a blaze which caused damage in the Morrison hotel Monday was caused in the same manner.

Time for Regulation.

"Last year," he said, "99 fires were attributed to the use of these torches near inflammable matter. It's time we regulated their use."

Fire Attorney Earl Downs said investigation of Chicago's two major fires of Monday—the Kenwood Garden apartments, 5519 Kenwood avenue, and St. Paul's Union church, 9354 South Winchester avenue—showed both had started from overheated furnaces.

The commissioner discounted reports about the failure of hoses and frozen fireplugs in connection with the Monday fires.

One Hydrant Failure.

Corrigan said that, contrary to reports, only one fireplug in the neighborhood of the church fire failed to work. He said an employé of the city water department was at this plug when the first fire equipment arrived, that he informed firemen, who went to another hydrant.

Corrigan said he was surprised that breaks occurred in only four 50-foot lengths of hose with 30,000 feet in use. Such breaks, he added, are normal.

Chief Fire Marshal Anthony J. Mullaney said the National Underwriters consider five years the life of fire hose; that the city's hose lasts an average of 7.65 years and passes inspection twice yearly. Department policy requires replacement of 10 per cent of the hose yearly. Last year $30,000 was spent for new hose and $29,000 worth has been ordered for 1942.

Americanism Week Proclaimed by Mayor

Mayor Kelly yesterday proclaimed the period from tomorrow to Feb. 22, inclusive, as Americanism week, annually sponsored by the Junior Association of Commerce of Chicago. The campaign has for its slogan, "Americanism Is Your Birthright—Protect It." The purpose is to make citizens and future citizens conscious of their government's functions and to emphasize the advantages of democracy.

U. S. INTERESTED IN A 25 ACRE FARM AT $500,000

Tract Would Extend Arlington.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Feb. 10.—The house military affairs committee today ordered a favorable report on a senate approved bill authorizing the President to acquire an abandoned 25 acre farm adjoining Arlington cemetery, for which the government may have to pay $750,000, or $30,000 an acre.

In former years land in this area, which is across the Potomac from the District of Columbia, sold for as little as $5 an acre, real estate men said. Its value has risen with the rapid expansion of the capital but the asking price of $750,000 fixed by the present owners was said by some to be grossly excessive. This view was disputed by government officials, who told the committee that the property, if acquired for between $300,000 and $500,000, was worth the money.

Asking Price Boosted.

The property, on which it was once planned to build a large apartment hotel, is wanted by the government for extension of the cemetery. During the war, however, it would be used for other purposes, such as a site for a temporary government building, a dormitory to house war workers, or barracks for soldiers.

Thomas S. Settle, secretary of the national capital park and planning commission, expressed belief the property might be acquired for between $300,000 and $500,000, altho the owners had jumped the "asking price" from $500,000 to $750,000 in the last two years.

Chairman Andrew J. May [D., Ky.] told newspaper men following committee approval of the legislation he believed the price paid for the 25 acres could be controled by the house appropriations committee which has not yet approved funds for its acquisition.

Former U. S. Aid Is Owner.

The bill gives the President authority to acquire the property either by purchase or condemnation.

Present principal owners, according to Settle, are Col. Clarence O. Sherrill, city manager of Cincinnati and former director of the office of public buildings and public parks of the national capital, and Mr. and Mrs. A. M. Nevius. He identified Nevius as a former vice president of Riggs National bank.

Settle said the present owners acquired the property 19 years ago.

FSA ADMITS PLAN TO COLLECTIVIZE ALL U. S. FARMS

End of Large Holdings Part of Scheme.

BY CHESLY MANLY.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Donald Kirkpatrick

Washington, D. C., Feb. 10.—A long range program to collectivize agriculture in the communist Russian fashion was attributed to the Farm Security administration at today's hearing of the joint congressional committee on nonessential federal expenditures.

The program calls for exercising the power of eminent domain to break up large land holdings into family type farms, acquisition of government title to "as much land as possible" and expansion as rapidly as possible of coöperative farm leasing and purchasing associations.

Revealed by Chicagoan.

An outline of the revolutionary farm program was presented to the joint committee by Donald Kirkpatrick of Chicago, general counsel of the American Farm Bureau Federation. Kirkpatrick said it was submitted confidentially to regional officials of the FSA at a meeting in Columbus, O., in May, 1941.

C. B. Baldwin, FSA administrator, acknowledged that the outline of long-range farm objectives was prepared by officials in his agency but said it was intended only as a "basis of discussion." Baldwin added, however, that he firmly supported the principles of the suggested program.

Sen. Walter F. George [D., Ga.], said it would be fair to assume that the document represents "the philosophy of the FSA."

Federation Under Fire.

The FSA has been accused of sundry abuses of authority and misuses of government funds by the farm bureau federation. At today's hearing friends of the FSA turned the tables on the federation, which was accused of using the check-off system to force farmers in the south to pay membership dues from AAA benefit payments. Sen. Robert M. La Follette [Prog., Wis.] read a letter from John A. Boutwell, chairman of the agriculture committee of the Mississippi house of representatives, which accused the federation of coercing farmers by means of the check-off system.

Edward A. O'Neal, president of the federation, did not deny that such abuses have occurred, but he insisted that the federation "has never approved the check-off system."

O'Neal asserted that the secretary of agriculture, Claude Wickard, is more meticulous as regards the check-off than Secretary of the Navy Frank Knox. He charged that the navy secretary permits AFL and CIO unions to use the check-off system in collecting dues from workmen employed on government projects.

Roosevelt Defends FSA.

At his press conference today President Roosevelt defended the FSA.

Mr. Roosevelt strongly opposed the recommendation of the joint congressional committee, headed by Sen. Harry F. Byrd [D., Va.], that the FSA be abolished.

Mr. Roosevelt also declared that the Farm Bureau federation should not be permitted to collect dues out of government benefit payments to farmers.

At the hearing today, Sen. Kenneth McKellar [D., Tenn.] directed attention to the presence of Gardner Jackson and ascertained for the record that this veteran revolutionary is back on the pay roll of the department of agriculture. Jackson and five other radical protégés of Prof. Rexford Guy Tugwell were purged from the department by Chester Davis, then AAA administrator, in 1934. For several years thereafter Jackson was a lobbyist for the CIO. Today he identified himself for Sen. McKellar as a special assistant to the undersecretary of agriculture.

110 Men to Be Called to Police School Monday

Police Commissioner James P. Allman yesterday asked the civil service commission to supply 110 men from the patrolmen's eligible list. They will report to the police training school Monday. Allman said that so far the police department has lost 70 men to the armed services and 20 more are expected to go this month.

Volunteer Worker

[TRIBUNE Photo.]

Mrs. Dwight H. Green, wife of Illinois governor, as volunteer worker at state council of defense headquarters.

Gov. Dwight H. Green yesterday made an inspection tour of the Chicago headquarters of the Illinois State Council of Defense at 188 West Randolph street. He expressed satisfaction with the manner in which the defense work is being carried out. Mrs. Green, who accompanied him, served as receptionist at the headquarters.

Gov. Green said he has asked Attorney General George F. Barrett to study the legality of possible legislation to enable Illinois men in military service to vote. He indicated that another special session of the legislature would be called, but not before the April 14 primary.

Members of local defense organizations in the 6th corps area will attend a war department defense school at Texas A. & M. college in College Station, Tex., for instructions in handling incendiary and other types of bombs. The course, starting Feb. 22, will last two weeks. This arrangement will continue until the war department has established a chemical school here.

Some 300 air raid wardens will participate tomorrow in an experimental air raid drill in the Field building at 135 South La Salle street.

URGE A UNIFORM POLICY ON FARM HANDS IN DRAFT

Inductions Peril Food Crops, Say Senators.

Washington, D. C., Feb. 10 (AP).—Adoption of a national policy for the deferment of military service for essential farm labor was proposed today by Senators George W. Norris [Ind., Neb.] and Gerald P. Nye [R., N. D.], who said a growing shortage of agricultural workers threatens to curtail the nation's food supply.

Norris suggested that the selective service system adopt general rules which would impel local draft boards to defer men whose services are necessary to maintain farm output. He said lack of a fixed policy of this nature has resulted in the induction into the army of many men whose contribution to the war effort would have been much greater if they had remained on the farm.

Confers with Hershey.

Nye said he had called this problem to the attention of Brig. Gen. Lewis B. Hershey, director of selective service.

Local boards now are operating under a general memorandum sent to state directors on Dec. 4, four days before war was declared.

The selective service is prohibited by law from making any group deferments, but Nye said he believed the situation could be relieved by adoption of uniform rules which local boards could apply to all draftees drawn from farms.

Criticize Movie Order.

There was some criticism in congress of an order by Gen. Hershey citing the making of motion pictures as an essential morale building activity and permitting the deferment of actors, directors, writers, producers, and technicians.

Sen. Burton K. Wheeler [D., Mont.] said he could think of a great many people whose deferment was more important than that of movie actors. Rep. August H. Andresen [R., Minn.] told the house that if motion picture workers are to be exempted, farm labor certainly ought to be."

WAR IS EXPECTED TO FURTHER CUT LIVING STANDARD

Henderson Favors More Civilian Curbs.

costs of 9.8 per cent in the last year has exceeded increased wages. Henderson's reported position is that wage increases for organized labor tend to increase prices, penalizing consumers who are not members of organized labor.

Henderson is said to have warned the board that all efforts are needed to combat inflation. Rather than wage increases, the price administrator is reported to have argued that the nation's general purchasing power must be cut, possibly by higher taxes or compulsory savings.

80 Per Cent of Goods for War.

The Department of Commerce analysis, continuing, said that 80 per cent of the durable goods produced in America this year will be for war purposes compared with 35 per cent last year.

"Consumers will not complain about any necessary lowering of their standard of living due to war measures," reads the department release, "but they will complain if their sacrifice is not rewarded by success in arms output and if a needless inflation is permitted to take an extra slice off their allotment of goods and services."

The overall industrial output this year is expected by government experts to exceed 1941 by 15 per cent. Last year there was a gain of 27 per cent over 1940. The increase, however, is almost exclusively for war. Less will be made to feed, shelter, and clothe the civilian population.

Complete Mobilization Needed.

Aircraft production will employ three times as much labor as last year, accounting for a third of the increase in the total output. The machinery industry, including ordnance, aircraft engines, and other weapons, accounts for another third of the gain. Shipbuilding accounts for a sixth of the gain.

"War output schedules are so high," reads the Department of Commerce announcement, "that they can be attained only by complete mobilization of the national economy. It is essential that appropriate direct and sweeping actions should be taken with speed and firmness.

All Must Fit in Scheme.

"The fundamentals requisite to this end remain unchanged: To produce or import the necessary raw materials; to eliminate wherever necessary competition for materials, men, and machines by nonessential industries; to mobilize our industrial manpower at the points needed; to mobilize all facilities for producing the essential machine tools, and finally to work around the clock turning out the materials, machines, ships, and armaments.

"Total mobilization does not permit any one to indulge in such peacetime luxuries as work stoppages due to industrial disputes of any sort, or reluctance of stockholders, management of business enterprises, or workers to fit into a designated part in the wartime economy."

BAULER TO TELL GAMING ARREST TO GRAND JURORS

Wilbert F. Crowley, first assistant state's attorney, yesterday said a grand jury subpena had been served on John H. Bauler, a former alderman and brother of Ald. Matthias Bauler (43d). Bauler will appear before the grand jury Friday to give his version of his arrest last Friday in his cigar store at 1521 North Clark street on gambling charges.

His case was dismissed Monday morning by Judge Oscar S. Caplan. Police who made the arrest said apparatus in the cigar store indicated that Bauler might be accepting horse race bets.

Three police captains were called before the grand jury yesterday. They were Herbert Burns of Damen avenue station, Daniel Lynch of Town Hall, and John McGinnis of Summerdale. Crowley said they were given questionnaires concerning the ownership and leasing of all places in their districts where gambling has been reported in the last three years. Eighteen captains now are filling in such questionnaires, Crowley added.

F. D. R. LEARNS HE CAN GET $37,500 YEARLY PENSION

Dodges Question on the Repeal of Law.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Feb. 10.—President Roosevelt today disclosed that a kind friend had informed him that he is eligible to a pension of $37,500 a year under the retirement plan which members of congress recently voted themselves.

He said that if he would pay 5 per cent of his salary for a few years he could retire for $37,500 a year or half pay, which he acknowledged would be quite a dividend for the 5 per cent.

Avoids Repeal Question.

Asked if he would sign a repeal bill, Mr. Roosevelt said with a hearty laugh he would like to see how it was phrased first. The retirement bill had become law by the President's signature.

Told that many congressmen would like to find a way out in view of the criticism the act has brought them, Mr. Roosevelt said there was one good way out—not to apply for the pension.

Under the act members of congress, whose terms would expire at the end of this year, could receive substantial retirements up to $4,175 for payment of only $1.35.

Protests Pour In.

Washington, D. C., Feb. 10 (AP).—An avalanche of letters from back home, the like of which hasn't been seen on Capitol hill since the days of neutrality repeal, put the pressure of voters today behind a growing movement for repeal of the new law setting up pensions for congressmen.

Following quickly on the heels of the derisive "Bundles for Congress" movement, the outpouring of letters apparently was having noticeable results with some legislators.

Chairman Robert Ramspeck [D., Ga.] of the house civil service committee told reporters that upward of a dozen bills seeking repeal of the pension act already have been referred to his committee, but indicated no immediate action was contemplated on any.

"Unjustified" Is Retort.

Altho Ramspeck stuck to his original contention that the pensions for congressmen were justified, Rep. Frederick C. Smith [R., Ohio] assailed them as "entirely unjustified" and urged their immediate repeal.

Smith declared indignantly that unless his own repeal bill or some similar measure is sent to the house floor by Ramspeck's committee, he would circulate a petition to compel the committee to release a repealer for house consideration.

"And I haven't any doubt about getting the necessary 218 signatures to force a vote," he added.

Wants Public Record.

"I propose," he said on the floor yesterday, "to give an opportunity to each house member to make a public record of his position and to express disapproval of the clandestine manner by which the Ramspeck bill was sneaked thru the house."

Smith's bill would abolish pensions not only for members of congress but also for some 250,000 appointive officeholders he said were given pension privileges under the blanket provisions of the Ramspeck bill.

COTTAGE AT BOYS' TRAINING SCHOOL IS SWEPT BY FIRE

Fire attacked the upper sections of Cleveland cottage on the grounds of the Illinois State School for Boys near St. Charles late last night, routing 39 inmates and causing damage estimated at more than $15,000. It was said to be the largest fire in the institution's history.

The fire was discovered by Dudley Skinner, night custodian. He roused the boys, led them to the basement where they dressed, and then marched them to other houses. The school fire department, aided by firemen from St. Charles and Geneva, prevented spread.

Harold Johnson, assistant managing officer, said he believed the fire was started by a wiring defect. He praised the 39 boys for behaving in an orderly manner. None tried to escape.

NAVY WITHDRAWS POSTER AS NEGRO GROUPS PROTEST

Members of the Chicago Urban league said yesterday they had been informed that the navy department had agreed to withdraw a poster showing a large lipped Ubangi [African tribe] woman and the caption, "A slip of the lip may sink a ship."

Negro citizens in many parts of the United States had protested the poster as an affront to their race.

WPB ORDERS ALL RAW SILK STOCK BE SOLD TO U. S.

Will Buy at Ceiling or Seize Supplies.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Feb. 10.—In its first all inclusive requisition, the war production board today ordered all silk processors in America to arrange to sell their raw silk supplies to the government within 48 hours. The material is urgently needed for parachutes, for an air force of 2 million men.

According to a WPB spokesman, this spells the end of silk processing for civilian consumption for the duration of the war—no more for silk hosiery, underthings, neckties and the like. There will be no repetition of the "silk shirt era" of the last war when with inflated wages laborers indulged in finery. In the first World war, Japan, the great silk producer, was America's ally.

Demands All Raw Silk.

"Government requires for war production all raw silk in the United States," read a telegram addressed to 146 processors by the WPB. "Unless you arrange to sell your entire holdings of raw silk to Defense Supplies corporation at ceiling [government fixed] prices within next 48 hours, we will requisition your inventory."

Donald M. Nelson, chief of the WPB, explained these requisitioning powers informally at a luncheon a few weeks ago.

"The government can back its truck into your warehouse," he told a group from Illinois "and haul away what it needs. It will offer you what the government believes is a fair price. If you don't like this price you can sue, and collect—sometime—at your price if the court finds in your favor."

Voluntary Sales at Ceiling.

In the announcement of the silk requisition, it was said that the government will in all instances pay ceiling prices where the sales are voluntary but that in seizures the price may be minus the added administrative costs.

The buyer of the silk is the Defense Supplies corporation, a subsidiary of the Reconstruction Finance corporation. The amount it is to acquire, the entire supply in private hands in America, is a military secret. The corporation now owns 30,000 bales worth approximately 12 million dollars.

The care intended to conserve these stocks was indicated in a WPB order issued yesterday that even in the manufacture of parachutes for the army and navy the material must be conserved.

ROOSEVELT ASKS 5 BILLION MORE FOR LEND-LEASE

Washington, D. C., Feb. 10 (AP).—President Roosevelt asked congress today to appropriate an additional 5 billion 430 million dollars for lend-lease aid thru June 30, 1943. The request included: Agricultural, industrial, and other commodities, $3,567,115,000; vessels and ships, $734,420,000; necessary services and expenses, $680,000,000; testing and reconditioning of defense articles, $208,000,000; trucks and other vehicles, $129,015,000, and facilities and equipment, $111,450,000.

GIVE FAREWELL DINNER FOR N. U. HOSPITAL UNIT

A dozen members of Northwestern university medical school's original general hospital unit No. 12 of first World war days joined the medical alumni last night in bidding farewell to the present unit at a dinner in the Chicago Yacht club at the foot of Monroe street. The present unit will report for duty at Camp Custer, Mich., next Sunday.

Among veterans of unit No. 1 present were Dr. Fred A. Besley, Dr. Charles A. Freeman, Dr. Stanley C. Clark, and Dr. Gerald Krost. Dr. Freeman is dean of the dental school. Dean J. Roscoe Miller of the medical school and Dr. Howard B. Carroll, president of the Alumni association and associate professor of medicine in the medical school, spoke for the alumni.

Drs. M. Herbert Barker and Michael Mason, who will head the general hospital unit, spoke for the departing men.

MAKES INDOOR PARACHUTE LEAP FROM 90 FEET

Carl Rupert made an indoor parachute jump yesterday from a girder 90 feet above the floor in the International amphitheater, Halsted street and Exchange avenue. His silk 'chute was open when he jumped, but did not check his fall until he was 30 feet from the floor. Hay had been spread upon the floor to soften his landing. Rupert, a veteran jumper, will repeat his feat at the International Sportsmen's show beginning Feb. 21 in the amphitheater.

Indoor Parachute Leap—Normandie Confronts Navy with Biggest Salvage 'Job' in History—Dog Honored as Hero

[Associated Press Wirephoto.]

The 83,000 ton former French liner Normandie rests on her port side in the mud at the bottom of the Hudson. She toppled over at her pier after being swept by a fire blamed on "carelessness." The navy plans to salvage the ship. It will be the biggest salvage job in history.

WON'T TOLERATE AID TO AXIS, U. S. WARNS FRENCH

Welles Tells Vichy Envoy of British Charges.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Feb. 10.—French-American relations were hanging in the balance tonight as the United States studied evidence of Vichy assistance to the Nazis in Africa and to the Japanese in the western Pacific.

Undersecretary of State Sumner Welles, acting head of the state department, summoned Gaston Henry-Haye, French ambassador, to a conference to warn him that the United States will not tolerate collaboration with Hitler.

Welles read the envoy a list of grievances against the Vichy government, which were prepared by himself and Lord Halifax, the British ambassador, at a conference yesterday. The French representative conferred with Welles 45 minutes.

Indicate Explanation Asked.

As he left the state department Henry-Haye said he was confident that Vichy can justify itself against the charges of giving aid to the axis forces in Libya. His statement indicated that Welles had called upon him to obtain an explanation from his government.

Information of purported French aid in Libya and reports that French ships in Indo-China were to be turned over to Japan were given to Welles for American action because the British have no diplomatic relations with Vichy. British-French relations were broken after the fall of France.

The French ambassador said he hopes to have further conferences with Welles.

"I am waiting for the time when we can present all the facts," he said. "I am trying to justify the position of France which is far from being as guilty as charged."

Food, Gasoline Delivered.

In London Vichy was officially charged with permitting deliveries of food and gasoline to axis troops in Libya.

At the Welles-Halifax conference the two were reported to have discussed courses of action intended to prevent French officials in Indo-China from turning over to the Japs the few French naval vessels and large number of merchantmen in that area.

A few weeks before the attack on Pearl Harbor when French collaboration with the Japs in Indo-China was announced, the United States was near breaking relations with Vichy. The French staved off a break by explaining that they were powerless to do anything but let the Japs have what they asked.

AID FROM FRENCH AFRICA

BY LARRY RUE.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, Feb. 10.—The British government takes the "most serious view" toward deliveries of supplies to German Field Marshal Erwin Rommel in Libya by Vichy authorities and is in "urgent consultation" with the United States government on this subject, Hugh Dalton, minister of economic warfare, told the house of commons today.

He said there undoubtedly have been deliveries from French North Africa to the enemy in Libya of cars, lorries, wheat, wine and olive oil, while gasoline has reached Rommel from Tunisia, tho he is unable to specify whether the latter has been consigned from French North Africa or from France.

In Close Touch with U. S.

The United States government, he stated, already has made inquiries of Vichy. "We are in very close touch with them," he assured the house, "and, in fact, I am expecting to hear something more today."

In subsequent debate, Laborite Samuel S. Silverman raised the question of the regular transfer of money from London to Chief of State Marshal Henri Philippe Petain of France. This money is due him under an endowment policy with a Canadian insurance company. Silverman complained: "At this moment we have a great, critical operation proceeding in North Africa, which has been rendered negatory by means of the assistance given the enemy by Petain's government." He protested against "treasury discrimination in favor of an avowed enemy of this country when the same powers are not exercised to enable our citizens to maintain their own children in America."

He urged the government to reconsider payments to Petain, but Capt. Harry Crookshank, financial secretary of the treasury, replying, refused any statement.

Report Jap Demand for Bases.

LONDON, Feb. 10 (AP).—A highly placed Free French source said tonight Japan had demanded from the Vichy government bases on Madagascar Island in the Indian ocean. "We have no news of what the terms might be," he added.

The Inquiring Camera Girl

BY FREIDA ZYLSTRA.

THE QUESTION.

What was your favorite game when you were a child?

WHERE ASKED.

Chicago Motor club, 66 East South Water street.

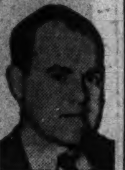
THE ANSWERS.

Clifford Stover, sailor, Duluth, Minn.—Every night that I'd come limping home the back way my mother would know at a glance that I had been at my favorite rough and tough game. I wore out more pairs of shoes playing our homemade style of hockey. We had two goal posts and spent hours kicking a tin can from one goal to the other.

Bill Johnson, touring counselor, 7003 Normal boulevard—Any day from early spring to late fall you could find me in the vacant lot playing baseball. And that was from about the age of 6 years on up. You'd find me there now if I had the time and the vacant lot was still around.

Russell Wright, clerk, 7728 Indiana avenue—There was no such thing as getting tired of the game of cops and robbers we used to play. I preferred the bandit rôle with a black mask over my eyes. Several of us would commit a would-be crime and then we would be hunted and tracked down by our pals, the pretending cops.

Howard A. MacAskill, touring counselor, 6138 South Hermitage avenue—A little way from our house we had an alley that was two blocks long. We had a goal at each end with no side boundary for our improvised shinny game. We'd use anything for clubs and race back and forth chasing and socking a wooden block from end to end.



James Caragher, touring counselor, 154 West North avenue—A game that was a variation from the regular hide-and-go-seek was my favorite. It was called "kick the can." The first person discovered in his hiding place had to race with the one who had found him to see who could kick the can first.

Sally Forkin, touring counselor, 5528 Carpenter street—I could let my imagination run away with itself when we used to play King of the Hill. As long as I was on the throne, which was nothing more than a big rock, I was a real king on a hill. The object of the game was to stay on the throne and not be lured off by the surrounding "enemy."

10% MORE CASH THIS MONTH FOR RELIEF FAMILIES

George J. Klupar, Chicago relief adminstrator, announced yesterday that relief beneficiaries will be paid 100 per cent of what is considered the "basic relief budget" this month instead of 90 per cent, as in January. Previous to January the payments were as low as 80 per cent of the theoretical budget. Klupar said the 100 per cent payments will not include money for food, which will be kept at 90 per cent. However, relief recipients also get surplus food stamps.

The increase in payments, Klupar said, is made possible by $75,000 salvaged from last year's relief appropriation and the fact that relief rolls are duced. Klupar announced relief cases in January dropped to 53,624, a new all-time low. The total number of persons receiving relief was 110,000. Klupar added that it was the 17th consecutive month showing a reduction of the load. The number of persons who went off relief for jobs in private industry was 598. Cases opened thru loss of private employment totaled 473.

64 DRY CLEANERS FINED $1,600 ON LICENSE CHARGES

Sixty-four operators of dry cleaning plants paid fines totaling $1,600 yesterday before Municipal Judge Thomas A. Green for violation of the city zoning ordinance which bans them from operating in residential districts. They were charged with operating without licenses since their licenses have been held up pending a ruling on the possible danger to health of certain fluids used in cleaning. Irvin Kowahl, assistant corporation counsel, said many other plants whose licenses were suspended have moved or gone out of business.

REBUFF BRITONS' PLEAS TO EXPLAIN LIBYAN SETBACKS

Churchill Defends Course of Gen. Auchinleck.

BY LARRY RUE.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, Feb. 10.—Parliament, the press and the public more and more are showing dissatisfaction at the government's conduct of the war, and its inability to destroy Field Marshal Erwin Rommel's axis army in Libya.

The war office was confronted with embarrassing questions in the house of commons today.

Members sought to obtain fresh information on the Libyan campaign and on the abilities of Lieut. Gen. Alan Gordon Cunningham, who despite the lavish manner in which his resourcefulness and fighting qualities were praised at the beginning of the campaign, was suddenly removed from his command in the middle of the drive.

Prime Minister Churchill paid tribute to Gen. Sir Claude Auchinleck's decision to remove Cunningham and continue the attack which resulted in temporary British occupation of most of Cirenaica, but dangerously extended supply lines.

Asks About General's Strategy.

Richard R. Stokes, Laborite, asked whether original plans and dispositions prepared by Cunningham for the relief of Tobruk were not carried out to Auchinleck's complete satisfaction, and if it was not a "fact that Cunningham's anticipation of the probable course of the battle was far more accurate than that of the military spokesman at Cairo or military authorities in London."

Sir Edward Grigg, speaking for the war office, pleaded that it would be contrary to public interest to discuss such questions while operations still were going on.

Grigg also refused to be drawn out by Sir William Davison's complaints of the treatment meted out to British prisoners in Bardia by the Italians. Grigg said a full report had not yet been received from the commander in chief of the middle east, but promised that investigations would be carried out as quickly as possible.

No Advance for Third Day.

CAIRO, Egypt, Feb. 10 (AP).—British patrols and mobile columns were active again over a wide area on a general line from Tmimi to El Mechili, some 50 miles to the west of Tobruk, but there was no close fighting with axis forces in Libya, a British communique said today. Patrols also operated to the west of Tengeder, 40 miles south of El Mechili. It was the third successive day in which no axis advance had been scored.

Claim Axis Supply Ship Sunk.

LONDON, Feb. 10 (AP).—British submarines have sunk one axis supply ship and torpedoed two others, one of which almost certainly sank, in new attacks on enemy transport lanes in the Mediterranean, the admiralty announced today. The ships were traveling in three separate convoys.

Tell of Attack on Convoy.

BERLIN, Feb. 10 [From German Broadcasts] (AP).—German bomber formations attacking a strongly protected British convoy west of Matruh, Egypt, scored hits on a light cruiser, a destroyer, and two big transports, it was declared today. It was claimed they were so seriously damaged that presumably they were lost.

Nazi bombers and dive bombers were said to have attacked air bases, transport columns and supply depots in Libya and northern Egypt. Malta was bombed again.

BY CLAY GOWRAN.

The United States Coast Guard is offering ensign commissions in the reserve to men who can qualify thru training or examinations. Men with the following qualifications are eligible:

1. University and college graduates.

Applicants in this group must possess at least a bachelor's degree; must have at least two semesters of mathematics of college grade, and must be single and between 20 and 30 years old inclusive.

Course is Four Months.

Cadets receive $65 a month while in training and receive their commission upon the successful completion of a four months' course at the United States Coast Guard academy at New London, Conn. Members of the reserve are obligated to serve only for the duration of the war.

Application forms may be obtained from any coast guard recruiting officer.

2. High school graduates.

Competitive examinations, for appointment of cadets to the academy, will be held May 13 for high school graduates between the ages of 17 and 22.

The course covers the physical sciences and liberal arts as well as training in seamanship and military science. The training period has been cut to three years. Graduates will receive, besides their ensign's commission, the regular degree of bachelor of science. Cadets also are given a yearly allowance of $750.

Trigonometry Is Required.

Candidates must not have reached the age of 23 on May 21 of the year they hope to enter the academy. The minimum height is 5 feet 6 inches and a robust constitution is required. High school credits must include trigonometry. Requests for applications should be addressed to the Commandant, United States Coast Guard, Washington, D. C. Applications must be in Washington not later than April 13.

3. Men with nautical experience.

Examinations for the immediate rank of ensign and/or lieutenant junior grade, in the coast guard can be taken by men with the following qualifications:

1. Between the ages of 21 and 45 [applicants for the rank of ensign must be 21 to 35 years old, while lieutenant junior grade commissions are given to men between 21 and 45].
2. Small boat, yachting, or naval experience.
3. Knowledge of seamanship and navigating.
4. Complete working knowledge of celestial navigation.

Applicants for the examination should write to Capt. Thomas A. Shanley, senior coast guard officer, 610 South Canal street.

QUESTIONS:

J. K. writes: "Will an alien who entered this country illegally from Great Britain be drafted into the army?"

ANSWER: Since he is an alien of a co-belligerent nation, he is subject to induction into the army. The selective service board is not concerned with the method of entry into this country.

Dr. D. S. S. asks: "Where shall a dentist apply for enlistment in the naval dental service?"

ANSWER: Write to the Commandant of the 9th Naval district, Great Lakes, and include in your letter your qualifications and experience.

Mrs. A. A. writes: "We have just purchased a new home thru FHA and would like to know whether the payments would be stopped temporarily until my husband returns from the army or would the payments have to be continued by the wife?"

ANSWER: The Soldiers' and Sailors' Civil Relief Act of 1940 would provide you some protection. According to the act, "court proceedings during a person's military service arising from failure to meet obligations, originating before Oct. 17, 1940, and secured by a mortgage, trust deed, or similar instrument, may be stayed by the court, or the court may make some other equitable disposition of the case. Sale of property pledged as security shall not be made during the period of military service or within three months thereafter unless by court order."

COMMONS SILENT AS BEAVERBROOK JOB IS EXPLAINED

No Speaker Approves Churchill's Plan.

BY LARRY RUE.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, Feb. 10.—Prime Minister Winston Churchill's definition of the powers of Lord Beaverbrook as minister of production aroused little enthusiasm in the house of commons today. In contrast to the plaudits usual when Churchill makes an important announcement, no speaker voiced approval of his statement.

Beaverbrook, whose new job Churchill described as similar to that of Donald M. Nelson, chairman of America's war production board, will represent Britain in pooling arrangements with the United States and supervise the supply department and the admiralty, apart from warship design, and the ministry of works and buildings.

Bevin to Control Labor.

Churchill's disclosure that Minister of Labor Ernest Bevin will retain responsibility for man power and labor questions aroused misgivings among the members of parliament and led to a demand for a full debate on the situation.

Leslie Hore-Belisha, a Liberal and former war minister, and Laborite Emanuel Shinwell expressed a fear that friction might arise between Beaverbrook and Bevin over the control of labor.

Why Beaverbrook Was Chosen.

Further discussing Beaverbrook's work, Churchill said he had "established close, intimate connections with the chiefs of American production, and enjoys the good will and confidence of the President [President Franklin D. Roosevelt] and obviously is the man for the job."

Churchill urged commons to "give the scheme a fair trial," but his appeal was received in silence.

Laborite Aneurin Bevan sought an assurance that Beaverbrook will spend more time in Britain, to which Churchill replied:

"I shall certainly be unable to give such an assurance. From the very nature of his duties, he will have to go to and fro, and the minister of supply can take his place during his absence."

BRITISH RAISE PAY OF ARMY; CRITICS CRY, 'IT'S TOO LOW'

Churchill Promises to Allow Debate.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, Feb. 10.—A yearly increase of $220,000,000 in pay and allowances for fighting forces and full time women's auxiliary forces was announced by Prime Minister Winston Churchill today. However, the measure failed to satisfy critics in the house of commons. Protesting that the rates compared with those paid American and dominion forces are still too low, they demanded a full dress debate on the subject.

Here is what the increased rates which Churchill defended as a "very fair settlement" provide: A cut of 72 cents—or 50 per cent—in the weekly allotment which a soldier claiming family allowance must make from his own pay; an increase of 20 cents a week for each dependent child, and a "nest egg" of 12 cents a day to be set aside for all ranks for use after the war.

Two Laborites Protest.

Immediately after the announcement, Maj. James Milner and Dr. Edith Summerskill, Laborites, protested that the children's allowance of $1.72 for the first child and $1.32 for the second, and $1 for the others was inadequate. Sir Percy Harris, Liberal, thereupon extracted a promise from the prime minister that the house should be given the opportunity to debate the proposals.

Reviving the discussion at adjournment, Capt. Alec. S. Cunningham-Reid, Conservative, also expressed dissatisfaction. He pointed out that British soldiers would have to receive "exactly double their present pay" to reach the equivalent minimum of American, Canadian, and Australian armies.

Calls Haggling Despicable.

Andrew McLaren, Laborite, branded "haggling about soldiers' requirements" as despicable. Frederick J. Bellenger, another Laborite, warned that "there is considerable discontent rife in the army over this question."

This contention was denied by Sir Edward Grigg, joint parliamentary undersecretary of war, who insisted that "there is nothing wrong with the morale of the army at the present time," and that any suggestion to the contrary "at the present time was treasonable."

Grigg deplored comparison of the pay of the British army with that of civilians or the American and dominion fighting forces. He told Cunningham-Reid he had "not done a service to the country, the army, or the cause for which we are fighting" in raising the question.

Cunningham-Reid protested that Grigg has "very successfully drawn a red herring across the whole case." He was supported by Samuel S. Silverman who said "hundreds of thousands of people" outside commons were making the same comparisons regarding pay, and Grigg "is himself rendering a disservice" by refusing to recognize the fact.

NAZIS HURL FRESH SKI TROOPS INTO RUSSIAN BATTLES

Reds Report Foe Expelled from 3 Provinces.

MOSCOW, Feb. 10 (AP).—German ski troops were appearing in large numbers on the north central front tonight and the Red army, slowly recapturing more ground after clearing the invader from three whole provinces, faced the most stubborn resistance yet from retreating Nazis.

On every sector of the front the Germans were throwing in reserves at great cost and hastily were fortifying as deeply as possible the approaches to inhabited localities.

Nevertheless, Moscow, Tula, and Ryazan provinces on the central front were completely cleared of the Germans; a large part of the Kalinin province on the north central front and a considerable portion of Leningrad province had been freed and ejection of the Germans proceeded in Smolensk province and the Ukraine.

Front line dispatches said 80 cities and 4,800 villages were recaptured between Nov. 29, 1941 and Feb. 7, 1942.

Slay 300 Men Out of 600.

On what is called the Kalinin front—altho it now extends to within 100 miles of the Latvian border—300 of a German ski troop unit of 600 men were killed after they had tried to break the Russian hold on an encircled town.

To the south, on the central front before Smolensk, Red army troops advanced six miles in one day and recaptured 25 inhabited points.

Red army artillery and mortars were doing heavy damage. At one point on the Kalinin front 500 Germans were killed by these weapons.

A captured officer of a German artillery regiment attested to the heavy German losses. He said 55 per cent of the men of his regiment had been killed or captured and 25 of its 36 big guns lost.

In the Crimea, outside long besieged Sevastopol, Russian troops launched a frontal attack on a hill position. While the Germans were grappling with this assault, another Russian unit outflanked the Nazi position and got into the German trenches, using their bayonets. The Germans fled, leaving many dead.

Leningrad Forces Attack.

BERLIN, Feb. 10 [From German Broadcasts] (AP).—Strong Russian forces seeking to crack the German lines before Leningrad were beaten back, the German high command reported today, while Nazi artillery fired "with good results" at objectives near the naval base of Kronstadt, 20 miles west of Leningrad in the Gulf of Finland.

A motorized infantry division and the Flemish legion [presumably troops recruited in Belgium] were cited particularly for repulsing the "heavy, massed enemy attacks."

Elsewhere on the Russian front the Nazis reported continuous fighting in which the Russians suffered heavy losses, with a number of "local successes" for the Germans.

Air support was particularly forceful on the southern sector where, the high command said, bombers and dive bombers attacked shipping in the waters of the eastern Crimea "with good effect."

Finns Claim Red Division Crushed.

HELSINGFORS, Finland, Feb. 10 (AP).—The Finnish command announced today that the 367th division of the Russian army had been "destroyed" in a two day battle which resulted in a straightening of the Finnish front north of Lake Onega.

A communique said the bulk of the Red army division, which already had suffered heavy losses in January, was surrounded on Feb. 6. The Finnish attack took place the next day, the high command said, and up to last night 3,775 Russian soldiers had been killed, 145 taken prisoner, and large stocks of material captured.

Report Reds Get Turk Arms.

ISTANBUL, Turkey, Feb. 10 (AP).—An informed semi-diplomatic source said today the Turks had agreed, in payment of an old debt of honor, to the diversion to soviet Russia of a part of American and British consignments of war materials to Turkey. During the early days of the Turkish republic, when the soviet position was none too secure, the Russians sent military aid to the Turkish independence army and backed up the Turks diplomatically. Now, this source said, the Turks are evening up the score by sacrificing needed armaments so Russia may have them.

Argentine Marines Guard Coastal Industrial Plants

BUENOS AIRES, Argentina, Feb. 10 (AP).—The Argentine marine corps was ordered today to assist the maritime police in patroling public services and industrial plants in waterfront cities to prevent sabotage. The war ministry made public decrees increasing the army to 95,000 men, double its present strength, and recalling several hundred reserve officers. From the new forces, there will be formed the "Patagonian detachment," to patrol southern Argentina.

Seek New License

[Associated Press Wirephoto.]

Barbara Bennett and Addison Randall as they sought marriage license yesterday.

Los Angeles, Cal., Feb. 10 [Special]. —We just want to make sure.

With that explanation, Barbara Bennett, 32, sister of the two Bennett film actresses, Constance and Joan, and Addison [Jack] Randall, 35, film cowboy, called today at the county clerk's office in quest of a marriage license.

The explanation was forthcoming inasmuch as the couple went thru a previous marriage ceremony June 6 in Mexico. "We've heard that Mexican marriages are sometimes open to legal question," she said.

She was divorced last summer by Morton Downey, radio crooner, in Bridgeport, Conn. Randall was divorced a year ago by Louise Stanley, screen actress. Mrs. Downey appeared at the clerk's office clad in slacks and supporting herself on crutches, explaining that she recently broke her right foot in a bath tub accident.

TUGWELL DODGES LEGISLATURE TO AVOID A WALKOUT

SAN JUAN, Puerto Rico, Feb. 10 (AP).—Gov. Rexford G. Tugwell broke with tradition today and sent his message to the opening session of the legislature instead of delivering it in person. Tugwell said he had been advised by a legislative commission not to appear personally, after the announced threat of coalition members opposing him to walk out if he did. The coalition lacks a majority in each house by one vote.

The governor's message, placed on the desk of each member, was over 15,000 words long. In it the governor admonished that "as we fight for democracy we must also fight for human improvements." He cautioned the legislators that they live on an armed outpost of the United States and urged adequate defenses.

Tugwell's failure to appear caused a long debate, but his only explanation of it was "this is wartime." It was said to have been the first time a governor failed to deliver his message in person.

First Shipment of Swiss Relief Food Reaches Greece

[Copyright: 1942: By the New York Times.]

BERNE, Switzerland, Feb. 10.—News has been received here of the arrival at Piraeus, Greece, of the first shipment of food sent by Swiss organizations for the benefit of starving Greek children. Distribution has been made under the control of the Swiss legation in Athens. A private report from Greece said "this shipment came in the nick of time, misery continues great, and further help would be extremely welcome."

LOOK ON GERMAN TYPHUS AS INDEX TO NAZI STAMINA

News of Disease Leaks Out from Berlin.

BY WALTER TROHAN.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Feb. 10.—Military health authorities in the national capital are following with utmost interest reports that spotted typhus has entered Germany, despite all precautions the Nazis have exerted for 2½ years to bar this dreaded companion of war.

The ministry of health at Berlin is reported to have listed 126 cases of the disease in Germany and 138 cases in German occupied territory. While this number is not large it is serious in view of reports that typhus is believed to have reached epidemic proportions in many places in eastern Europe.

The Nazis began taking measures against the disease as early as October, 1939, when it was detected among Polish prisoners of war.

Set Up Inspection Line.

A demarcation line was established along the old Polish-German border, at which all persons coming from the east are subjected to examination for evidence of the disease and for lice, its carrier.

All Germans living in Poland and 43 per cent of all Polish civilians are said to have been inoculated against the disease.

The Nazis have refused to inoculate Jews. As a result, the typhus death rate in the Warsaw ghetto, where between 400,000 and 500,000 Jews are congregated, is said to be around 400 a day.

Typhus is said to be prevalent on the Russian front. Just how serious the disease is among the retreating German soldiers is not known, but it is known that some divisions have been found 100 per cent vermin infested.

Index to Conditions.

Evidently, soldiers have carried the disease into Germany proper. Because poor food, starvation, and crowding are the chief factors in making people susceptible to the disease, its progress in Germany will be regarded with interest here as an index of conditions within that country.

Typhus is prevalent in Spain and several epidemics occurred in Algeria and Morocco last year. The presence of typhus in Spain is believed by military experts to have balked a contemplated Nazi invasion of the Iberian peninsula. The Spanish outbreak came in that country's civil war and has lingered since.

Belgian Who Aided British Flyer Sentenced to Death

VICHY, France, Feb. 10 (AP).—A Belgian who gave shelter to a British aviator who parachuted from his wrecked plane was condemned to death today by German authorities in the Flanders town of Laethem St. Marie. The condemned man was Sylvian Vande Velde, Brussels papers said.

NAZIS SHORT OF ARMY OFFICERS FOR SPRING DRIVE

Calls on the Occupied Lands for Them.

BY DONALD DAY.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

STOCKHOLM, Sweden, Feb. 10.—Germany is suffering from an acute shortage of officers both on the eastern front and at home, where fresh army corps are undergoing intensive training for a gigantic effort against Russia, to be made as soon as weather conditions permit mechanized forces to operate, according to dispatches from Berlin.

Orders have appeared in the axis press calling on officers who formerly served in the old Austro-Hungarian, Austrian, Czecho-Slovakian, Polish, Belgian, Jugo-Slavian, Lithuanian, Latvian, and Estonian armies to report to the nearest police authorities for physical examination and duty.

Promise Big Steamroller.

Not all of these men will be assigned to the armed forces, but they are expected to assist in handling the transport and reconstruction problems now facing Germany in Russia.

German military spokesmen say the army is going to meet the soviet steamroller with an even greater steamroller, whose task is to crush Russian resistance and destroy every chance of the United States and Great Britain providing Stalin with fresh arms and machines to continue resistance.

Correspondents reveal there is a shortage of lower rank officers on the front in Russia. In an account of a successful encounter [all battle stories published report only successes] in the Frankfurter Zeitung, one correspondent tells of a regiment consisting of 11 companies, one of which was commanded by a first lieutenant, nine by second lieutenants, and one by a sergeant major. Casualties had accounted for some of the officers, while others had been withdrawn to assist in the training of fresh troops.

Winter's Worst Over.

The German army, as always, has paid special attention to the training of noncommissioned officers and this shortage of lower rank officers on the eastern front is regarded as confirmation that new and powerful forces will soon take the field in the east.

Swedish correspondents say Berlin military circles believe the worst phase of the soviet winter offensive has passed.

REVEALS PEACE FLIGHT PLAN OF LAURA INGALLS

Washington, D. C., Feb. 10 (AP).—A story of attempts by Laura Ingalls, noted American aviatrix, to interest Nazi agents last fall in a "peace flight" to Germany, via South America, was related to a Federal District court jury here today.

Miss Ingalls is being tried on a charge of serving as an agent of Germany without registering with the state department. Her lawyer has asknowledged she took German money, but insisted she did so only to further counter-espionage work she was carrying on.

Miss Julia Kraus, a friend of Miss Ingalls, testified she arranged a meeting for the aviatrix with Baron Ulrich von Gienanth, former second secretary at the German embassy. Von Gienanth vetoed the proposed "peace flight," Miss Kraus testified, and told Miss Ingalls she could "do more good" for the German cause by working for peace in the United States.

The witness said Von Gienanth gave Miss Ingalls advice for lectures, turned quantities of pro-German literature over to her for distribution and study, and "offered her money to be deposited to her credit in Germany."

THE ALDRICH FAMILY SAYS
BUY YOUR HOME A PI... THIS WEEK

This is the issue of the Post that started my good fortune . . . brought me (and thousands of other homes) a load of new house furnishings. My interior was pretty shabby and out-of-date from living-room to linen closet, from bedroom to cellar—and I'd begun to think I hadn't a friend in the world. But I was wrong . . .

For last Fall the Post staged a phenomenal sales event in stores all over the country. It began with a double-page feature in the October 11 issue. Those radio stars—The Aldrich Family—told Post readers "6 ideas to keep your home young," suggested many ways to "Give your house a present." 731 stores got help from the Post . . . Look . . .

Store windows blossomed all that week, from Maine to California, with handsome home furnishings, flanked with Post-ad displays. Said the stores: "Listen to the Aldrich Family in the Post . . . Give your house a present . . . Keep your home young!" People looked and streamed through store doors. Some week for Post-advertised products!

THE SATURDAY EVENING POST

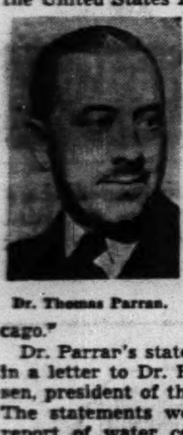
Millions of copies of newspapers carried big advertisements by local stores. "These are the ideas you saw in the Post," said the store ads. Families went into conference . . . Husbands loosened up the purse strings . . . Wives clapped on their hats and headed for favorite stores. Presently bundles began to arrive in every neighborhood . . .

Pats on the back from local stores to the Post show what happened in this nation-wide promotion. Letters poured in from store executives saying "Delighted" . . . "Outstanding" . . . "Big traffic!" . . . "A natural!" "Well timed!" . . . "Unique!" But in one way it really wasn't unique at all—people always pay attention when they see it in the Post!

PARRAN BACKS PLEA FOR MORE LAKE DIVERSION

Promises Aid in Relieving Menace to Health.

Surgeon General Thomas Parran of the United States Public Health service yesterday said that he favors increased diversion of lake water thru the Illinois waterway.



Dr. Thomas Parran.

He also promised coöperation of his office in "bringing about relief from the conditions which menace the present public water supply of Chicago."

Dr. Parrar's statements were made in a letter to Dr. Herman N. Bundesen, president of the board of health. The statements were based upon a report of water conditions here recently completed by L. M. Fisher, district engineer for the health service. Dr. Bundesen in turn submitted a copy of the report and Dr. Parran's letter to Mayor Kelly, who had asked that the health service investigate Chicago's water problem.

Claims Substantiated.

The report substantiated claims made by both Mayor Kelly and Dr. Bundesen that increased industrial activity in the steel mill district in South Chicago and Gary has increased pollution in the south end of the lake and endangered the water supply of the 68th street and Dunne cribs.

The report, which was concurred in by Dr. Parran, recommended that diversion thru the Calumet-Sag channel be increased 1,500 cubic feet a second over the present rate of 390 cubic feet in order to remove the polluted water from the lake before it reaches 68th street. A similar request was made to the war department recently by Mayor Kelly. It was refused.

Mayor Kelly said he believed the increase in diversion should be greater than 1,500 cubic feet but that he approved the report in principal and would ask Dr. Parran to make a further investigation. He also said copies of the report would be forwarded to the war department and to Donald M. Nelson, head of the war production board.

Five Measures Urged.

Four other measures to alleviate danger of pollution were recommended in the report. They were:

Budget the amount of water passed thru the Calumet river so that it can be increased when necessary.

A temporary dam should be constructed across the southern end of the Indiana Harbor Ship canal north of its junction with the Grand Calumet river. This would prevent industrial waste from steel mills from flowing into the lake.

Coöperation of Calumet area industries in providing the direct return to Lake Michigan of water used for cooling.

Completion of the south side water filtration plant, now under construction at 68th street and the lake, should not be delayed.

Maximum Set by Court.

At present the overall diversion flow, as measured at the sanitary district locks in Lockport, is 1,500 cubic feet a second. This is the maximum permitted by a United States Supreme court decision. Formerly the flow was as high as 10,000 cubic feet a second.

In reality, the direct diversion from the lake of 1,500 cubic feet a second [it averaged 1,496 last year] is not allowed. Before the sanitary district, which controls diversion, may allocate the flow to the Calumet and Chicago rivers and the North Shore channel at Wilmette, it must deduct 760 cubic feet a second for storm water. Storm water is water from rain or snow which normally would flow into the lake thru the natural Lake Michigan watershed, but which is diverted into the Illinois waterway by means of a sewer system. Of the remainder, 110 cubic feet pass thru the North Shore channel, 236 thru the Chicago river, and 390 thru the Calumet-Sag channel.

How to make a WAR GARDEN

BY GAIL COMPTON.

With a few dollars and a little work the home gardener can build a cold frame that will enable him to start the seeds for his war garden weeks before they can be sown in the open.

A BLOCK OR BRICK IS CONVENIENT FOR RAISING SASH TO ANY HEIGHT NECESSARY.

Diagrams showing how to build a cold frame for the war garden. The cold frame will enable the gardener to start his seeds weeks before they can be sown in the open garden.

When the required number of plants to be grown is too large for a seedbox or flat, a cold frame will do the job perfectly.

The cold frame can be built beside the house or garden as desired. It will answer all the real needs for early sowing, and entails no heating expense.

Plant Seeds in Rows.

The accompanying illustrations give full directions for building a small cold frame. It should be half filled with pulverized dirt. The seeds should be planted in rows one inch apart.

The glass sash will offer complete protection on cold nights, and the seeds will germinate and grow sturdily until they are ready for transplanting to the open garden. The cold frame makes it possible for the war gardener to make sure that he has healthy plants for his garden plot.

On sunny days the sash should be lifted to prevent the temperature from becoming too high within the frame. After the sun goes down the sash should be lowered to conserve the heat.

Harden Plants in Frame.

The cold frame should be inspected each morning and evening to regulate the temperature and other conditions properly. Before the plants are set in the open it is best to harden them off in the cold frame. This can be done by gradually increasing the ventilation each day, until finally the sash remains off on sunny days, being replaced only at night.

At no time should the soil in the cold frame be allowed to become dry and hard. The seeds should be watered frequently, allowing the soil to dry a little each time. Water them in the mornings so the soil can dry out before evening.

The cold frame is easy to build and simple to operate. It will produce strong, vigorous plants that will grow quickly when placed in the garden. For these reasons it is considered an important adjunct to the war garden.

Warn Children Against Playing on Lake Ice

Coast guard officials yesterday warned parents not to permit children to play on ice near the lake shore because of the danger of a break-thru or of ice floes cracking off and carrying children out into the lake.

NAME RECEIVER FOR ESTATE OF $450,000 SWINDLER

Judge William J. Campbell in federal District court yesterday appointed Attorney Leo Donahoe receiver for the estate of J. Dewey Abraham, promoter who has admitted swindling friends and relatives of $450,000 in a fake real estate, diamond, and securities scheme. Abraham now is in custody of the state's attorney's office.

Appointment of a receiver was asked by Elbert Wagner, attorney for three of Abraham's creditors who filed an involuntary bankruptcy petition against the promoter Monday. Donahoe's job will be to try to find Abraham's assets and impound them.

Vernon Thompson, assistant state's attorney, took three other persons before the grand jury yesterday to give testimony on Abraham's ventures. The three placed their combined losses at $146,800. Thompson said he will not ask the grand jury to vote an indictment for two or three days, hoping meanwhile that Attorney Donahoe will be able to uncover some of the promoter's assets.

UNION PROTESTS STATE JOB FOR CHARLES WILLS

Cites His Connection with Max Caldwell.

The appointment of Charles F. Wills to an executive post in the state department of labor brought a sharp protest yesterday from local 1550 of the Retail Grocery Clerks' union.

Charles F. Wills.

Wills is the father-in-law of Max Caldwell, ousted czar of local 1248 of the Retail Clerks' International Protective association. Wills, moreover, is accused by the state's attorney's office of sponsoring Caldwell, an ex-Indiana bootlegger, when Caldwell in 1937 began his efforts to seize control of local 1248. Caldwell now is facing a suit by the membership for an accounting of $910,000 in union funds.

Suspended Once by State.

Wills was suspended from his $4,700 a year job as a member of the state unemployment compensation board last August after the story of his sponsorship of Caldwell became known. The Chicago Federation of Labor previously had removed Wills from membership on its executive board and from his post as business manager of the Federation News. The federation accused him of aiding Caldwell and appearing for him as a fixer in court.

Despite Wills' suspension from the state pay roll and the measures taken by the labor leaders, Francis B. Murphy, state director of labor, disclosed on Jan. 20 that Wills had been appointed chief deputy inspector of private employment agencies for the department. In this post Wills draws a salary of $200 a month.

One of Nine Locals.

The clerks' union which protested is one of nine locals formed when Caldwell's local was reorganized by Vernon Housewright of the Retail Clerks' International Protective association. Representatives of the nine locals make up the Retail Clerks' Joint Council of Greater Chicago and Suburban Towns.

Housewright said yesterday it was decided at the last meeting of the joint council that each local should protest to Gov. Green and Murphy against Wills' appointment. The protest of local 1550, addressed to Murphy, is the first filed. The protest said, in part:

"We feel that a man who will use his influence to help to power an individual such as Max Caldwell has no place in the labor movement or in the administration of labor problems in the state government."

DETROIT POLICE SEIZE CHICAGO DEATH SUSPECT

John T. Ballard, 36 years old, was held in Detroit yesterday for questioning by Chicago police about the slaying Feb. 5, 1941, of Miss Elizabeth Connor, 76, landlady of a rooming house at 32 East Bellevue place. Ballard, a former convict with a wooden leg, was arrested for having a gun in his possession and identified by fingerprints.

Ballard and his wife, Dorothy, a parole violator, had been sought since the killing. Ballard was a handyman Mrs. Connor discharged. He disappeared the day before she was strangled. A coroner's jury later recommended that both the Ballards be charged with murder.

Ballard told Detroit police he had not been in Chicago since January, 1941. He confessed that he had slain a man in Lapeer, Mich., who, officials said, was killed in an accidental fall. They said Ballard appeared to be trying to avoid extradition to Illinois.

BOARD REVOKES, THEN RESTORES DAIRY'S LICENSE

The license of the Hawthorn Mellody Farms Dairy, Inc., to sell milk in Chicago was revoked temporarily by the board of health yesterday. Inspectors later spent several hours in the dairy's plant at 4224 Chicago avenue while corrections were made. Permission was then granted the dairy to resume processing and selling milk.

The revocation of the license was ordered after Paul Krueger, head of the board's dairy section, reported that the average bacteria count in the last four tests of the dairy's milk was 46,000 per cubic centimeter. Milk regulations permit no more than 30,000.

The board's records show that the company was warned recently against a high bacteria count and an excess of water in its milk.

BOULDER DAM TO PAY OFF.

It is estimated that in 50 years, sales of power will repay the federal government with interest for the $103,000,000 spent on Boulder dam.

Don't Rely on Guesswork

All too many people are endeavoring to solve these puzzles by guessing at the answers.

Don't enter this contest at all if you intend to rely on guesswork.

There is only one way to solve these puzzles intelligently and that is to apply yourself diligently, with pencil and paper in hand, to the careful and studious application of the clues and instructions contained in the puzzles.

This contest and the puzzles therein represent the finest work of America's most astute puzzle creators.

When you enter this contest, be prepared to match wits with the very finest and cleverest puzzles that can be created by the finest puzzle talent in the entire world.

SPECIAL SET OF SYMPHONIC RECORDS FOR EACH CONTESTANT WHO COMPLETES THE CONTEST, REGARDLESS OF FINAL SCORE!

Every contestant who submits a complete set of answers in accordance with the rules will receive a special group of recordings, entitled "The World's Greatest Music," featuring symphonic selections by Bach, Beethoven, Brahms and Tschaikowsky. Thus, every contestant can depend upon receiving a group of recordings of the world's most beautiful music, irrespective of any cash prize that contestant may win.

If there is anything about this contest not entirely clear to you telephone the puzzle contest department (Central 2261) for a full and cheerful explanation.

THE RULES

1. Only residents of the Chicago area are eligible to enter this contest; specifically, persons living in Chicago and suburbs but in no case more than one hundred miles from the Distribution Station of Chicago Music Appreciation Projects at 65 East Lake Street. No employees or relatives of employees of Music Appreciation Projects or its advertising and promotion agencies are eligible to enter the contest.

2. A group of 90 puzzles will be offered for solution. The solutions to these puzzles will be names and terms identified with the world of music.

3. A First Prize of $10,000.00 in Cash or in Defense Bonds and 99 other prizes will be paid to the 100 persons who, by their submissions, achieve the highest scores in the contest in accordance with these Official Rules.

4. The puzzles will be issued for solution in weekly series of six; and contestants are asked to solve and submit solutions EACH WEEK. The 1st Week's Series of 6 puzzles bears the release date of Thursday, February 5th. Each Thursday, for fourteen additional weeks, there will be another weekly series to solve. Contestants should solve the puzzles and submit solutions to same during the week following issuance date of each series. In submitting the solutions for any current series, a contestant is privileged to submit solutions for preceding series. Thus, a contestant entering the contest during the 2nd Week, should submit both the 1st Week's as well as the 2nd Week's series, and so on. All series should be qualified in accordance with Rule No. 7.

5. Contestants are requested to mail their solutions EACH WEEK in series of six. The various current Weekly Series of puzzles can be clipped from the newspaper or can be obtained FREE at the Distribution Station of Music Appreciation Projects at 65 East Lake Street, and in addition, all puzzles, as issued, will be mailed to all persons who enter the contest.

Answers must be MAILED to Puzzle Contest, Chicago Music Appreciation Projects, P. O. Box No. 1364, Old Post Office Annex, Chicago, Ill. The reason all answers must be MAILED is to establish by the Postmark on the envelope the dates when the answers were submitted, in order to evidence the fact that the answers were submitted in accordance with the dates called for in the rules. Please remember, your answers must be MAILED, not delivered.

6. Neatness will not count. Do not decorate your answers. Just submit your solutions in accordance with the rules. In case of ties, if two or more persons tie in submitting the correct solutions to all of the puzzles, then the first two or more prizes will be reserved for those contestants, and prizes will be awarded in the order of the accuracy of the submissions of those contestants to a first, and if necessary a second tie-breaking group of puzzles. In case tie-breaking puzzles are required in order to determine the winners, at the discretion of Music Appreciation Projects in order to insure fairness and individual effort, contestants may be required to work tie-breaking puzzles, without assistance, at a duly designated place within the city of Chicago. In such event, carfare or the expense of transportation both ways will be provided for the contestant. In case a second tie-breaking group of puzzles is necessary, contestant eligible to solve same will be required to accompany their solutions to this second tie-breaking group of puzzles with a letter of not more than 200 words on the subject: "How This Contest Affected My Interest in Good Music." Only in case ties exist after all tie-breaking puzzles have been checked will the letters be considered, and in that event they will be judged on the basis of originality in description and general interest. In case of final ties, duplicate prizes will be awarded.

7. To qualify for a prize, the contestant is required to accompany each series of solutions with 15 cents in coin. An individual file will be set up for each contestant. At the conclusion of the contest, each contestant who has submitted a complete set of answers for this contest will receive a special group of records entitled "The World's Greatest Music," containing symphonic selections by Bach, Beethoven, Brahms and Tschaikowsky. Those who enter, but who for any reason fail to complete the contest, will receive a copy of the specially prepared book, "The Immortals of Music," containing biographical stories of the world's greatest composers and conductors.

8. This is a contest of skill. Upon entering the contest, the contestant agrees that prior to being awarded a prize he or she will sign and execute under oath an affidavit attesting that he or she has not bought nor exchanged answers in this contest, nor used answers bought, exchanged or supplied. The contestant further agrees that the decision of Music Appreciation Projects in all matters affecting the conduct of the contest, the acceptance of submissions, the making of awards and the measures invoked to insure individual effort in fairness to all contestants shall be final and conclusive.

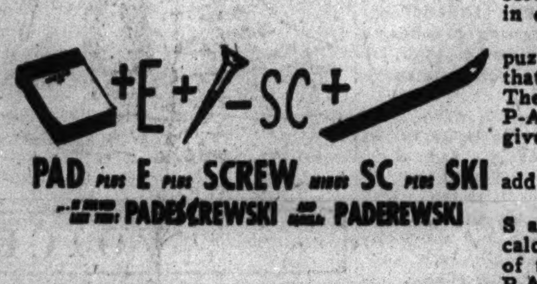
9. Entries that are unsigned or illegible will not be considered, nor will Music Appreciation Projects be responsible for entries or communications unduly delayed or lost in the mails.

10. All weekly series of solutions, together with the coins for each series as required in Rule No. 7, should be addressed to PUZZLE CONTEST, Music Appreciation Projects, P. O. Box No. 1364, Old Post Office Annex, Chicago, Ill.

11. Answers should be MAILED, not brought in person, in order that the Postmark can establish the DATE on which they were submitted as called for in the rules.

Can You Solve These 6 Puzzles?

Here's How You Do It . . . Read Explanation Below:—



+E+
-SC+
PAD plus E plus SCREW minus SC plus SKI
PADESCREWSKI
PADEREWSKI

At the left we have designed a sample puzzle. We have completely solved it for you. Remember this is only a sample, purposely made easy in order to give you an idea how to solve the puzzle.

First of all, notice that there are several objects illustrated in the puzzle and that there are a number of plus and minus signs, which means that you add or subtract. All right now. Let's solve the puzzle together. The first object you see is a PAD. Therefore, you write down the letters P-A-D. Next you see the letter E. Therefore, add the letter E, which gives you a combined total of P-A-D-E.

Next you see the familiar object known as a SCREW. Therefore, you add the letters S-C-R-E-W, which give you a total of P-A-D-E-S-C-R-E-W.

Now you see a minus sign which means that you deduct the letters S and C. Very well, you deduct the letters S and C from your previous calculation and you are left with P-A-D-E-R-E-W. The final object of the puzzle is a SKI. Add the letters S-K-I to your previous total of P-A-D-E-R-E-W, and you have the name of the immortal PADEREWSKI.

This is a contest of skill, created and conducted by the foremost contest organization of America.

HERE IS THE WAY TO ENTER:

Can you solve the puzzles printed on this page? Before you try, read carefully the explanation printed above the six puzzles. Do not tackle them until you understand this explanation clearly, and know exactly how the SAMPLE puzzle was solved. If you can solve the puzzles printed on this page, HERE IS YOUR OPPORTUNITY TO WIN $10,000 CASH!

The puzzles in this contest represent MUSICAL NAMES, names and terms familiar to the world of music, and as you proceed with the contest, it is our hope that your curiosity about music will be stimulated and that your interest will increase. However, it isn't necessary to know anything about music in order to compete and win. YOU WIN BY SOLVING PUZZLES and submitting your solutions in accordance with the rules.

MAIL SOLUTIONS TO PUZZLES PRINTED ON THIS PAGE BY TOMORROW MIDNIGHT

Mail your solutions to the puzzles printed on this page (the First Series), not later than MIDNIGHT, TOMORROW, Thursday, Feb. 12th. DO NOT SEND IN THE PUZZLES THEMSELVES. Fill in your solutions on the spaces provided on the ENTRY FORM printed in the lower right corner of this page. Please note that under the rules you are required to accompany each Weekly Series with 15 cents in coin, and you are asked to wrap your coins in a small piece of paper before inserting in the envelope.

SUBMIT SOLUTIONS EACH WEEK IN THIS CONTEST

In this contest, you send in your solutions EACH WEEK. Accordingly, the puzzles are issued in Weekly Series of 6 puzzles. For instance, the 1st Week's Series is printed on this page.

This contest consists of 15 Weekly Series of puzzles. The 1st Series, which you see on this page, was released last Thursday, Feb. 5th, and your answers to this 1st Series should be submitted by MIDNIGHT, TOMORROW, Thursday, Feb. 12th.

You can solve each Weekly Series of puzzles as it appears in the newspaper, using the Answer Form which will always be found accompanying each Series of puzzles. Each Thursday a new Series is released, and your solutions to that Series should be submitted by the following Thursday.

The moment you enter this contest we establish an individual file in your name. At the same time we arrange to MAIL TO YOU all of the various series of puzzles as issued from time to time.

ENCLOSE 15 CENTS IN COIN WHEN SUBMITTING EACH SERIES

When sending in each Weekly Series of solutions, enclose 15 cents in coin as required under Rule No. 7 of the Official Rules. At the conclusion of the contest, each contestant who submits a complete set of solutions in accordance with the rules, regardless of that contestant's score, will receive a special group of recordings entitled "The World's Greatest Music," representing selections by Bach, Beethoven, Brahms, and Tschaikowsky. Please wrap your coins in a small piece of paper before inserting in the envelope.

"Our Country! In her intercourse with foreign nations may she always be in the right; but our country, right or wrong."
—Stephen Decatur.

THE NORMANDIE.

The fire which swept the liner Normandie at her pier in New York has seriously hampered our war effort. It is probable that the ship, now lying on her side in the mud, would have carried a division at a time to the western Pacific at express speed. Many ships will be required to replace her. An intangible result may be a further complication of our relations with the French people, to whom the Normandie was an object of national pride.

The navy asserts that there was no evidence of sabotage. If true, this assertion can lead only to the conclusion that the fire was the result of criminal carelessness. Ships are peculiarly subject to fire hazard while being refitted at docks. A number of disastrous fires have occurred under those circumstances. Accordingly, it was obligatory upon the navy to take due precautions against that hazard aboard the Normandie. This duty, from all appearances, was neglected just as duties were neglected at Pearl Harbor.

The official account of the fire is that a spark from a workman's torch fell into a pile of inflammable life preservers. The resulting flames spread with almost incredible speed thru the ship. For this to have happened there must have been great quantities of inflammable material about—far greater than prudence would have permitted in view of the known fire hazards.

It is useless to expect the wartime efficiency which the country demands from a navy department burdened by a garrulous and indiscreet secretary and a large quota of New York night club officers. The department clearly needs a thoro shaking up.

REGISTERING THE REDS.

President Roosevelt has vetoed a bill which would have required the registration of members of the communist party as agents of a foreign government. Actually, an impartial enforcement of the 1938 act for registration of foreign agents would include the communists, but that act has never been enforced against the party.

In his veto message the President asserted that "active collaboration of a military or economic nature with friendly countries requires the fullest and most constant exchange of representatives between us." Enforcement of the vetoed act, he implied, would interfere with our relations with Russia. The argument is hard to follow. The bill would have placed no greater restrictions upon communists, either Russian citizens or citizens of the United States, than are already in force in Russia against Americans and Russians as well. Certainly Russia could not complain if the United States adopted her own measures. An American in Russia has to carry a passport and is subjected to constant surveillance by the secret police. What measures the Russian government would take against one of its own citizens who undertook to bring about the substitution of an American republican form of government for communism can be left to the imagination.

The President's veto leaves only the communist party line as a protection against sabotage of our war effort by the communists. The frequency with which the party line has changed in the last two years indicates how much trust can be placed in that protection. Even today the fact that a substantial part of our munitions output is going to Russia does not prevent communists and fellow travelers within the government from continuing their sabotage of the war effort by diverting national resources to their projects for revolutionary social and economic changes.

SABOTAGE BY STRIKERS.

A federal court at Peoria has been informed that striking railroad men plotted to blow up a bridge on the Toledo, Peoria, and Western railroad, against which a strike was called on Dec. 28. The dynamiting, if successful, would have tied up traffic on the eastern division of the road.

In Seattle, Wash., where striking welders were induced to return to work by defense officials, union leaders said that, the walkout having failed, they would adopt a secret new technique to enforce their demands. The president of a shipyard affected by the walkout commented, "When a man says he has a secret plan for bucking the United States government, I'm not interested in it. I think the federal bureau of investigation might be."

If the FBI is not, it should be. And it might also look into plots to disrupt transportation by dynamiting bridges. There may not be an enemy fifth column in this country, but a domestic one can do just as much damage.

THE COUNTY GOES LOONY.

About all that can be concluded of the latest attempt to make a county budget is that the harried commissioners have been batting their heads against the hard facts of arithmetic until the honorable members have grown a little potty.

They have cut out most of the department heads' requests for increases over 1941 expenditures and have reduced appropriations for election expenditures by some $800,000. This is all to the good, altho whether the election cut will stand when all the bills have come in remains to be seen. The circuit judges remain stubborn in their politically inspired refusal to institute the economies in the county fee offices recommended by the efficiency survey staff. This would save more than $500,000, but the refusal lies on the judges, not the county commissioners.

After all this, the board still has $21,528,323 in proposed expenditures. Its prospective revenues for 1942, estimated three months ago as $17,463,000, have not actually increased by one thin dime in the interim. But the groggy commissioners have arbitrarily increased them to give a legal semblance of a balanced budget. The estimate of revenue from tax penalties has been boosted from $5,000,000, which was all that logically could be expected, to $7,900,000. Estimated collections of other county fees, which vary from year to year even less than the penalty revenue, have been boosted by about $1,000,000.

The county commissioners give every appearance of having gone crazy with the political heat that has been put on them to keep all the pay rollers on the job in an election year. The county's credit has already been undermined by failure to pay its bills. Cash income this year will not be sufficient to meet pay rolls. Those evils, however, appear less threatening to the commissioners than the ire of the job hungry ward committeemen. The commissioners are running this year, too.

Only one thing can carry the county government thru 1942 without complete bankruptcy, payless paydays, and the infliction of suffering on the thousands of poor people who depend on the County hospital and Oak Forest for care. That is a real effort to collect delinquent taxes, all of the penalties on which will accrue to the county. That opportunity, however, has been present for the last 10 years. For reasons that the public cannot fathom, it does not appeal to the bankrupt minds of the Democratic political machine.

THE PACIFIC COUNCIL.

Something has happened to change the plan for a Pacific council to be set up in Washington. The council has been established in London. No adequate explanation of the change has been given.

The world first heard of the Pacific council in the speech which Mr. Churchill made in parliament on Jan. 27. He said:

"In order to wage war effectively against Japan, it was agreed that we should propose to those concerned the setting up of a Pacific council in London on a ministerial plane, comprising Great Britain, Australia, New Zealand, and the Netherlands East Indies, assisted by the British chiefs of staff and the great staff organization beneath them. Thus the united views of the British commonwealth and the Dutch would be transmitted to the combined chiefs of staff committee sitting in Washington.

"The Dutch government, sitting in London, may be willing to agree to this arrangement. But the Australian government desire and the New Zealand government prefer that this Council of the Pacific should be in Washington where it would work alongside the combined chiefs of staff committee.

"I have therefore transmitted the views of these dominions to the President."

Perhaps Mr. Churchill indicated in a covering note that he preferred to have the council in London; at any rate, our government did not insist on Washington. When the war is over and the memoirs and documents are published, it will be instructive to learn why this decision was reached.

Why did Australia "desire" and New Zealand "prefer" Washington? One guess might be that they were greatly dissatisfied with the management of imperial affairs which had exposed them to Japanese attack while thousands of their soldiers were fighting in Libya. Another explanation may be found in the circumstance that the guarding of the eastward approaches to Australia and New Zealand has been made the responsibility of the United States. It was only natural that the dominions concerned would wish to keep in as close contact as possible with their protector.

Perhaps there was reluctance in London to permit such a formal recognition of the dependence of the Pacific dominions upon our strength. Perhaps there was reluctance in Washington to seem to encourage any loosening of the imperial ties. If so, the incident is not without its significance for the future. Advocates of "union now" should find the matter particularly interesting, suggesting as it does that London is not temperamentally adjusted to the federal idea of a union of equal states and Washington is unwilling to take action displeasing to Britain.

CLOSED MINDS.

Annapolis classmates met the other day to honor the memory of Lieut. Comm. Walter D. La Mont, one of the navy's forgotten men. Before he died last month La Mont had the tragic knowledge that his great invention, a lightweight boiler, which was spurned by the navy of his own country, was being employed against the United States by its enemies. Both the Germans and the Japanese saw the advantage of the invention, altho La Mont's superiors were blind to them.

La Mont's boiler, according to engineers, not only is much more efficient than the type used in American warships, but weighs only half as much and takes up only half as much space. The saving means greater speed, heavier armor, and more guns. But for 24 years the navy refused to adopt the invention.

La Mont's story is more than the usual one of neglected genius and a prophet without honor in his own country. It demonstrates how men in the navy department are incapable of thinking in terms of 1942. Naval architects and engineers who have spent their lives designing turrets, turret machinery, and all the other machines and gadgets which have gone into warships cannot welcome change. Admirals who know all that is known about naval gunnery don't want to play a new game, at which they would be beginners.

These men have erected Maginot lines in their own minds to keep out all new ideas. They are loath or unable to rid themselves of their hostility to change, and there is now no executive direction in the navy department that is sufficiently informed or forceful to compel them to modify their views. If congress does not take the matter in hand the country never will get a modern fighting fleet.

THE MIDWEST AS A SHELTER FOR ART.

[St. Louis Post-Dispatch.]

William Church Osborne, president of the board of the Metropolitan Museum of Art, announced yesterday that a secret wartime repository had been found for the museum's treasures. It is assumed that this will be used should the danger of intensive air raids come to New York.

Other famous eastern museums are also confronted with this problem. In considering it, they are not overly alarmist. They are being prudent. It will be impossible for them to take precautions at the 11th hour.

In this connection, the midwest suggests itself as a gigantic air raid shelter. Some galleries have already made plans for lending some of their most important possessions to museums that are relatively safe in the heart of the continent.

This idea has the very great merit of giving people who cannot travel to the east an opportunity to see and enjoy some of the most splendid masterpieces in the United States. The Chicago Art institute has long—and generously—shared its wealth with others by sending exhibits on tour. It would be one of the good things attributable to the war if eastern museums adopted this plan as a wartime safety measure.

Museums everywhere would be glad to have these loans and would surely pay the customary insurance premiums and freight charges. Why condemn masterpieces to hibernation?

A LINE O' TYPE OR TWO

How to the Line, let the quips fall where they may.

MARKED FOR CORRECTION.

A typographical error in the Big Dictionary is a collector's item. In a lifetime of consulting Webster, during which we have worn out several editions, we have found only one mistake of the typesetter, and this happened recently. See page 1713 of the 1940 edition, small type at the bottom of the page, definition of Orang Laut. Malay is spelled Maylay.

In the 14th edition of the Encyclopedia Britannica, see the article on Java. Note in the second line that Java is placed in the Dutch West Indies. A painful slip of the editorial pen.

In many newspaper dispatches from the various theaters of war, and especially from Hawaii after Pearl Harbor, casualties from airplane bombs have been described as from "shrapnel." In such cases we would substitute "bomb fragments" or "shell fragments." It is our notion, altho we do not pose as an authority, that shrapnel is field artillery ammunition for use against massed formations of troops.

Of all undependable sources for correct information about the South Sea Islands, Hollywood films, which frequently place their stories there, rank highest. For example, take the current "South of Tahiti." Its scene is an unnamed Polynesian island inhabited by pseudo-Malays of 2,000 miles farther west, and its animal life includes leopards from Hindustan and Great Dane dogs from Germany. We will grant, however, that "South of Tahiti" is intended as a humorous fantasy in which polar bears would not have been out of place.

IT'S JUST TOO BAD.

O, there can't be bombs and bullets
Where the Southern Islands lie—
For they can't blackout the moonlight
And they cannot dim that sky
Where the moon-man has no wrinkle,
Where the balmy breezes tinkle,
And the sequin stars all twinkle
As the clouds sail slowly by.

O, there can't be hate and havoc
Underneath a Carib moon,
For there's naught to stop the music
Of a sweet marimba tune.
Where the trade winds keep on blowing,
Where the fragile orchid's growing,
Where there's neither hail nor snowing
And the climate's always June.

No, they can't be dropping fireworks
On a placid coral isle,
For there is no word for "aircraft"
And there is no rank and file,
Where the palm trees' fronds are swinging,
Where the sea gulls white are winging,
Where the whole of nature's singing
And the god of peace can smile. B. J. K.

When You Say That, Smile.

Linemaster: How about calling on your readers to explain why the Irish are called "Turks" or "Turkeys"?

H. L. Mencken in "The American Language" says: "Turk is commonly used among the Roman Catholic clergy in the United States to designate a priest or bishop of Irish blood, and especially one born in Ireland," but that does not explain why. I have not heard it applied particularly to the clergy. W. J. M.

(Our guess is that the term refers to the Galways, or neck whiskers, of early Irish immigrants. The turkey, too, has hair on its neck. We reject Mr. Mencken's theory of clerical usage.)

A Question of Emphasis.

Abraham Lincoln's definition of the American system of government, in his Gettysburg address, as "government of the people, by the people, for the people" is well known.

The way in which Lincoln delivered this famous passage is not so well known. The passage is almost universally read incorrectly, with the emphasis on the prepositions "of," "by," and "for." It has been established by the testimony of persons who heard Lincoln at Gettysburg that he placed the emphasis on the word people, which he made stronger with each repetition.

This emphasis was natural, because it represents Lincoln's interpretation of the essence of Americanism. Grace B.

LINCOLN'S LAUGHTER.

("With the fearful strain that is upon me night and day, if I did not laugh I should die."—Lincoln.)

Some held him lightly, even then, because
He loved a common jest; they called him fool
Sprung from the soil, debased by earthy flaws
And out of place in halls of those who rule.
They overlooked the eyes whose caverns told
How thru long, sleepless nights he paced his room
In shapeless robe, oblivious of the cold,
In search of light to somehow thwart the doom
A sundered nation faced. Dark times are here
Once more, and as we pause to mark his day
We own our debt to him we all revere.
Now we are reconciled, and know our way
To win the fight, despite the battle's length,
Because his gift of laughter gives us strength.

Sing a Song of Shortage.

All this talk of shortages reminds me of a rhyme of long ago:

Half an inch, half an inch, half an inch shorter;
The skirts are the same of mother and daughter.
When the wind blows, each of them shows
Half an inch, half an inch more than she oughter.

The authorship of this jingle is credited to the bishop of Ely by Viscount Lascelles, whose mother-in-law is Queen Mary, but the prelate denied the soft impeachment.

HEAT—A UNIVERSAL REMEDY.

HEAT is our oldest healing agent, and we all use it. The sweat bath has been popular the world over. The American Indians built small inclosures which were covered with wet leaves. The invalid perspired generously in steam generated by water thrown over hot stones.

Externally, this force exerts a powerful effect in drawing blood to the skin. Furthermore, it is soothing in the presence of inflammation and pain. A moderate amount applied for hours will bring so much vital fluid to the part that a blazing infection may resolve itself into an abscess ready for evacuation. In addition, the discomfort of aching muscles is allayed because anything that increases the circulation tends to carry away irritating toxins.

Nowadays we have recourse to many electrical gadgets. A heating pad that is thoroly insulated is helpful. It is well, however, to make regular inspections of the device, as a broken wire can produce a short circuit. We must be particularly cautious with those who are asleep, unconscious, and weak. Burns are anything but pleasant and, during illness, are difficult to heal.

One of the best sources of warmth is the infra-red lamp. A common bathroom unit, or a 100 watt bulb equipped with a metal reflector, will accomplish as much as a far more expensive appliance. In the home we can maintain almost any desired intensity by adjusting the apparatus at varying distances from the area which we wish to treat.

If moisture is desired, packs wrung out of salt solution may be placed directly on the epidermis and a given temperature sustained by means of the lamp. This method saves scores of trips to the bathroom to wring out fresh towels and avoids completely the chilling which follows if the dressings are not changed with sufficient frequency.

We must recall, however, that if we wish to drive heat deep within the tissues this type of equipment will be inadequate. We will need to resort to short wave diathermy or some similar mechanism. This plan requires expert management and the physician's office or the hospital may be visited.

Of course, heat should not be employed in bleeding wounds. To do so would accelerate hemorrhage. Neither can we advise it if the blood vessels have been damaged seriously and if the circulation is already doing its best. But we can relieve arthritis, wry neck, lumbago, boils, headache, skin infections, bronchitis, inflammation within the muscles, neuralgia, and disease of the capillaries when we wish them to dilate.

In arthritis involving the hands an excellent aid is offered by the paraffin bath and the paraffin glove. These procedures force more nutriment to the surface than when water is utilized. After such a session joints may be moved more easily and with less pain.

[On receipt of a stamped, self-addressed envelope directions will be sent for both the paraffin régime and the manufacture of a simple electric bulb baker, which may be used with either dry or moist heat.]

DISTURBED KIDNEYS.

Mrs. C. F. writes: What causes albumin in the urine and what should be done about it?

REPLY.

Irritation or inflammation of the kidneys, which may be chronic in character. Skilled medical management will be needed.

A SERIOUS SITUATION.

D. J. writes: Can a 5 year old child have diabetes? She urinates frequently and is losing weight.

REPLY.

Unfortunately, yes. Immediate and skilled care is in order. Insulin will be required in addition to a carefully regulated diet.

AGE IN T. B.

H. J. writes: Is it unusual for a 4 year old child to have pulmonary tuberculosis?

REPLY.

As a rule, the disease appears later in life—between 15 and 40. Children, however, may be afflicted with an acute form of the malady.

Writers should confine themselves to 200 or 300 words. Give full names and addresses. No manuscripts can be returned. Space for letters is obviously limited. Incoming mail far exceeds it. If a letter is not printed, attribute it to lack of room. Address letters to Voice of the People, THE TRIBUNE.

TALE OF A SOLDIER.

Camp Claiborne, La., Feb. 7.—In our battery we have a soldier about 45 years of age who is a veteran of the World war. His name is Albert Lewis, but we call him "Scotty." Scotty fought on six major fronts in the last war. About seven months ago, the army found out that he was not a citizen of this country and stopped his pay. But all this time Scotty has been doing his duty in the battery, instructing rookies like myself on combat discipline.

Two days ago the battery commander was notified that Scotty was to be discharged without his back pay. The boys in the battery took up a collection and raised $54 for Scotty. Last night in the mess hall Scotty made a speech thanking us all for thinking of him. He said, "Boys, I want to ——", and burst into tears. As a couple of fellows led him away, he said, "How else can a fellow show his love for his country than by fighting for it?"

There were 109 men in the mess hall and every one of them had tears in his eyes. But the funny part of the story is that Scotty has been in the army ever since the last war.

PRIVATE IRA KENNEDY.

MORE BROOKSES NEEDED.

Sterling, Ill., Jan. 29.—I most heartily agree with the statement of Clarence M. Cleveland of Frankfort that "Senator Brooks should receive the hearty support of every Illinois voter who believes in our present form of government." I will go Mr. Cleveland one better. It is up to us as voters to see to it that Sen. Brooks gets the support at the polls that his sincerity, integrity, and unselfish devotion to our republican form of government demand. We need many more of his caliber in the senate and house, also in Springfield. Greed, graft, and grab have been in power too long. It is up to the voters of Illinois and every state in the Union to put men like Brooks in office, so that we may regain and retain our government of, for, and by the people. P. L. B.

FROM THE BABY'S BANK.

Chicago, Jan. 27.—After hearing the plea to buy defense bonds and stamps, I took the money out of my little girl's bank to a branch postoffice to buy her a bond. I rolled it in white paper thus: $11 in quarters, $5 in dimes, $2 in nickels, and a 50 cent piece, and a 25 cent piece. The window clerk shouted at me that I was old enough to know better and that I should have regular coin paper and have the money in exact amounts. He told me to take it home and bring it back in dollar bills. When he saw how very near tears I was, he began to count it and shoved my bond thru the window to me. I didn't feel very happy or proud of that bond, due to the scolding I got from him. MRS. FERN ROMAN.

CASE FOR THE P. O. INSPECTORS.

Chicago, Feb. 6.—Will the person who stole an official letter addressed to Edward H. Lee, 2206 Wentworth avenue, please return it. There will be no questions asked. It is of vital importance to national defense that this letter be returned. EDWARD H. LEE.

TO BALLAD COLLECTORS.

Urbana, Ill., Feb. 1.—Can any one help me find the words to the old song—"Tommy Duffy's Lumber Cart"? JESSIE L. CHAPMAN.

PRIVATE GRAFF.

Chicago, Feb. 9.—Many thanks for your fine tribute to Private Richard Graff. We had the pleasure and the privilege of knowing "Dick." He was a quiet, unassuming fellow with a good sense of humor. It is indeed lamentable that such valiant men as Dick and the rest of the fighting soldiers must sacrifice their lives for the "cooky pushers" in Washington, the Broadway fan dancers, the Hollywood glamor boys, and the armchair profiteers. J. E.

DOESN'T LIKE COMMENTATORS.

Chicago, Feb. 8.—My wife is a confirmed radio war news commentator tuner inner and as a result I, too, have to listen to the dad-burned solvers of international problems. I wouldn't mind it so much if they stuck to their real job of news reporting, but when they raise their voices and add their words of wisdom on what should be done and what shouldn't be done, I'm in a mood for committing murder. They remind me of the fellow who stands behind you when you're playing pinochle and knows every play before you do, but when he gets into the game on his own he loses his shirt. OL' TIMER.

BALBO'S RECORD.

Chicago, Feb. 5.—It is indeed surprising that Ald. Douglas' resolution to change the name of Balbo drive to Garibaldi drive should have been pigeonholed by the city council. It is even more surprising that the excuse should have been that Balbo met death at the orders of Mussolini. Whether or not this is true is entirely immaterial in view of Balbo's record. The assassination of the liberal priest, Don Minzoni, in which, it has been shown, Balbo participated, cannot be effaced even if Balbo was shot down by a fellow assassin.

SUGGESTION.

Columbus, Ind., Feb. 6.—I note that some of our congressmen object to being made ridiculous by the people. I suggest that these congressmen stop making themselves ridiculous. And this goes for all others on the government's pay roll. AMERICAN.

THE WAP.

Marinette, Wis., Feb. 4.—The congressional pension looks like the old pay-off. Evidently some of the boys are feeling uneasy and put the heat on the boss. A congressional WAP [won't accept pension] plank in the coming congressional election will strike a responsive chord. READER.

SCATTERED MEN AND MONEY.

Hinsdale, Ill., Jan. 28.—If the United States does not stop scattering her forces and wasting her billions we won't defeat the axis in 1943 or any other year. M. L. S.

FINAL ACCOUNT—TENANCY.

Chicago, Feb. 4.—Legal Friend of the People.]—1. In protesting about a shortage in a final account in a deceased's estate, will I need a lawyer to be present at the hearing? I have a receipt proving my claim.

2. What is the meaning of escrowee?

3. To make a tenant who has no lease vacate, shall I tell her 30 days in advance that I want her to move?

4. If she refuses what steps shall I take? M. B.

1. You are in a better position than we are to estimate the complexity of the point and your own ability to handle it.

2. He is a person holding money or papers for the other parties to a transaction.

3. A tenancy is "by the month" if expressly so agreed, or if the rent is payable monthly and there is no valid agreement for a longer term. Since an oral agreement for a year to commence in future is invalid under the Statute of Frauds, the tenancy under such an agreement is ordinarily by the month. The Landlord and Tenant Act, Sec. 6, reads: "In all cases of tenancy by the month, or for any other term less than one year, where the tenant holds over without special agreement, the landlord shall have the right to terminate the tenancy . . . by 30 days' notice in writing." In 10 Ill. App. 626 it was held that "this section has no reference to the right of the tenant to terminate." Hence, the common law 30 days oral notice by the tenant is probably sufficient, but we advise written notice in all cases. The notice does not relieve the tenant of his obligation to pay rent to the end of his tenancy.

4. Bring suit for possession.

   100,000 2 million 50 million 1½ billion.
5. Which one of these animals is most sure footed?
   Goat Mule Donkey Cow.
6. The metric system of measurement is almost universally accepted as the measuring language of science. You deserve one point for each correct matching of the metric prefixes below with their meanings.

[a] Milli-	[v] One thousand
[b] Deka-	[w] One hundredth
[c] Centi-	[x] One-thousandth
[d] Kilo-	[y] One-tenth
[e] Deci-	[z] Ten

Score yourself as follows: 0-2, poor; 3-6, average; 7-8, superior; 9-10, very superior. [Note—The last question counts five points.]

PRIZE OPERETTAS POUR IN ON W-G-N UP TO DEADLINE

Selection of Winners Is to Start Today.

BY LARRY WOLTERS.

The scores of brand new operettas arrived at the offices of W-G-N in ever increasing volume all day yesterday up to midnight, the deadline for submitting manuscripts in the $10,500 Great American Operetta quest.

Today the preliminary examination of these new musical creations will be begun by a staff of experts from W-G-N's music and drama departments. Later they will be joined by 10 nationally famous musical leaders in making the final selections—the three $1,000 prize winners.

The new operettas represent musical portrayals of American spirit and achievement as interpreted by the nation's composers. There are works from every corner of the land and from Canada. Illinois provided the greatest number of finished operettas; California was next, and New York third.

Most Are Patriotic.

A preliminary inventory disclosed that four out of every five operettas are patriotic in theme, Henry Weber, supervisor of examinations, said. While the operettas themselves have not yet been examined, letters from contestants disclosed that many works in progress were abandoned after Pearl Harbor and new ones, based on American entry into the war, adopted.

One entry was accompanied by a letter from the assistant chief of the United States army air corps, giving army approval of its production in case it were chosen. This operetta was written by an air corps officer.

Weber pointed out that the judges will not know the identity of the composers. Entry blanks in sealed envelopes are keyed to the manuscripts by numbers. The manuscripts are identified only by working titles.

Down to the Finals.

Three operettas will be chosen as winners, each bringing its composer $1,000. They will be produced on the W-G-N Theater of the Air on March 14, 21, and 28. Listeners will join in a contest to select their first choice among these three and give it a name, for which $2,500 will be distributed. The winning operetta then will be produced on Saturday, April 11, as the Great American Operetta, with Marion Claire, star of the Theater of the Air productions, singing the leading part.

Weber, commenting on the professional appearance of many of the manuscripts, said he expected not only to find three deserving new works and one worthy of the title of the Great American Operetta, but that he expected the competition to provide some great new patriotic and war songs.

First Group of Judges.

Assisting in the preliminary examinations will be Robert Trendler, director of the W-G-N Dance orchestra, pianist and choral director; Fran Coughlin, W-G-N writer; Edward Barry and Cecil Smith of THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE's music and dramatic staff.

The judges who have been invited to join here in the finals selections on Feb. 18 and 19 are Irving Berlin, Jerome Kern, Sigmund Romberg, Oscar Straus, Emmerich Kalman, Dr. Frederick Stock, Edwin McArthur, Oscar Hammerstein, John Golden, and B. G. [Buddy] De Sylva.

NAVY DESIGNATES NOTRE DAME AS TRAINING CENTER

Course to Prepare for Midshipman Study.

South Bend, Ind., Feb. 10 [Special]. —Officials of Notre Dame university were notified today that the institution had been designated as a center for training 1,000 navy seamen a month under the navy's new V-7 training program.

The first group of 1,000 men will arrive here April 15. After a month's training they will be sent to other centers similar to the one at Abbott hall, on the Chicago campus of Northwestern university, for a three month midshipmen's course.

In the absence of officially disclosed details of the program it was reported that while most of those who will begin their training at Notre Dame will be engineering students, their work here will consist largely of physical conditioning.

V-7 is the navy's classification for naval reserve midshipmen. Candidates are given a total of four months of training, after which they are commissioned as deck ensigns or engineering ensigns or deck and engineering ensigns in the United States naval reserve.

The faculty for the program will come from navy departments in Washington, D. C., and from the United States Naval academy at Annapolis.

The plan is a part of the navy's program to expand its personnel by utilizing educational facilities of the country's universities. Last week the navy announced it had leased facilities of the University of Iowa and the University of Georgia and would name two other institutions for the training of naval air pilots.

Notre Dame agreed to provide accommodations and facilities for 1,000 men a month. Facilities will include those for housing, mess, instruction, recreation, and medical attention.

PASS TENTATIVE COUNTY BUDGET, DEEP IN THE RED

$4,357,323 in Excess of Expected Revenues.

BY LAURENCE BURD.

The Cook county board yesterday adopted a tentative 1942 budget of $21,528,323, an increase of $700,040 over the 1941 budget and $4,357,323 in excess of this year's prospective revenues, as estimated by the county controler.

A public hearing, at which more than 70 civic groups have served notice they will protest against the increased appropriations, will be held by the board next Tuesday. The budget will be called up for final passage by the county board within two weeks.

Economy Survey Ignored.

The number of county employés remains approximately the same as last year—4,300—in the 1942 budget. The Circuit court judges, who set the number of employés in the 13 county fee offices, and the county commissioners, who have jurisdiction over the 19 other departments, refused to adopt recommendations for economies made by a special efficiency survey committee. The committee, whose survey was authorized by the county at a cost of $20,000, proposed dropping more than 400 jobs at a saving of $900,000.

Newton C. Farr, president of the Civic federation, which recruited the survey staff, said yesterday that the federation will demand a reduction in the budget at the public hearing. Farr criticized county officials for disregarding the survey recommendations and for making appropriations far in excess of expected income.

A. of C. to Ask Cuts.

Leverett Lyon, executive director of the Chicago Association of Commerce, said the association and 70 other organizations also will be represented at the hearing and will ask the board to hold expenditures within the county's means.

The commissioners yesterday brought the budget "technically" into balance by boosting the controler's previous revenue estimates to meet the 4 million dollar deficiency. The chief item of prospective income boosted by the board was tax penalties, which Assistant Controler Richard J. Daley had placed at 5 million dollars. The board raised this to $7,900,000. The 1941 revenue from penalties was only $5,600,000 and income from this source has been steadily declining in recent years.

Appropriations for most departments were boosted from the 1941 levels. Restoration of the 4 1/6 per cent salary cut in effect for all county employés accounted for a $483,000 increase in the 1942 budget.

1941 and 1942 Compared.

The following table compares the 1942 tentative appropriations with the 1941 final budget figures.

	1942 tentative.	1941 actual.

Fixed charges	1,467,700	1,306,167
Totals	$21,528,323	$20,828,282

The board did not set up any appropriation for a judgment of $3,136,000 owed by the county for its share of Municipal court costs, nor for $183,000 interest overdue on the judgment. In addition to this judgment the county owes $4,508,152 in unpaid bills and currently accrued pay rolls.

Gophers, Long Ago, Built Mima Mounds, You Know

Geologists, with furrowed brow, most often only ponder how the Mima mounds of Washington upon the prairies were begun. Sometimes they also wonder who would build the Mimas; leave no clew. The Journal of Geology explains, today, the mystery. The gophers burrowed long ago and built the mounds, new studies show. Forget the red man, and the quake, and let the gophers credit take.

[ADVERTISMENT]

DON'T SCRATCH, SOOTHE THE IRRITATION

Quick relief from the maddening itch of eczema, simple rash, cracked skin between toes, and minor irritations about the rectum or personal parts is obtained by applying Resinol Ointment. Leave it on over night. It lessens the desire to scratch and eases the irritation.

The skin heals sooner, too, with the help of Resinol because its oily base holds the medication in active contact with tortured parts—reducing the itchy stinging — promoting comfort — and thus giving nature a chance to heal.

For gentle cleansing of irritated skin, Resinol Soap is excellent as it has no excess of free alkali and is so refreshing. Why don't you try Resinol Ointment and Soap today?

Buy at any drug store. For free sample of each write to Resinol, Dept. 28, Baltimore, Md.

LINCOLN SHRINE TURNS ROMANTIC PAGE OF HISTORY

Lincoln's New Salem, Ill., Feb. 10.—More than a century ago young Abraham Lincoln's flatboat stuck fast on a crude log and stone dam stretched across the placid waters of the Sangamon. Thus by accident he got his first glimpse of the little backwoods village where he remained six years, grew to manhood, and wooed Ann Rutledge.

This week while the nation celebrates the 133d anniversary of the Civil war President's birth, another log and stone dam in the same spot holds back a millpond that will grind corn and saw logs just as it did in Lincoln's day.

The grist and saw mill of hewn timbers is a reproduction of the one operated in 1831 by New Salem's founders and is the latest addition to the restored log cabin village that is a living memorial to Lincoln. A miller already has been hired to operate the mills.

CITY HALL, MANY OTHER OFFICES TO HAVE HOLIDAY

City and county offices and courts, banks, and numerous other business institutions will be closed tomorrow, Lincoln's birthday. City schools also will be closed.

Administrative offices of the school board, park district, WPA, and Illinois Emergency Relief commission will have a holiday. The postoffice department in the federal courthouse will close its public facilities at 1 p. m. The rest of the building, including federal courts and clerks' offices, will operate as usual.

The Adler planetarium, Lincoln and Garfield park conservatories, Brookfield and Lincoln park zoos, Field museum, and Art institute will be open.

Bus Line to Buy 35 New Buses at $14,000 Apiece

The Illinois Commerce commission authorized the Chicago Motor Coach company yesterday to buy 35 new single deck buses at a cost of $14,000 each. Representatives of the company said that the first of the buses will be delivered early next week.

BIG WAR RALLY TOMORROW TO BE LINCOLN TRIBUTE

Patriotism to Be Stressed in Free Program.

Chicago's first big patriotic rally of the new World war will be held tomorrow evening in Medinah temple, Wabash avenue and Ohio street. "Lincoln Speaks Again" will be the theme of the Lincoln's birthday program.

Mayor Kelly will be the principal speaker. Others on the program are Gov. Dwight H. Green, Rear Adm. Wat T. Cluverius, Mrs. John Alden Carpenter, chairman of the women's activities; Assistant Secretary of the Navy Ralph Bard, Commodore Sheldon Clark, and John G. Gallaher and Norman B. Collins of the United States treasury department.

Every One Is Invited.

The program will be under the auspices of the treasury's defense savings staff and the navy, with the coöperation of the American Legion and the Navy League of the United States. Every one is invited; admission is free.

An interpretation of what Lincoln would say were he alive today, written by James Mangan, a member of the general committee in charge, will be read during the tableau, "Lincoln Speaks Again," by Orval Mullis of Decatur, Ill.

One of the features of the program will be the swearing into the United States navy of 300 new recruits by Lieut. David N. Goldenson, recruiting officer in charge. This mass induction will be conducted with the historic colors of 225 Legion posts in the county as a background.

Tableaux to Be Presented.

Another feature will be the singing of "We Did It Before" by The Northerners, radio group. This will be done in the glare of a white spotlight. During the second chorus spotlights will flash to boxes at left and right of the stage where tableaux will be shown representing Minute Men of '76, a soldier of 1812, a sailor of the Spanish-American war, and a soldier, sailor, and marine of the first World war.

A third feature will be a baton drill by 18 Chicago drum majorettes. Dick Powell, screen actor, and Bonita Granville, actress, as well as the Dinning sisters, known as the "Treasury Trio," and Betty Robinson, Olympic star, will take part. There will be music by the Great Lakes Navy band.

Lincoln's birthday exercises and celebrations will be held in the schools thruout the city and there will be numerous neighborhood programs.

I WONDER IF I'M GOING TO CATCH HIS COLD

After Exposure GARGLE LISTERINE—QUICK!

Listerine Antiseptic reaches way back on throat surfaces to kill literally millions of the types of germs that many authorities say are responsible for the miserable symptoms of a cold.

In clinical tests over a ten-year period regular twice-a-day users of Listerine Antiseptic had fewer colds, milder colds and colds of shorter duration than non-users. So, at the first hint of trouble, gargle Listerine and consult your doctor.

MOTHERS! Check children's throats daily with amazing new Listerine Throat Light that actually bends light rays to illuminate throat surface . . . Full details at any drug counter.

HALIFAX TO BE DINNER GUEST OF GOV. GREEN; WILL SPEAK TONIGHT

Springfield, Ill., Feb. 10 (AP).—Viscount Halifax, British ambassador to the United States, and Mrs. Halifax will be guests of Gov. and Mrs. Dwight Green at dinner tomorrow night when the envoy arrives to participate in Lincoln birthday ceremonies.

Lord Halifax will speak at 8 p. m. at Springfield High school on "What We Can Learn from Lincoln Today," and will lay a wreath on Lincoln's tomb Thursday morning.

Others invited by Gov. and Mrs. Green to the dinner tomorrow are Col. Angus McDonnell of the British embassy, Lewis Bernays, British consul general at Chicago; Lieut. Gov. and Mrs. Hugh W. Cross; Chief Justice Loren E. Murphy of the state Supreme court and Mrs. Murphy; Federal Judge Charles G. Briggle and Mrs. Briggle; Mr. and Mrs. Logan Hay of Springfield; R. Allen Stephens, president of the Springfield Mid-Day Luncheon club, which is sponsoring Lord Halifax's appearance; William C. Hurst of Springfield, president of the Chicago and Illinois Midland railroad; Mrs. Fred W. Upham of Chicago, head of the women's division of the state defense council, and Mrs. Bertha Baur of Chicago, Republican national committeewoman.

War Activity Gets First Claim on Soldiers' Field

The Chicago park board voted yesterday to include a cancellation clause in all contracts for the use of Soldiers' field under which war activities will have priorities on use of the field. Any dates set aside for use by a private organization may be canceled if needed by a defense group, the board said.

SHIPPING DELAY ATTRIBUTED TO UNION DISPUTE

Trucks Can't Reach City Over 'L' Track.

The union squabble which for 10 days has kept North Shore Line trains from operating in Chicago, is not only causing great inconvenience to the traveling public, but also is hampering the shipment of national defense materials, North Shore Line officials said yesterday.

They said the line was forced to close the freight terminal at Montrose avenue, where truck trailers formerly were loaded on North Shore flat cars, and use instead the Kostner avenue station in Skokie, eight miles away, where the line has a storage track and has built a temporary loading platform at a cost of $1,000. Truck firms have been losing about $200 daily and covering 800 needless miles, at the cost of gasoline, oil, tires, and other equipment, because of the longer runs, the officials said.

Boosts Wages and Tire Wear.

Harry M. Gordy, vice president and general manager of the Keeshin Motor Express Co., Inc., said the dispute costs his firm about $80 daily in wages, means extra daily runs of 320 miles, and upsets the firm's plans for saving tires.

A number of smaller firms were similarly affected.

The trailers are sent to Milwaukee, where they are unloaded and hooked to tractors. Other loaded trailers, meanwhile come into Chicago from Wisconsin, are unloaded at Montrose

North Shore employés, most of whom have been with the road for many years, said that they, too, have to bear an increasing burden.

Train Crews Denounced.

North Shore matrons and businessmen, many of whom have ridden the road for years, are beginning to glare at previously liked trainmen. Conductors and ticket agents said the passengers accuse them of being unpatriotic because they've joined the Brotherhood of Railroad Trainmen, thus causing the dispute with "L" trainmen, members of the Amalgamated union, which resulted in refusal to permit North Shore trains to operate in Chicago on elevated tracks.

Hal Lytle, a North Shore line spokesman, yesterday urged commuters holding ticket books calling for rides into the loop to turn them in at ticket offices and obtain refunds. Many riders have been using commutation tickets and complaining because they were forced to pay another fare to ride the L.

Creditors of the elevated lines have sued in federal court for an order directing the North Shore receivers to sue the Amalgamated union for damages for keeping Shore trains off the "L" track.

PUPILS WIN TRIP TO NEW SALEM IN ESSAY CONTEST

Forty pupils of the seventh and eighth grades of Chicago's schools and the first two years of the high schools, winners of an essay contest sponsored by the Chicago Boys clubs, will leave tomorrow for a bus trip to New Salem state park and to Springfield, where they will visit the capitol and the Lincoln monument and Lincoln home. They will return home Friday evening. The essay contest, in which 5,000 participated, was on the subject, "I Believe in a Democracy Because—."

THE TRIBUNE TRAVELERS' GUIDE

UPPER MICHIGAN IDEAL SPOT FOR WINTER SPORTS

Outdoor Fan Is Lured by Variety of Attractions.

BY BOB BECKER.

Altho the palm trees and sun drenched beaches and lakes of Florida attract thousands of northerners at this time of the year, other thousands of outdoor fans are having lots of fun on Michigan's Upper peninsula, with such typical winter sports as skiing, skating, tobogganing, hiking thru snow-blown woods on snowshoes, and even spearing northern pike thru the ice.

We had a chance to sample Michigan's winter sports bill of fare last week when we invaded the woods and trails around Blaney Park, about 22 miles northwest of Manistique. Widely known to summer vacationists, that resort area, with its thousands of acres of woodlands, trout streams, lakes, forest trails, and hunting preserves, and its Paul Bunyan museum, was the meeting place of members of the Outdoor Writers' Association of America. The members, gathered from Massachusetts, Michigan, Illinois, and other states, were equipped to try just about everything.

Lulu and Elmer on Hand.

Among the amusing things they found there were Lulu, a miniature red caboose on runners, and Elmer, a big open sleigh which G. Harold Earle, the lumberman who developed Blaney as an outdoor playground, built for the pleasure of winter sports fans.

Mr. Earle had a small tractor hooked up to Lulu and Elmer to make a complete snow train. It even has a melodious locomotive bell on the front—one that goes back to the early days when a small railroad [just seven miles long] connected what was then a logging camp to the main line of the Soo.

By means of this unusual snow train it's possible to follow winding roads that lead far back from the main lodge into the cedar and spruce swamps where hundreds of deer are wintering. Most of the deer stop and gaze with amazement at this rumbling snow train as it passes.

Sleigh Riding Gone Modern.

The combination of tractor, Lulu, and Elmer [dubbed the Stump Knocker Special] is sleigh riding gone modern. If a guest gets cold while tucked under heavy robes in the open sleigh he can step from this vehicle into the well-heated enclosed car [Lulu], where a brisk fire always is kept going.

Conditions were perfect for winter woods travel when we went touring on the snow train and hiked thru the woods around Blaney. There was about 8 inches of snow. After an hour in the woods we were convinced that on other sleigh ride on the Upper peninsula gives the outdoorsman a glimpse of so many deer. On a trip thru several cedar and spruce swamps to a small logging camp we could see as many as three of the animals at a time near the snow covered road. Blaney Park has a sound game management program, and the deer population is kept at a level commensurate with the amount of food available.

Ornithologist Is Visited.

One of the interesting trips via Lulu and Elmer is the jaunt thru the woods to the cabin of Dr. Karl Christofferson, widely known amateur ornithologist. He lives on Tee lake, a few miles from the main lodge, and there he bands hundreds of birds each winter. There are bird traps all around his cabin.

While we chatted with the doctor we could watch hairy woodpeckers go after suet left for them on the porch. Seventy-five feet from his front door we could see the chickadees feeding around the wire traps.

But the treat of the day for city dwellers visiting the doctor's camp is the sight of 50 to 60 snowbuntings feeding on millet about 14 feet from a cabin window.

Other Sports Facilities.

Blaney Park has other winter sports facilities, such as toboggan and ski slides, and a skating rink [electrically lighted in the evening], set like a miniature pond in the virgin timber.

But we doubt whether anything has a greater appeal to the city folk than sitting in an ice shanty and waiting for a "shot" at a big lake pickerel with a long handled spear. These "pickerel châteaux" are placed on the lakes within the boundaries of the park. A hole about 24x34 inches is cut in the ice to expose open water and in this hole Mel Roberts, expert fisherman, works a decoy minnow—one that you hope will bring a pickerel within shooting range of the spear.

CHINESE TO GREET THEIR NEW YEAR IN ANCIENT RITES

Los Angeles, Cal., Feb. 10 [Special]. —Writhing down the winding lanes on its 200 legs, the Great Good dragon of Los Angeles' China City is about to be matched in mortal combat against the wicked Black dragon of Japan. The combat will be the featured event of the celebration of the Chinese New Year. With the date determined by the moon, the year will begin next Sunday.

Starting off the observance is the departure of squat, all-powerful Tsas Wang Yeh, the kitchen god who stands guard over the old fashioned Chinese households. Tsas reports to the heavens on the conduct of each household, and he goes away amply bribed with maidens' kisses and with honey smeared on his lips. There follows a week of debt paying, repainting, and cleansing. Even the sidewalks are scrubbed.

Public Burns Incense.

On New Year's eve the god returns, to be greeted by a rather solemn ceremony, presided over by a Buddhist monk from China, at the main gateway to China City. The public participates by burning incense.

Then comes the dragon battle. For months the Chinese have been practicing the maneuvering of their half-block long fantasy of cloth and metal.

San Francisco to Celebrate.

San Francisco, Cal., Feb. 10 [Special].—With firecrackers popping, and varicolored lanterns swaying from balconies, 20,000 Chinese of San Francisco will start their week-long observance of New Year next Saturday night.

Nowhere else, outside the orient, are there such pomp and pageantry, color and excitement, as on the streets of Chinatown. For seven days and nights there are banquets, Feasts of the Lantern, and dances such as that of the Buddha Lion. In the last named affair the huge, silken monster is carried thru the streets of the quarter by young Chinese.

Druggists take their own medicine
It occurs to us that Philadelphia druggists take their own medicine — when it comes to newspaper preference.
Even before the circulation of The Evening Bulletin climbed to an all-time circulation high in January — 606,186 average net paid* — 2½ times as many druggists mentioned The Bulletin as mentioned all other Philadelphia newspapers as the one they read regularly.
And when they want their customers to read their own advertising—74% of them agree The Bulletin has the most influence. They back up their agreement with more retail advertising in The Bulletin than in all other daily newspapers combined!
★ This is the highest daily circulation average in the history of 37 continuous years of Bulletin leadership. Today, more than ever before, this one newspaper blankets the important Philadelphia market.

1927 Document Exposes Japs' Conquest Plans

"Japan's Dream of World Empire, the Tanaka Memorial," edited with an introduction by Carl Crow. [Harpers, $1.25.]

BY GILBERT TWISS.

The Tanaka memorial, drawn up in 1927, is the blueprint of Japan's plans for conquest and trade expansion and dreams of world empire. Like Hitler's "Mein Kampf," it discloses the pattern of the Japanese aims. Thus the document is of importance to all who want to know the motivation of what the Japanese have done in the last 15 years and what they are up to now.

The Japanese made repeated efforts to deny the existence of the document, but the conquest of Manchuria [Manchukuo], Jehol, and Chahar, the penetration of Mongolia, the "China Incident," and now the war in the western Pacific leaves little doubt of its authenticity.

At one point the text of the memorial says:

"In the future if we want to control China, we must first crush the United States. . . . In order to conquer China we must first conquer Manchuria and Mongolia. . . . To conquer the world, we must first conquer China. If we succeed in conquering China the rest of the Asiatic countries and the South Sea countries will fear us and surrender to us. Then the world will realize that eastern Asia is ours and will not dare to violate our rights."

The Japanese program, which Premier Tanaka handed to the mikado in the form of a memorial, was drawn at a conference held in Manchuria and which ended on July 7, 1927.

The attack on China began on July 7, 1937. The attack on Hawaii was on another 7th day of the month—December.

1942 National Book Award Given to George S. Perry

"Hold Autumn in Your Hand," by George Sessions Perry, was laureled as the American Booksellers' choice of the book of 1941 which deserved a bigger and better audience than it had. The National Book Award for 1942 was presented to Mr. Perry yesterday at a luncheon in New York. Tangibly it consists of an inscribed bronze paperweight in the form of a book.

RAF Author

Richard Hillary, RAF pilot, after being remodeled by plastic surgeons. He is the author of "Falling Through Space," reviewed below.

"Falling Through Space," by Richard Hillary. [Reynal & Hitchcock, $2.50.] Published last Friday.

This is an autobiography as characteristic of its day as the Spitfire in which its young author met the searing climax of his years, an event, incidentally, about which he is almost aggressively silent in a book which is unusually self-revealing. He does not even tell his readers, except by casual descriptions of the grafting of new eyelids and a new upperlip, that his face was almost entirely burned away. And only by the grim observation of a surgeon is the reader made aware that young Hillary's hands, also, were burned to the bone.

No, "Falling Through Space" is not a record of physical charrings, but an honest, and strangely untragic record of how a boy of 18 came suddenly to manhood, even in one sense to old-manhood.

The spirit of the record is inherent in a memorable paragraph. With Tony, another hospital case, he went up to London, "where we settled ourselves down in some restaurant, ordered a most excellent dinner, and surveyed the youth and beauty around us with a fatherly eye." He "summed it up to Tony" with these words, as he waved a vague hand at the crowded dance floor: "We're a lucky pair. Here we are enjoying all the pleasures of old men of 60. To us it has been granted to pass thru all the ages of man in a moment of time, and now we know all the joys of the twilight of man's existence." After which profound observation he makes a raffish one.

Youth-old age in a few months is here, and both strangely one with the other in a book which has the vividness and courage of youth, with none of its usual poetic obsessions with death, and the tolerance and understanding of maturity with none of their usual acceptance of man made events as inevitable.

Here is insight into how the young RAF fighter pilot thinks as well as acts, from his training to his great moments of downing the enemy, especially of the inevitable sinking of the mind and the emotion into the business at hand, and of the almost automatic process of "at night one switched off one's mind like an electric light." F. B.

Reading in Hawaii.

Sigrid Undset Records Flight from Nazi Rule

"Return to the Future," by Sigrid Undset. [Knopf, $2.50.]

BY FANNY BUTCHER.

Sigrid Undset, Norwegian winner of the Nobel prize for literature in 1928, is now safe in the United States after a dramatic and hazardous escape from Norway and the conquering Germans. The story of that escape she sets down in "Return to the Future," in a series of delicately recorded pictures of not at all delicate scenes.

Some of those pictures surely will strike a discordant note to most Americans just now—especially Mme. Undset's pleasure in the orderly Japanese scene and her disgust at the odorous Russian background of her flight thru the soviet country—for readers will conclude that she liked the Japanese people and disliked the Russian people. But if they read more deeply her words they will find that it is not of peoples at all that she is writing, but of states of cleanliness in those sections of "Return to the Future." Those parts of her book are little more than travel diary.

The real Sigrid Undset, the novelist who looks deep into the well of human actions and reactions, is to be found in her interpretations and comparison of the Norwegian and German. The Norwegian character is conditioned by the kind of country Norway is, she says, and she describes her native land with much love for its beauty and with deep knowledge of its influence on national life.

In the same way, Mme. Undset writes of the Germans, and when she says Germany she points out that means the whole race of Germans. She sees them with "many psychopathic characteristics which can be traced in the German psyche as far back as the middle ages." She traces thru their literature and their history "the yearning for an unconditional subjection under a master," and says that "to the need of feeling a master's foot on his neck corresponds a need for having some one under him on whom he himself can trample."

How Germany used for its battle against Norway the very youths whom Norwegians had hospitably welcomed as penniless tourists the years before, and of the children [grown to maturity] whom the Norwegians had nurtured during the years after the first World war she tells vividly.

Almost two different books make up the slender "Return to the Future." One is a deep philosophic ethnic interpretation, the other a purely surface record.

Million Books Given for Service Men in National Campaign

One million books have been donated thus far by the people of the United States to the Victory Book campaign sponsored by the Red Cross, the USO, and the American Library association to provide books for the men in the nation's armed services. Of that number, Chicago has contributed its proportionate share.

Three quarters of the books already have been sorted and classified and are on their way to army camps and posts, USO clubs, American merchant marine vessels, and naval stations.

Ten million books is the goal of the campaign. Chicagoans are urged to make their contributions as soon as possible.

Novelist

Elgin Groseclose, author of "The Firedrake," reviewed below.

"The Firedrake," by Elgin Groseclose. [Lippincott, $2.50.] Published today.

The author of "Ararat," which won the American Booksellers' award of 1939, is like his heroine, who leaves Persia, where she has been doing colorful and helpful missionary work, and returns to the land of her birth to write novels. "Ararat," was a delicate and memorably beautiful story of Persia and of an American who became subtly a part of an alien culture. In it Mr. Groseclose did a bit of missionary work in the literary field, by making real the subtle interreactions of two ways of life while making each way individually itself.

"The Firedrake" is the story of the wife of a Boston missionary to Persia who in 1850 brings her two children home to educate them. To occupy herself on the long journey home she writes a book.

Mr. Groseclose assures us that it became a best seller [altho it sounds like a book to which a great many people nowadays would unquestionably be allergic] and that its popularity led her into such quicksands of self-expression that from being a noble woman and a self-sacrificing mother she became the kind of person whose ego must be fed before her children's spirits are nurtured.

It is a theme which deserves fictional treatment and has had too little in American literature, but Mr. Groseclose has certainly not written the novel to end all novels on the subject. To this reader, his heroine, as well as the tale's telling, are both less convincing than his foreword. Putting her and it in the 1850s doesn't help, except in the beginning to send one off to histories of American literature to see whether such a person as Abigail Carfax ever actually lived. F. B.

Something New in a New Book About Lincoln

"They Knew Lincoln," by John E. Washington. [Dutton, $3.75.]
"Mr. Lincoln's Funnybone," edited by Lloyd Dunning. [Howell-Soskin, $1.50.]

There probably has not been one year since Lincoln's death without some sort of book about him being published. One might think that after the great biography which Carl Sandburg finished in 1939 there would be little left to write. But one of these new books actually does say something that nobody else has said and adds to the legend if not to the facts of the Lincoln picture.

"They Knew Lincoln" is a record of what Negroes who lived in the days of Lincoln or who were tutored by those who lived then thought about him. To them Lincoln was next to God and also a poor man who "was so used to saving everything of his own and other people's that he saved the Union and set the colored people free." The author, a Negro, put himself thru Harvard and is now a teacher of commercial art in high school. He lives in Highland Beach, the second incorporated colored town in the United States.

Ever since he was a boy [50 odd years ago] and lived with his grandmother just around the corner from Ford's theater in Washington, he has been collecting from ancient men and women of his race their recollections of Lincoln and Lincoln tales. He sets them down here in a book which is almost as much autobiography as it is Lincolniana. It is written in the vernacular but not in dialect. It is at times deeply moving. It has both the faults and the charm of an amateur job of writing. Carl Sandburg contributes a brief introduction.

As for "Mr. Lincoln's Funnybone," which gathers together some of the jokes with which Mr. Lincoln made his point in political and domestic crises, the stories are, with the exception of a couple, duller than the water which collects in an Illinois ditch come the spring rains. F. B.

Radio as a War Weapon Subject of Revealing Book

"Radio Goes to War," by Charles J. Rolo [Putnam, $2.75], is the story of the newest weapon of war. "To the land, sea, and air fronts of the first World war," says the author in his first sentence, "radio had added a fourth—the ether." He writes exciting current history.

Kenneth Horan Tells an Appealing Tale of Family in Her Novel

"I Give Thee Back," by Kenneth Horan. [Dutton, $2.50.]

Our fellow Chicagoan, Kenneth Horan, whose reminiscences of her youth in Jackson, Mich., "Remember the Day," etc., gave much joy to many, has chosen just such a town as the background for a pleasant family tale. It is the story of Nora Osborne, who dedicated her life to making a great doctor of the son of the man she loved, of Nora's sister, Tina, a great beauty who took only six years to bore her clever novelist husband, and of how clever he turned out to be. It also is the story of old Mrs. Osborne, who "got things mixed up" and thus managed to make highly pertinent and often outrageous observations; of young Dr. Webster, who swallowed hook, bait, and sinker the line of Madeleine Marner, and of assorted townsfolk who add color and amusement to the tale. It's a story which has been told before, but seldom with more gayety. F. B.

This Little Girl Will Capture Your Heart

Our Miss Boo

By MARGARET LEE RUNBECK

"Strangers are just good friends that you haven't met yet," claims Miss Boo and she ought to know because she has made thousands of good friends from total strangers. Miss Runbeck's stories of her have been published by "Good Housekeeping" and other magazines. Now she has a whole book to herself. Her adventures, commentaries, delightful questions, and even more surprising answers will captivate every child lover. The decorations by Peggy Bacon make it a joy to look at as well as read.

HOW DID OUR LANGUAGE ORIGINATE?

Deliberate
actually means "weighed in the scales"

A DELIBERATE decision is one based upon a weighing of the facts and arguments involved—and that is the literal meaning of the word deliberate. It is derived from the Latin deliberatus, formed from the verb deliberare, which is a combination of de, a prefix denoting "down," and hence "completely," and librare, "to weigh." Librare comes from libra, "a balance or pair of scales."

Thousands of interesting word origins like this one are given in "the Supreme Authority"—Webster's New International Dictionary, Second Edition. Word origins are a famous feature of the Merriam-Webster. This great reference book goes far beyond ordinary conceptions of a dictionary. Its wealth of general information would fill a 15-volume encyclopedia. It contains 600,000 entries—122,000 more entries than any other dictionary. 12,000 terms illustrated; 3,350 pages. WARNING: The only genuine Webster is the Merriam-Webster. Don't be duped by so-called "Webster" dictionaries offered at fictitious "bargain" prices. From the Middle West Comes This Tale to Stir Your Heart

CHICAGO READERS will especially like I GIVE THEE BACK, because it vividly depicts the Middle West, and because they already know the author from her reviews in the Chicago Daily News as well as from her previous novels, Night Bell and It's Not My Problem. But more than that—I GIVE THEE BACK is the sensitive and unforgettable story of a woman who solves her problem as women have done from the beginning, and thousands of readers will appreciate the instincts that impelled her.

Chicago Soldier Seeks Aid of Sally in Getting Radios

BY SALLY JOY BROWN.

[Activities of the Sally Joy Brown department are sponsored by Chicago Tribune Charities, Inc.]

One of Chicago's sons, now in service and stationed in a far off state, turns to his native city for possible help. He writes:

"Dear Miss Brown: I am one of the soldiers in the medical detachment at an air base hospital out here. Since I am from Chicago, I wondered if any of your readers might have small radios to donate. We spend many long hours doing ward duty, and I know the fellows in the wards would appreciate it as much as the attendants.

"We are permitted to have only the very small midget or portable type radios. I do hope we receive an answer soon and thank you kindly for your trouble. M. M."

This young man's address will be given to any interested reader.

We would also like to locate a portable phonograph and records of any kind for one of the wards in a hospital for the mentally ill. These patients are convalescent, and several interested women are planning monthly parties for them, since many of them have neither friends nor relatives. Music would be a great addition to these little gatherings.

Women in War Work

[The Women in War Work department will report on woman's activities in war and defense work and will answer questions of women who wish to take part in these activities.]

Women pilots in the Chicago area, like others thruout the nation, are volunteering their services for national defense in response to a call from the Civil Air Patrol. Organized thru the Office of Civilian Defense, the patrol accepts any citizen pilot of good character, certified by the CAA in the grade of private pilot or higher.

Catherine Truesdell.

Miss Catherine Truesdell, Miss Opal Laster, Mrs. Camille Dickson, Miss Barbara Willis, Miss Vera Granath, and Mrs. Marian Albright are among the Chicagoans already accepted as members along with Mrs. Florence Mall of Flossmoor and Miss Tyi Barnes of Cicero. Miss Virginia Waller and Mrs. Wrigley Offield have applied for membership.

Jack Vilas is wing commander for Illinois. No one less than 16 years old may enroll in the CAP, only those more than 18 will be accepted for flight duty, and all applicants under 21 must present a letter of permission signed by parents or guardians. Others eligible for service are citizens who hold a government certificate as an airplane and engine mechanic, control tower operator or radio telephone operator, and volunteers for daytime clerical work, driving cars, or giving first aid instruction.

Information on the Illinois activities of the CAP may be obtained by contacting the sixth regional office in the Civic opera building, 20 North Wacker drive, room 2614, Andover 3600.

A flying observer's course designed to train young women to recognize distress areas from the air, to locate them on maps and to communicate their observations to ground headquarters will open tomorrow at Mundelein college. T. F. Myers Jr. of the Aviation Aides will conduct the classes every Thursday from 4 to 5 p. m. The terrain of Chicago and northern Illinois as seen from an elevation of 2,000 feet will be taught by photographs and maps. Besides Morse code, sight signaling and map study, the course will include work in celestial navigation and meteorology. Women not registered as students at the college will be admitted to the course for $5. Regular class credit of one hour will be given to high school graduates.

A war charity will benefit from the annual luncheon and fashion show sponsored by the Fashion group to be held on March 10 in the ballroom of the Drake hotel. Tho the show has been a nonprofit event since it was started five years ago, the committee plans to simplify the show this spring in order to make some money for war relief.

Valentine day has been selected as the February date for the monthly dance given by the Ladies of Isabella for the service men who visit the National Catholic Community Service center at 1122 South Wabash avenue. Mrs. Mabel Powers, supreme trustee who is general chairman of the parties, has announced that the west side councils will serve as hostesses Saturday night. Refreshments are plentiful and the boys are urged to fill their stomachs and their pockets, too. Miss Anna M. Pontius, supreme grand lady, is a regular visitor at all the parties and Miss Victoria Warnesson, founder of the Ladies of Isabella, frequently attends.

Anna M. Pontius.

The first delivery of comfort kits—Chicagoans' good-by gift to navy men leaving this training area—will go to Great Lakes and Navy pier Saturday. The kits are being distributed to every sailor, marine, and coast guardsman as he leaves Chicago for active duty by the Comfort Kit clubs of Bundles for Bluejackets.

Before the kits were filled, Miss Nell Chambers and Miss Margot Webbe visited Navy pier and asked enlisted men what articles they would like to find in the kits. Shoelaces, shoe shine cloths, razor blades and soap were mentioned most frequently. An officer with an eye for detail suggested a hand brush.

By Mae Tinée.

Good Morning!

What pictures these Russians can make when they've a mind to!

"The Girl from Leningrad" — the first Russian film concerning World war No. 2—is a masterpiece. . . . It is life!

It is honest to the core of it, and one of the greatest tributes ever paid to the great war nursing sisterhood which had its inception in the selfless, shining service of Florence Nightingale.

Natasha ["The Girl"] is a Red Cross nurse, commander of a nursing unit. . . . She's no rapt Madonna in a flowing veil. . . . She is a sturdy figure in stout clothes, with steady eyes and sure, firm, mothering hands. . . . She is strength, and rest and pity and healing and courage to the men brought to her from their hell of battle. . . .

Natasha and her little band first take up their duties in a hurriedly improvised hospital behind the lines. . . . Here they learn to master material difficulties and conquer themselves. . . . To submerge horror and stark terror and despair over sad news of personal import in duty. . . . To every minute live up to their motto:

"Keep working! Stand steadfast!"

Later—when the call comes for volunteers to advance to the firing lines Natasha and a number of her companions respond. . . . Part of the journey is by ambulance. . . . The last half is on skis over dismal and dangerous country infested with enemy snipers. . . . There must be a brief pause for a burial in the snows, for one of the nurses is killed by a Nazi bullet. . . . And now the little group of dauntless women fights beside their male escorts, turning steady hands and eyes and nerves to the new task of gun manipulation. . . .

Natasha is loved by two men. . . . One, a soldier whose death is reported during her stay at the hospital. . . . The other, a hero, brought into the hospital supposedly desperately wounded—but who recovers. . . . But the "love interest" is as stern and unflinching as the war action. . . . And believe me, the war here is war!

The finale is tinged with that prescient melancholy that is so typically Russian. . . .

The girls are commended by their superiors and prepare to disband.

"The war is over," says a title. . . . "Till the next time."

You will never see better acting, direction, and photography than in this picture. . . . Players, directors, camera man do a strange thing to you. . . . They make you a participant. . . . And that safe and coddled person who was you—goes to war.

See you tomorrow.

Looking at Hollywood

By John Chapman

Hollywood, Cal., Feb. 10.—A parent has no standing in the movie business, and is, in fact, looked upon with suspicion by the board of education. Take, for instance, the adventure of Gregory La Cava and his red headed daughter, Jane, age 9.

Irene Dunne.

Mr. La Cava is making a movie, variously called "The Sheltered Side," "The Sheltered Woman," and "The Sheltered Lady," and now finally titled "Lady in a Jam." It involves Irene Dunne, who is a bit of a nut, and Patric Knowles, a psychiatrist who is engaged to calm her down.

Part of the calming down involves taking Irene, a money spending chump, back to where the dough came from years ago—a gold mine in Arizona which is now the nucleus of a ghost town. This also involves the La Cava company going on location in a studio-built but marvelously real ghost town within camera distance of one of the Superstition mountains, about 35 miles out of Phoenix.

The project further involves having a number of characters besides Miss Dunne and Mr. Knowles on hand—Irene's grandmother, a sort of Ma Pettingill; prospectors, jackasses, horses, and a little ghost town pest who is wise beyond her years.

Mr. La Cava casts his own stepdaughter, Jane Garland, as the child. This is nepotism, I suppose, but not flagrant. Jane is on the precocious side and some of her wise remarks were swiped by Mr. La Cava when he and Gene Thackerey first began whipping up the script months ago. And Jane's wage is $25 a week while she's working, which is not high.

Well, the company shoves off for location and puts up in Phoenix. Miss Dunne, who has never been on location in her life, roughs it in a $75 a day set of rooms at the Arizona Biltmore. Most of the actors and crew stay at the Adams in town. Mr. La Cava, not wanting to be too close to people with problems, picks a different hotel, the Westward Ho, for himself, Mrs. La Cava, and Mrs. La Cava's about-to-make-her-screen-debut child.

Whereupon a teacher puts her foot in. You can't just take a child out of school and put her in the movies, even for only a couple of weeks. It's the law that a child's education must continue, even on location, so a teacher has to be hired. This teacher, a nice looking lady, says, "I've got to stay with Jane."

This would be easy, except that there isn't any more room in the hotel. Phoenix is jammed, partly by frightened Californians who fled the Japs and are wintering inland. Mr. La Cava explains this to Teacher. "It will be all right," says he. "We are with Jane. Her mother is here and so am I. You go somewhere else and it will be all right."

"It will not be all right," says Teacher. "The law says that I must be with her, and I'm going to be. If I'm not, I'll close up your picture."

And, by golly, she could shut it down quickernawink, too. It's the law. Hollywood is more frightened of the board of education than it is of the legion of decency or cobwebs over the box office window.

So Jane is separated from her parents. For several days, until some vacancies show at the Westward Ho, she has to live with Teacher at the Adams.

This isn't cruel, for the teacher is a fine person and Jane likes her. And it isn't silly, either. The law wasn't made for people like the La Cavas, but for many parents and many movie outfits which would work a child half to death and let its education go hang if they had the chance to make a few bucks. But Mr. La Cava wasn't the same for a couple of days after Teacher put her foot down.

Ice Boat Races to Attract Fans This Week-End

BY JUDITH CASS.

FINAL entries are being filed today for the International Skeeter association regatta to be held this week-end on Lake St. Clair in Mount Clemens, Mich., near Detroit. Tomorrow the long, slim ice boats and their gaily colored sails will be packed onto trailers and a caravan will set out from Chicago for a week-end of racing at speeds which may approximate 100 miles an hour if the wind is right.

Since skeeter construction requires as much skill as the building of airplanes, few new ice yachts are seen on midwestern lakes this winter. Enthusiasm still runs high, however, and each week-end sees a group of sportsmen in ski suits, mittens, and goggles shooting across the ice at Fox Lake or Lake Geneva.

Owing to the demands of defense contracts, fewer Chicago business men will find time to make the trip to Detroit for this year's regatta than did last year. Even Ted Mead, president of the International Skeeter association, will not be able to go.

Fox Lake and Lake Geneva Clubs Will Be Represented.

Unless something unforeseen happens, however, both the Fox Lake Ice Yacht club and the Lake Geneva Skeeter Ice Yacht club will be well represented. J. D. Graff, secretary-treasurer of the association; Edward Rollberg, Mr. and Mrs. David Hall Jr., Mr. and Mrs. Robert E. Langford Jr., and Mrs. Olive Lindstedt are planning to go. Mrs. Hall, Mrs. Lindstedt, and Mrs. Langford probably will take part in the special races planned for women.

John Clifford, vice president of the association; C. Stanley Johnson, and George Keifer Jr. will represent the Lake Geneva club. Jack Vilas Jr., who is a confirmed skeeter fan, may not take part in the regatta. Mr. and Mrs. Vilas have a new daughter, born on Sunday at the Evanston hospital.

Except for a winners' dinner Sunday night, after the last race, no formal entertainment will be included in the regatta program.

Jane Hoyman Will Become Bride in East on Feb. 21.

A wedding of interest here that will take place on Feb. 21 in Winchester, Mass., is that of Miss Jane Hoyman and Dunbar Carpenter, both of Chicago. In the absence of Miss Hoyman's mother, Mrs. Frank Scott Hoyman, the ceremony is taking place in the Winchester Episcopal church, with a reception following at the home of Mr. Carpenter's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Dunbar F. Carpenter. Mrs. Hoyman is in Egypt, where she and the late Mr Hoyman spent 35 years as missionaries. Their children lived abroad with them until they reached an age to go to college.

Miss Hoyman attended Monmouth college and the University of Chicago. It has been two years since she last saw her mother. Mr. Dunbar is a graduate of Groton and of Harvard. He and his bride will have a skiing honeymoon in New Hampshire and then will be at home in the Town and Garden apartments in Chicago. Miss Hoyman's only attendant will be her sister, Miss Earla Hoyman of Highland Park.

Mrs. Elinor Whiting Hagey to Wed Early This Spring.

Plans for an early spring wedding are being made by Mrs. Elinor Whiting Hagey and William Rufus Abbott Jr. Mrs. Hagey, daughter of Mrs. A. Harris Whiting, lives in Lake Forest with her two children, Joan and John. Their father is Edward H. Hagey.

Mr. Abbott also has two children, Dana and James, whose mother now is Mrs. Thomas Dodd Healy. Mr. Abbott's parents, Mr. and Mrs. W. Rufus Abbott, formerly of Chicago, now live in Melbourne, Fla.

Announcement is made of the marriage last Saturday in Louisville, Ky., of Miss Virginia Standifort Ross and Frederick R. Merritt, lieutenant, United States army air corps, son of Mr. and Mrs. Frederick Merritt of Commonwealth avenue. The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Hamilton Ross of Louisville.

Lieut. Merritt, commanding officer of the air corps at a southern post, is a graduate of Coe college and of Northwestern university law school.

Mr. and Mrs. August Kochs Will Go West for Wedding.

Mr. and Mrs. August Kochs, who just have returned from their winter home in Florida, are packing their bags for another long trip. Mrs. Kochs is leaving today for Beverly Hills, Cal., where their granddaughter, Miss Jeanne Kochs, is to be married on Feb. 20 to John Baxter Jouvenat III. Mr. Kochs will depart for the coast on Saturday, and Mr. and Mrs. Herbert Kochs will follow him next Tuesday. Also going from Chicago will be the bride's uncle and aunt, Mr. and Mrs. William Kennedy.

The ceremony will take place in St. Alban's Episcopal church, Westwood Hills. The bride's sister, Miss Patricia, will be her maid of honor.

Glencoe residents won't have to go far afield for their entertainment on Saturday night, for on that evening the Church of St. Elisabeth in the northern suburb will sponsor its fifth annual vaudeville show and dance. The show will be presented at 8:30 o'clock in the Central school auditorium in Glencoe and will be preceded by numerous dinner parties.

Baby John Laing arrived last Saturday almost in time to be a birthday present for his 13 month old brother, Bill. They are the children of Mr. and Mrs. Chester W. Laing Jr. of Kenilworth. The new baby was born in the Evanston hospital. Mrs. Laing is the former Mary Louise Cotton.

Front VIEWS and PROFILES By MARCIA WINN

Steady, Boys, Steady.

A sad little item in last week's news that Marie Tempest, the toast of the London stage half a century ago, now is 77, jobless and putting her library up for public auction, recalled to Nat Tahnam her appearance in Wallack's theater in New York 50 years ago in The Red Hussar. Her hit song was "The Song of the Regiment," its chorus being:

Steady, boys, steady.
Ready, boys, ready.
Duty, boys, duty,
Wherever you are sent.
Never know defeat, boys,
Die before retreat, boys,
That is the song of the regiment.

Mr. Tahnam suggests that a revival of it would be most apropos. We contend that it already has been revived by Gen. MacArthur and his valiants in the Philippines.

Censor, 1918 Variety.

The white-haired elderly lady hurried into the Chicago public library with an armload of the works of Thorne Smith for the Victory book campaign. "Well," she said with a chuckle, "it isn't at all like the last war, is it, my dear? I knew a dear old English lady then who collected magazines from all her friends for the soldiers and sailors. But before they were sent, she carefully censored them by cutting out all advertisments showing ladies' undergarments or negligees."

Of Sopranos.

The soprano had about an hour to spend before going to the funeral at which she was to be soloist, so she wedged in a bit of shopping. When she reached the church, she found a great crowd outside and the funeral about to begin. Catching an usher by the arm, she handed him the box containing her purchase. "Will you take care of this for me?" she whispered. He nodded solemnly. She reached her post in good time and arose to sing. As she did, her gaze fell onto the casket. There, on top of it, rested her new spring hat, a mass of violets and hyacinths.

And Nomenclature.

We understand that A. E. Albaugh, secretary of the Agricultural club, has been corresponding with a Mr. Goodpasture about a Mr. Haystead's new book, Farm for Fortune.

Conversation a Deux.

Overheard from a telephone booth in the Palmer House:

"H'lo, is that you, Tony? Well, this is you know who . . . You don't? . . . Why, Toneeeee. It's me. It's Tillie. . . . Sure, I'm right here, right in town. Got in yesterday. . . . Why don't you ever drop a lady a line, Toneeee? . . . Just a guvment postcard would do with, 'I'm fine. How are you?' . . . You didn't? Aw, now, Toneeee, I get to town every once in a while. . . . Sure . . . Say, how 'bout bumming around with me tonight? . . . Ohhhh. Sure, I get it. . . . Sure. No, no hard feelings. But if you wanta know what I really think. . . . O, thahell with it. Bye."

The Quiet Life.

"Has your wife been ill recently?" the social worker asked the old man.

"Mought have been. Mought not," came his laconic reply.

"But she mentioned it to us."

"Dunno. Mought have. Mought not. I jes' been so enthused makin' a livin' we don't talk."

Nothing There.

An English officer, on official duty here, was taken to lunch by a Chicago businessman. As the Englishman had proven a difficult person to entertain, his host groped for conversational meat.

"What was your line in civilian life?" he finally asked.

"I was an expert on marriage licenses, sir," was the brief reply, the Englishman hurrying back to his roast beef.

The Chicagoan took a few bites himself, and tried again.

"That reminds me of a story," he said. "A man came running to a marriage license office, hatless and breathless. 'Are you sure that was a marriage license you gave me when I was up here six weeks ago?' he asked the clerk. 'Of course,' the clerk answered. 'Why do you ask?' 'Well,' said the caller, scratching his head, 'ever since that day I have been treated like a dog.'"

The Englishman gave no sign of having heard and continued chewing his roast beef.

"Perhaps you have misunderstood me," ventured the slightly nettled host.

"I think you have misunderstood me, sir," the Englishman said. "I am an expert on marriage licenses, not on dogs."

Metropolitan Mosaic.

A world reborn in softness by the snow that obliterates all sharpness in its swirl. . . . Harsh voices modulated and lost in the drifting whiteness. . . . The evanescent arc of the Palmolive beacon, a timeless shaft of light as it cleaves a sky from which the white storm takes all dimension. . . . And the girl, waiting for the bus in the half dark of early morning, who cried ecstatically, "Now I'm just like a Kathleen Norris heroine. Snowflakes on my lashes!"

Your Handwriting

BY SHIRLEY SPENCER.

Sophie Tucker has the warm, expansive, emotional nature which has been traditional in the theater, and is still found among the older generation of actors. The younger group in general are writing backhand, and I wonder if some of the life of the theater hasn't gone because this cooly detached attitude is replacing the spendthrift abundance of emotion and the warmth and cordiality which the old timers so lavishly gave out.

Sophie Tucker

Miss Tucker certainly still carries on in the old pattern by being spontaneous, sentimental, deeply responsive and sympathetic, expressive, generous, and with an enthusiasm which is potently reflected in that long bar across the "T" of her name.

The movement of her writing is very rapid, too, to match the impatient t-bar. Miss Tucker's reactions are instantaneous. To feel is to act with her.

Recreation Has a Part in Life of Army Students

Soldiers at the Aeronautical university who are studying to be mechanics in the army air corps consider the Recreation Center for Service Men at 1249 South Wabash avenue their second home. Only two blocks from school and four blocks from their quarters at the YMCA hotel, the center is a convenient spot for the boys to stop in for a few hours on school nights or for the evening on Saturday or Sunday.

There are 400 soldiers in the university at present and the course has been condensed to 10 or 20 weeks. Classes run from 7 a. m. to 4 p. m., 8 a. m. to 5 p. m., and 2 to 11 p. m., and the boys must observe a midnight bed check. Study usually takes another three hours of each 24, but the boys must have some relaxation, too, and the 800 to 1,000 visitors a week at the center prove that they find the diversion they want there.

The Grant Park Recreation committee which sponsors the center is doing everything to draw the students, as well as other service men in the city, back often.

Dancing partners for Wednesday, Friday, and Saturday were recruited from the nurses' training classes at St. Luke's, Henrotin, Michael Reese, and Children's Memorial hospitals and the YWCA and junior groups of the sponsoring clubs. The girls also join the boys in such games as sticks, checkers, and table tennis.

In addition to furnishing the center, the clubwomen, headed by Mrs. Burnett D. Warner, past president of the Chicago Woman's club, donate their time to serve as hostesses.

"The boys like to have the older women around, too," said Miss Myrtle Carpenter, a committee member who described herself as the connecting link between the last war and this one. "If they need a bit of advice or just want to chat, they often turn to us. One of the more serious minded lads was worrying about his younger brothers and sisters and told me he hoped that parents would protect their children from hate and fear. The boys want to come back to a world of peaceful ideals, not wartime hatreds, he said."

White Collar GIRL

BY RUTH MACKAY

Priority Pride.

Priorities on bankruptcies note: A stock broker came home early one afternoon as there wasn't much doing at the office. He was greeted by a terrific word battle going on in the back yard. There stood his young son yelling at another small boy—the son of an automobile dealer—who was vociferously yelling back.

"He will too!"

"He will not!"

"That's not so!"

"My daddy said . . ."

Both youngsters saw the man at the same instant and all was silent. Then, an indignant appeal was made to settle the boastful argument:

"Daddy—won't you go broke before Jackie's daddy?"

Save the Bottles.

Attention business girls who order bottles of milk delivered to the office: Breakage and loss of milk bottles amount to $21,000,000 annually. In Philadelphia a campaign is under way to stop this huge waste and help national defense. A spokesman for the milk companies calls attention to the fact that replacing the missing bottles causes "a tremendous wastage of skilled labor, glass, and other material so vitally needed today." So—return your milk bottles.

How About It, Men?

A letter from Another White Collar Girl suggests that manners and grooming [in the office] are heavily stressed in terms feminine but—as for the stronger sex—"How about shoeshines, which seem luxuries to most men—also clean, well pressed suits—and hair cuts—and clean, tidy hands? And how about the fellows who get up too late to shave and figure no one will notice it—and those who wear a shirt twice because they're a bit short on laundry allowance—and spotted ties that won't stay tucked out of sight—and smutty looking scarves—and gloomy smiles bespeaking tooth brush neglect?"

"As for manners—how about that old bogey of seats for ladies, opening doors, using elbows in crowds, 'excuse me' when stepping on feet not your own? [After all men's feet aren't dainty.] And how about leaving the hat on [pushed back or forward, it's still obnoxious]."

"And how about the unfair sex considering themselves the only privileged carriers of burdened souls—answering 'good morning' with a sour grunt—forgetting to say 'please' and 'thank you'? How about being clean and neat and courteous and thoughtful with an occasional smile when it hurts—EVEN IF YOU ARE A MAN!"

Whew! WHEW!

Aw Rich, Let 'Em Snicker.

Perhaps that short scorcher may settle a problem raised by "Rich, the No. 1 Man," in the morning mail. Rich complains of the snickering of females when he is caught reading the White Collar Girl column on the bus, and suggests a change of title to "All White Collarers" or "All Who Wear White Collars" so he can feel at ease reading it.

At least, now, he'll know 'tis meant not alone for the snickering females—but the question is—will he feel more at ease reading it? Or will he [a] catch cold without his hat; [b] leap to his feet until he has callouses; [c] spend all his spare change on laundry and never take a White Collar Girl to the movies again?

Engagements

From San Antonio, Tex., comes word of the engagement of Miss Mary Gill McGowan, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Eugene McGowan of that city, to Lieut. Glen Webster Martin, son of Mr. and Mrs. Sidney Griswold Martin of Chicago. The wedding will take place in March in the chapel at the army post where Lieut. Martin is stationed. Miss McGowan attended the Mary Baldwin school and the University of Texas.

Mr. and Mrs. Fred S. Young of Elizabeth street announce the engagement of their daughter, Virginia, to Corydon Babbitt, son of Mr. and Mrs. Corydon Babbitt of Winston avenue.

New Blouses Bring Breath of Springtime

BY REA SEEGER.

Any shopper would know immediately that the spring rush for suits of all kinds was imminent because of all the stunning new blouses already here, hung around for quick selection. And while the sleek tailored affairs are probably the first noticed, don't spend your money till you've sleuthed about for the rest of the possibilities . . . especially the newest prints.

There are stunning, cool, white jersey fabric blouses with long sleeves that go absolutely gaga with huge green turtles for contrast. These turtle prints are large, almost lifesize, and should provide the right element of surprise for any attention getting clothes collector.

Some other prints of comparatively winter weight materials feature bucking bronchos, cowboys, and some South American personage stuff with palm trees and tropical foliage for further accent. The checked ginghams are other finds ready for suit duty, especially for office wear. This same precisely checked gingham makes some smart fake blouse effects, those oblong "dickees" with turnover collars and a prim vee neckline.

The biggest excitement, the most effective contrast, and the smartest of the spring finds are the blouses of huge flowered prints with plenty of gay color splashed against cool white. There are roses and large anemones in cerise, yellow, and green, using motifs that might have come off the wall paper.

INSTALMENT XXXIII.
LONG VISIT.

Delia's laughter interrupted Antony.

"Darling, how lordly you sound. Even Cousin Mervyn bothers about telephone bills. I must say Cousin Leonora would break any one who wasn't a millionaire. O, Antony, Uncle Phillip's much better. We rang up after lunch, and they're awfully pleased, and if he goes on like this, I can see him in a day or two."

"I'm most awfully glad. But, Delia—"

"Darling, your voice does sound queer! What's the matter with it?"

Antony said, "Cake," and washed it down with the last of the second cup of tea. "Now, darling, listen! This isn't talking to you—this is an official interview."

"What about?"

"Cornelius. And it's important, so think before you speak, and don't say anything you're not sure about."

"What do you want to know?" said Delia. Her voice had changed.

"Something quite simple. When you saw Cornelius yesterday morning, had he a bandage on his wrist?"

"A bandage?"

"Yes."

"Why should he?"

"Never mind about that. I want to know if he had."

At the other end of the line Delia screwed up her eyes and tried to remember everything about Cornelius coming to see her yesterday. . . A dark suit, with a heavy raincoat over it—a dark felt hat which he had refused to give up to Parker—a dark blue tie with a lighter fleck in it—dark brown gloves which he kept in his hand—an edge of striped shirt-cuff beyond the raincoat. . He held the gloves in his left hand and put his hat on a chair. When he picked it up again his wrist came out from the striped cuff—his right wrist. There wasn't any bandage on it—She said.

"Which wrist did you want to know about?"

Antony's turn to think back. . . . The dark porch, the dark steps—the tiny beam of his torch—blood running from the gash on a man's wrist—his right wrist. He said the words aloud.

"It would be the right wrist."

"Then there wasn't any bandage."

"Are you sure?"

"O, quite."

"It's—important."

"I'm quite sure. He had his gloves in his left hand, and he reached out for his hat with his right. I could see his wrist, and there wasn't any bandage. Antony, what's all this about? Why do you want to know?"

All of a sudden his voice was tired. He said.

"I can't tell you—yet. Good-by." He rang off.

Delia went back into the drawing room, where Miss Simcox, her chaperone, was enjoying Mrs. Parker's date and nut cake. Miss Simcox would have enjoyed it even more if her conscience had not been in a highly uncertain state over the question of Mr. Antony Rossiter. It was not yet 5 o'clock, and he had already called once in person and twice on the telephone. What did Lady Maddox expect her to do? Even if she were Delia's co-guardian, she had no right to be so strict.

A couple of hundred years ago Delia would have been locked into her bedroom, and there would have been no telephone. Casting her mind back over the spate of instructions with which she had been inundated, she recalled that she was to be firm but on no account to antagonize Delia, who was a sweet girl but not one to be driven.

She was to be very, very tactful, but not to allow this lamentable affair with young Rossiter to go any farther. She was to gain Delia's confidence, to wean her from an ill-considered engagement, and incline her thoughts in the direction of Mr. Lewis West, but she was not to drive her into rebellion by too open a show of authority. In reply to all this Miss Simcox was glad to remember that she had said no more than that she would do her best.

Afterward she was to remember that Delia was very silent for the rest of the meal. To Miss Simcox tea really was a meal and the pleasantest one of the day. She began to wonder what Mr. Antony Rossiter had said to induce this silence. And really what use was it for Lady Maddox to say that the affair must go no farther, when the house was positively littered with telephones and extensions—one in the study, one in the pantry, one in Mr. Merridew's bedroom, and even one in Delia's room, on the table beside her bed?

How did Lady Maddox suppose that she was to be prevented from ringing up or being rung up as often as she and Antony Rossiter desired? Miss Simcox considered that she had been placed in a false position, and almost but not quite regretted having obeyed the peremptory summons which had snatched her from the vicarage at Pudley Marten.

The regret would have been unqualified if it had not been for the fact that she had really been finding the rectory so very cold—20 bedrooms, a quarter of a mile of passage and, of course, no central heating. Mr. Pottinger was all that was kind, but so very energetic, and dear Doris—she had been Doris Penfold—quite as bad, so it must be confessed that a natural inclination to oblige had been powerfully reinforced by the feeling that it would be pleasant to escape from 10 mile walks, alfresco meals—in October—and perpetual conversation about the parish. If this was self indulgence, Miss Simcox was about to be punished for it.

Fourways was very, very comfortable. Every room was beautifully warm. She was not obliged to walk any farther than she wished. And after the Pottingers' simple life, Mrs. Parker's cooking was a dream. But responsibility had begun to weigh and was shortly to become quite crushing. Searching her conscience, Miss Simcox suspected a judgment.

Within the next few hours she would be writing—her letter of the morning only just posted—a poignant epistle to her sister Maud.: "I cannot say that I am to blame—one must be just to oneself as well as to others—but if I had not felt the cold so much at Pudley Marten I might have remained there, and I should not have become involved in this distressing affair. Difficult as it would have been to disregard the appeal Lady Maddox made to me to chaperon Miss Delia, I cannot help fearing that I was tempted to accede to it from selfish and unworthy motives, and if that is the case, I have done something to deserve my present painful position . . ."

But all this was mercifully veiled by the future. Only the merest shadow of what impended touched her mood as she sat comfortably by the fire and made a really excellent tea. When Delia presently slipped out of the room she picked up the book which she had taken from the study shelves and read with great enjoyment the account of an intrepid traveler whose experiences included escapes from gorillas, alligators, man-eating lions, and serpents of every kind.

Nothing is more delightful than to look upon danger from a place of perfect safety. The heroic virtues can be enjoyed by proxy and there is no risk. In fact, the best of two worlds.

With her body reclining in a cushioned chair, Miss Simcox eluded a mamba, and sprang with miraculous agility into a tree to avoid the charge of an infuriated rhinoceros. The entrance of Parker to remove the tea things would almost have passed unnoticed if he had not attracted her attention by a slight melancholy cough. He had to repeat it before she transferred her focus from the African jungle to his tall, stooping person. He stood before her, holding the silver tray, his head inclined.

"If you please, miss, Miss Delia asked me to say that she has gone over to Miss Kyrle's for an hour."

"To Miss Kyrle's?"

"Dr. Kyrle's daughter—a friend of Miss Delia's. She was going to pick her up in the car, and Miss Delia asked me to say it would be quite all right about her coming home, because Dr. Kyrle would be passing and he would set her down at the gate."

"She hasn't taken her own car then? I thought you said——"

"No, miss. It was Miss Kyrle who was picking Miss Delia up. Miss Delia asked me to tell you."

He went out with the tray, and Miss Simcox returned to her tree, from which she was presently privileged to behold a pride of lions disporting themselves upon the open rolling ground beyond. Time slipped away unnoticed. After some indefinite lapse the light began to fade and she switched on the standard lamp.

Presently Parker came in and drew the curtains. Later still the dressing bell rang. Trained to the utmost punctuality, Miss Simcox closed her book and returned to Surrey.

Encountering Ellen on the upper landing, she inquired whether Miss Delia had come in, and was startled to hear that she had not. She looked at her watch. Seven o'clock. But perhaps Dr. Kyrle had been kept—a doctor's time is never his own.

Thru the Looking Glass

The sweet, light, and clean fragrance of apple blossom continues to be a feminine favorite. Its popularity doesn't seem to wane despite the fact that since its introduction not all the versions of perfumes under that name could be classified as the true or the beautiful!

The newest addition to the enormous family of beauty aids in this scent is the offering of the gifted woman who first launched it and, because it's an intensely practical product, it's due for a huge acceptance from all the women who like the scent—and who share the common need for an efficient skin softener. It's a body lotion, and a good one and an inexpensive one.

After-bath preparations that foil the cold winds that dry and chap the skin of the body are not luxuries. In this part of the country they're necessities. The new soothing and smoothing lotion, peach tinted and generously scented with the apple blossom perfume, will probably be one of the most popular of all the blossom scented items. It's utilitarian as well as soul satisfying.

The creamy lotion should be smoothed on after bath or shower while the skin is still a little moist and massaged in rather thoroly to the usual rough spots such as knees and elbows. The rich oils it contains will lubricate the skin, but leave no trace of stickiness. All it leaves on the surface is a fine, fragrant protective film that helps guard against winter irritation and makes the skin feel beautifully smooth.

Young Wives Need Not Be Embarrassed Concerning 'This Intimate Problem

Because of natural shyness or lack of confidence in the knowledge of friends the uninformed young wife often hesitates to seek the advice of others. Instead, she risks health and happiness by use of over-strong solutions of acids for feminine hygiene which can actually burn, scar and harm delicate tissue.

Today such risks are needless. Science has given womankind Zonite. So powerful, it kills instantly all germs and bacteria with which it comes in contact. Deodorizes—by actually destroying odors. Protects personal daintiness. Yet! Zonite is non-caustic, non-poisonous, safe for delicate tissues. Over 20,000,000 bottles bought. Get Zonite at your druggist today.

Contract According to Culbertson

The bidding:

West opened the queen of diamonds and declarer won with the king. It was apparent, of course, that the contract was as good as home unless very bad breaks were found, but declarer did not lose sight of the fact that the diamond suit might break four and one. He drew three rounds of trumps, ending in dummy, and then led a low club.

This was one of those plays that had nothing to lose and, possibly, something to gain. Declarer had two certain club losers and correctly reasoned that he might as well concede them early in the play. There was a chance that a long club in dummy could be developed so that if the diamond suit did not break, it would form a welcome discarding opportunity.

East ducked to the club lead, and the queen lost to West's ace. West shifted to a low spade and declarer won with the ace, then exited with the club six. West attempted to force the club 10 by putting in the eight spot, but declarer saw there was nothing to gain by going up, hence ducked. East won with the jack and returned the diamond jack. West showed out, and now the great value of the club plays came to light. Dummy won with the diamond ace and, as the only chance, led a low club. The bad luck declarer had encountered in the diamond suit was now offset by the good luck of East's club king falling on this trick. Declarer ruffed, entered dummy with the spade king, and cashed the club 10. He then could well afford to concede a diamond trick.

Child Senses Fairness in His Teacher

By GLADYS HUNTINGTON BEVANS.

[Copyright: 1942: By News Syndicate Co. Inc.]

There are some persons who are born to certain arts or professions. That certain men and women are born with a gift for teaching is sometimes satisfyingly evident. A 17 year old girl, charming, delicately reared, went into a rural grammar school class in a pretty rough community, and not only handled the big boys with success from the so-called discipline angle, but taught them extremely well. A husky college graduate took on a similar job and failed utterly with his pupils in the handling of both his human and his academic material. He was totally unfitted for his work.

But these are two extremes. Instances such as this are not reasons for a young teacher, who isn't a "smash hit" at the outset, being discouraged. The young teacher who likes her work, who likes children as children, and also enjoys the teaching itself, may make many mistakes. However, she can correct them with experience. Her mistakes may be lessened, however, if she is willing to do some real thinking and observing, and take a leaf from the book of those who have years of successful teaching behind them.

The first quality I want to mention today is fairness. Of all people, children are most alert to that quality in a grownup. "It's not fair!" Who is there connected with school children who has not heard that many, many times?

Above everything, be fair with the children in your class, even if it involves a retraction, an apology. Of course, it would not be well to be so hasty that you are constantly reversing yourself, but certainly you will win the respect of your class if you are willing to do so where any other course would work injustice.

Be fair in your marks, and in your praise and blame. Be fair about a child's motives, and be fair in your cause and effect discipline, if "discipline" is the way you think of certain measures you use to gain certain results in work or behavior.

This desire to be fair often is greatly taxed when a teacher has taken a great fancy to one child and tends to show favoritism. It also is taxed when she feels a dislike for a pupil, one who may have had unwise or unfortunate family upbringing and so be really disagreeable; or even one who is just by personality destined to rub her the wrong way. Either of these circumstances sometimes makes fairness difficult. But the teacher who is "big" will rise to the occasion.

[Copyright: 1942: By The Chicago Tribune.]

Baked, stuffed green peppers may or may not contain a meat filling. This recipe doesn't call for meat, but if you have any leftover ham, add about a third cup of it, ground, to the filling mixture. Leftover roast meat may be used, too. The peppers are good with or without the meat.

Baked, Stuffed Green Peppers.
[Serves four.]
4 green peppers
1⅓ cups cooked, seasoned rice
2 tablespoons melted butter
2 tablespoons chopped celery
1 tablespoon minced onion
3 tablespoons chili sauce
2 tablespoons water

Cut off tops of peppers, remove seeds and fibers, and parboil in salted water for three minutes. Stuff with remaining ingredients and place in shallow pan with ¼ inch of water in the bottom. Bake at 350 degrees about 40 minutes, or until peppers are tender.

Chocolate chip cookies may be made with honey instead of sugar. It's a good idea to use honey as much as we can, now that sugar is a shortage commodity. There's plenty of honey, and while it costs more per pound than sugar, it also goes farther.

Chocolate Chip Cookies.
[About 2½ dozen.]
⅓ cup butter, margarine, or vegetable shortening
½ cup honey
1 small egg
1 cup sifted all-purpose flour
1 teaspoon baking powder
¼ teaspoon salt
½ teaspoon vanilla
½ cup chipped semi-sweet chocolate
¼ cup chopped peanuts or other nuts

Cream shortening until soft, add honey, and beat until light. Add egg and mix well. Sift flour with baking powder and salt. Add to creamed mixture. Add vanilla and fold in chocolate and nuts. Chill. Drop by teaspoonfuls on a greased cooky sheet. Bake at 375 degrees for 12 minutes.

Fried salt pork is an old fashioned, country style dish with flavorful cream gravy which is grand on baked potatoes.

Fried Salt Pork.
[Serves four.]
¾ pound salt pork
1½ cups milk
Flour, pepper

Slice salt pork thinly and gash the rind of each slice several times. Dip into flour and fry in moderately hot skillet until crisp and well browned, turning frequently. Remove to hot platter and make gravy. Add 3 tablespoons flour to 3 tablespoons fat, and blend. Add milk and about ⅛ teaspoon pepper. Cook and stir until smooth and thickened. Pour over salt pork, or reheat pork in the gravy, if desired.

Apple-Cornflake Crisp.
[Serves four.]
4 cups cornflakes
⅓ cup melted butter
⅔ cup sugar
3 cups sliced apples
1 teaspoon cinnamon
1½ tablespoons butter

Roll cornflakes to fine crumbs. Combine melted butter with 2 tablespoons sugar, and mix with crumbs. Press two-thirds of the mixture over the bottom and sides of a small pie pan or small baking dish. Fill with apples and sprinkle remaining sugar and cinnamon over them. Dot with butter. Sprinkle remaining crumbs on top. Bake at 350 degrees for 30 minutes, then reduce heat to 300 degrees and bake 45 minutes longer. Serve hot with cream.

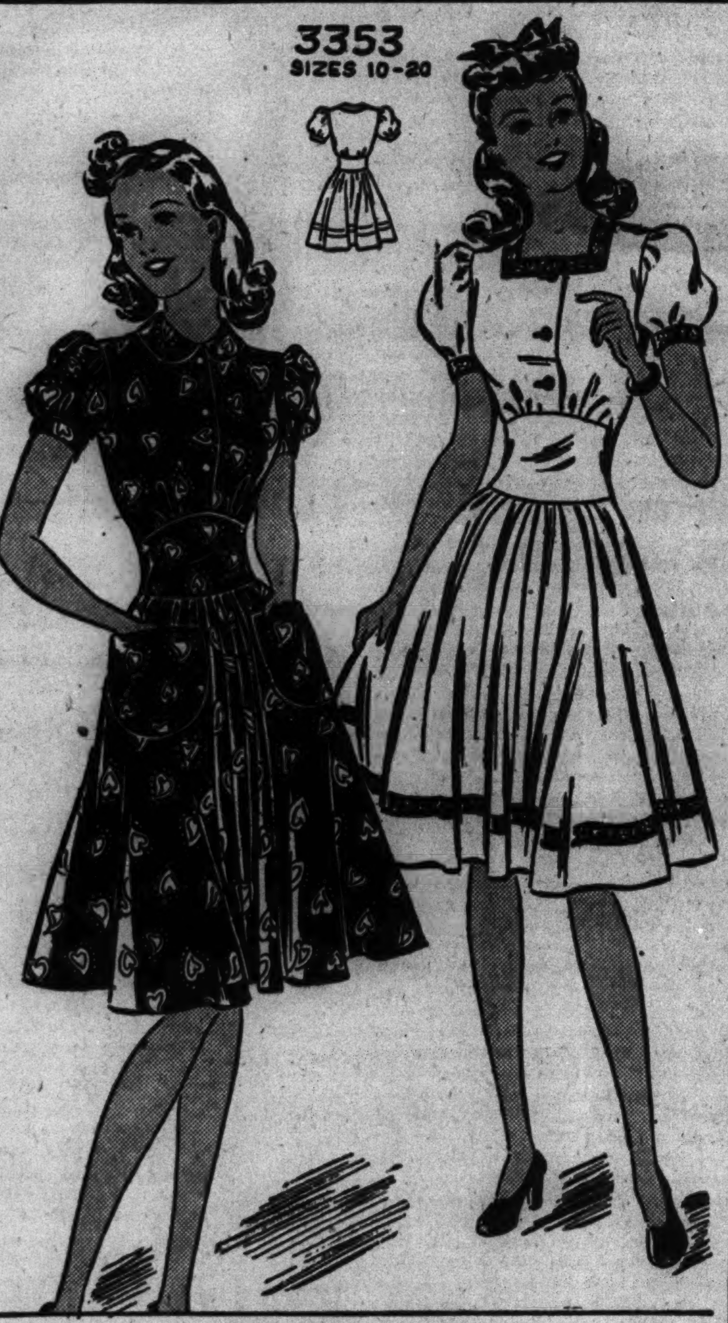
SIZES 10-20



MISS' SPRING DRESS.

For southern jaunts and early spring here in town, this girlish frock is just the thing. The neckline may be square and collarless, or have a Peter Pan collar. Sleeves are short and puffed. Below the softly molded bodice is a snug waistline sector, and below that the skirt, with or without pockets, billows gracefully. Plain and prints make up equally well, and may be combined, as in the version sketched at the right.

Style No. 3353 is designed for sizes 10, 12, 14, 16, 18, and 20. Size 16 requires 4 yards of 39 inch material for dress with collar and patch pockets; 3½ yards for dress with square neckline; 4 yards of 1 inch contrasting banding.

Address orders for Clotilde patterns to Chicago Tribune, P. O. Box 537, Grand Central annex, NEW YORK CITY, including 10 cents in stamps or coin (coin preferred—wrap it carefully) for each pattern ordered. IMPORTANT! Be sure to state clearly the number of the pattern and the size desired and write your name and address plainly. The winter pattern book costs 15 cents, 10 cents if ordered with a pattern.

TODAY'S PRIZE RECIPE

Mrs. L. P. Dauterman, 620 South Main street, Fond du Lac, Wis., wins today's $5 prize for her recipe, maple mousse, a smooth and delicious dessert.

MAPLE MOUSSE.
[Eight generous servings.]
4 egg yolks
1 cup maple sirup
1 pint cream

Cook egg yolks and maple sirup in double boiler, stirring constantly, for about 15 minutes, to make a thin custard. Remove from range and cool. Whip cream and blend smoothly with custard. Freeze at least five hours.

Have you a favorite recipe? Send it to Recipe Contest, CHICAGO TRIBUNE, and let us judge it. To be eligible for the $5 daily award, recipe must be written legibly, in standard recipe form, with number of servings, temperature, and cooking time included.

[Save this for your scrapbook.]

Mrs. Brewster to Speak at College Club's Dinner

Mrs. Walter S. Brewster will be the Chicago College club's speaker following dinner at 6 o'clock tonight. Her subject will be "Relief to People in Britain which Safeguards People in America." Mr. and Mrs. Charles E. Peace and Mrs. Harold M. Pulsifer will be host and hostesses.

Wesley Service Club Will Hold Its Meeting Today

The Wesley Service club will hold its regular meeting at 2 o'clock today in the solarium on the hospital's 18th floor. The club has selected April 22 as the date of its annual benefit bridge party, to be held in the Gold Coast room of the Drake hotel.

If you have these signs of Acid Indigestion—

HEARTBURN
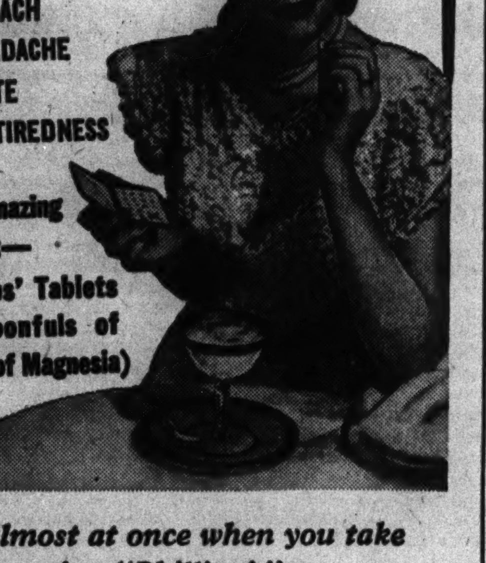
NAUSEA
"LOGGINESS"
SOUR STOMACH
"ACID" HEADACHE
NO APPETITE
MORNING TIREDNESS

Do this for Amazing fast Relief:—
Take 2 Phillips' Tablets (or 2 teaspoonfuls of Phillips' Milk of Magnesia)



Relief starts almost at once when you take quick-acting "Phillips'"

If on occasion you suffer any of the above signs of distress after eating, and suspect an excess acid condition of the stomach, do this at once—

Take 2 teaspoonfuls of Phillips' Milk of Magnesia a half hour after you leave the table.

Or, slip a couple of mint flavored Phillips' Tablets in your mouth as "after-dinner mints."

You'll be amazed at the quick relief this brings. In almost no time at all the Phillips' Milk of Magnesia neutralizes the excess stomach acids that cause the gas and sourness. Your stomach is quickly calmed. Heartburn, "acid" headache and the other signs, rapidly disappear. It's wonderful how fine you feel again.

Try this quick relief today. Get either the liquid Phillips' or the handy mint flavored Phillips' Tablets that produce the same wonderful results. But be sure the words "Genuine Phillips'" appear on the package. Only 25c for a bottle or box at any drugstore.

Russian Makes Piano Pour Out New Beauties

BY EDWARD BARRY.

If in a perverse moment Alexander Brallowsky should choose to play "The Isle of Capri" for us, the experience would not be too grim. The sheer sound of the piano under those lean Russian fingers of his is so glorious that no musical shortcomings in the piece itself would be able to spoil audience enjoyment completely.

Yesterday in Orchestra hall he offered three works whose content, though nowhere near as slight as that of the opus named above, is certainly incapable of interesting an alert mind deeply or permanently. Yet the performance was a great pleasure because Brallowsky did more and better things to his instrument than anyone unfamiliar with his powers would have believed possible.

With the Chicago Symphony orchestra under Hans Lange's direction he was heard in the Franck Symphonic Variations and Liszt's "Totentanz." By himself, as an encore, he played Mendelssohn's E Minor Scherzo.

He made the piano sing with a ravishing ease and sweetness. He made it gleam like all the jewels in the shah's strongbox. He even made it toll and boom like a bell. Virtually every time his hands fell or were caressingly pressed onto the keys a sound full of some sort of sensuous delight resulted.

That sound-mind-in-a-sound-body quality which forms so much of Handel's best music was well projected in the Beecham suite drawn from "The Faithful Shepherd," with which Lange and the orchestra began their program. This is music whose content is largely independent of the instrumental dress in which it is presented and there is no reason to believe that Beecham's treatment of it has done anything but accent the joyfulness and make more vivid the classical strength and symmetry of the original.

Beethoven's First Symphony—which, curiously, had never before been performed in the Tuesday subscription series—followed the Handel. Later in the afternoon, between the soloist's two main offerings, the orchestra interpolated Dukas' "The Apprentice Sorcerer." Thanks to "Fantasia," we now visualize Mickey Mouse as the apprentice, and find him far more satisfactory than his amorphous predecessor.

Miniature flower arrangements are fun to make and are pretty little valentine or birthday gifts. For the purpose there are a number of charming little flowers: Miniature roses, jonquils, violets, carnations, and other blooms, all of them artificial. Choose your container from an assortment of quaint little vases, some shaped like boots, others like stovepipe hats, etc. These are of pottery and of glass. One of these miniature arrangements is delightful for a woman's writing desk.

Lovely Medallion Pattern

BY ELLEN BRUCE.

To crochet workers looking for unusual medallions from which to create tablecloths or bedspreads, this cluster and mesh design is suggested as rapid, yet easy, work. Ivory, mercerized, crochet cotton is used for the tablecloth, while white bed cotton is suggested for the spread. Each medallion requires only a little time to create, and it is one of those "conversation pieces" at which the individual may work without concentration.

For instructions in crocheting the mesh and cluster medallion, No. 870, send 10 cents in stamps or coin to the Needlework Bureau, Chicago Tribune, 220 Fifth avenue, New York City.

THE Kitchen Kibitzer

BY MARIAN CARTER

A look over the shoulder of the kitchen manager in an attempt to speed, lighten and add some novelty to her daily routine.

Gingerbread is a wonderful dessert these sugar-saving days. Eat it plain, with whipped cream or ice cream, or with sliced bananas or other fruit.

• • •

Ah, cheese! Lucky for us that such good food is one of the dietary essentials. Sharp or mild American, Brie, blue cheese, Camembert, parmesan, Swiss, and all the others. The foreign cheeses have become naturalized citizens, and come to market right out of our midwestern cheese factories.

• • •

The vinegar you use has a lot to do with the success of a salad dressing. Make it a good wine or cider vinegar, or one flavored with herbs, if you can. No strong, harsh stuff!

• • •

Fishy hint: Any kind of fish or fish fillets may be baked. But if he's a lean critter like pike, red snapper, bass, flounder, brush him well with butter or lay bacon strips across.

• • •

Cole slaw between toasted slices or whole wheat bread makes a good luncheon sandwich. But eat before it soaks!

• • •

Why doesn't somebody invent a good hiding place for the marshmallows, nuts, coconut, so that they'd always be there, when we needed 'em for a recipe?

• • •

Never cover fresh, raw meat when you store it in the refrigerator. But always cover cooked meat, or wrap it in wax paper.

• • •

Glaze your carrots in honey instead of sugar. They'll look beautiful and taste wonderful. Butter and honey in equal parts. Heat the cooked carrots gently in the mixture until they brown a bit. Keep your honey at room temperature, or in a cool place, not the refrigerator. If it becomes granular, melt it over warm water. No harm done.

• • •

If you're good at cream puffs, try creamed chicken, tuna or shrimps in those shells for a change, instead of a sweet filling. Pretty for a party.

New York, Feb. 10 (AP).—The Chicago Blackhawks, outplaying the league leading New York Rangers thruout the second and third periods, defeated them, 5 to 2, tonight in a National Hockey league game before 10,314.

Center Bill Thoms, enjoying one of the best seasons of his long career, was the spark plug of the Blackhawk attack and his three assists, on goals by George Allen, Alex Kaleta, and Bill Carse, lifted him into sole possession of fourth place in the league scoring list.

Rangers' Lead Cut.

The defeat, first the Rangers have suffered on home ice since before Christmas, shaved their first place margin over the Boston Bruins to two points, while the victory brought the Hawks up to within four points of the third place Toronto Maple Leafs.

The Rangers scored the only goal of the first period when Alfie Pike netted with 17 seconds to go, to run their nonshutout streak to 89 games. But after Red Hamill tied the score at 1:08 in the second period the Hawks took the game under firm control.

Bentley Scores on Solo.

Max Bentley, on a pretty solo play, and Allen scored before the period was over, and Kaleta and Bill Carse got their tallies in the third. Then, with less than two minutes to go, the Rangers' closing drive was rewarded by a goal to Alan Kuntz.

The Hawks left immediately after the game for Chicago, where they will meet the Detroit Red Wings in the Stadium on Thursday night.

BRUINS TRIUMPH, 8-1

Boston, Mass., Feb. 10 (AP).—Boston's famous Kraut line making its last appearance as Bruins for the war's duration, went on scoring rampages tonight and the Stanley cup champions overwhelmed the Montreal Canadiens, 8 to 1, before 10,420 in the Boston Garden.

Those three childhood friends from Kitchener, Ont.—Milt Schmidt, Woody Dumart, and Bobby Bauer—collected a total of 10 points and the latter two were among the scorers. Bauer tallied twice and Dumart once. Schmiddy made a gallant attempt but he was ruled offside after he succeeded in driving a puck thru Goalie Paul Bibeault during the last minute of play.

The others to run up the Boston scoring total were Jack McGill, playing his second game since being called up from the Boston Olympics of the Eastern Amateur league; Flash Hollett, Jack Shewchuk, Gordie Bruce and Des Smith.

The history says, "His voice has always been heard on the side of reform." . . . His grandson, the late Lou Comiskey, who was a sterling advocate of the "live and let live" school of thought, never dwelt on the reform flair of his revered grandpappy. . . . Hugh Gallarneau, who stepped from the Stanford gridiron to professional stardom with the National Football league champions, attempted only one punt last season. . . . It was against the Chicago Cardinals in an early season game, was blocked, and the Bears never asked him to kick again. . . . Friends of Commissioner Kenesaw Mountain Landis say he looks in better health now than 10 years ago. . . . He has fully recovered from the pneumonia attack which threatened his life last fall. . . . A general in the orient
Once fought and won the day;
Then taught his son the things he knew
And sent him on his way.
At West Point first, the lad excelled—
The finest of his day,
To take his place in army life,
Forever, come what may.

He won his spurs as he went on
And when a great war came,
He made his mark on small and great,
To find the road to fame.
He then became the army's chief—
To crown a glorious name.
Retired then, he soon found out
Life couldn't be the same.

For in the far off east he saw
His father's work undone
And in the Philippines he knew
Our cause must be rewon.
We watch with pride, MacArthur now
Hold back the "Rising Sun"
And seem to hear his father say
"A job well done, my son!"

TONY ZALE ENDS DRILLS; AT 164 FOR CONN BOUT

Billy Weighs 177; Rivals Meet Friday Night.

New York, Feb. 10 [Special].—Tony Zale of Gary, Ind., world middleweight champion, today ended hard training for his 12 round nontitle battle Friday night in Madison Square Garden with Billy Conn of Pittsburgh, former light heavyweight champion.

Zale had an impressive three round sparring drill in Stillman's gymnasium. Herbert Marshall, who opposed him, took a drubbing about the body, as the Hoosier slugger worked tirelessly in the demonstration of the attack he plans against Conn.

Conn Weighs 177.

Managers Sam Pian and Art Winch expressed satisfaction with the condition of the champion. Zale weighed 164 pounds. This was a pound and a half less than he had bulked earlier in the day at the headquarters of the state athletic commission, where he and Conn were subjected to a physical examination.

Conn weighed 179 pounds on the commission scales, and after his workout at the Pioneer gymnasium, where he sparred six rounds against three mates, he tipped the beam at 177. Conn was shifty and fast against Mickey McAvoy, Harvey Massey, and Joe Brown. I plans a final workout today.

Interest Is High.

Back at his desk after a week-end in Miami, Promoter Mike Jacobs announced a brisk advance sale and forecast a large crowd.

Many fans are eager to see whether Conn, who is tentatively slated for a June bout against Joe Louis, has suffered any ill effects from his defeat by Joe last June.

GEORGIA TAINTER WINS FIRST ROUND MATCH IN FLORIDA

Palm Beach, Fla., Feb. 10 (AP).—Georgia Tainter of Fargo, N. D., and Grace Amory of Palm Beach, the co-favorites, advanced handily in the women's annual golf tournament here today. Another highly rated player, Nancy McClave of Maplewood, N. J., lost her first round match.

Miss Tainter, attractive 18 year old winner of the recent Miami-Baltimore tournament and medalist here, scored a 5 and 4 victory over Irene M. Dill of Detroit. Miss Amory eliminated Janet Fleming of State College, Pa., by the same score.

Miss McClave, whose qualifying 79 was second only to Miss Tainter's 77, lost, 3 and 2, to Sally Sessions of Muskegon, Mich.

Jane Crum of Orangeburg, S. C., rated a strong contender, ousted Mrs. P. Limburg of New York, 5 and 3. Other results:

Catherine Fox of Glen Ridge, N. J., defeated Mrs. T. E. Nolan of Newcastle, Pa., 3 and 2; Anne Pink of Daytona Beach, Fla., defeated Marion Hockheimer of New York, 4 and 3; Evelyn Odom of Miami defeated Ruth Batchelder of Boston, 5 and 4, and Peg Kirk of Winter Haven, Fla., defeated Marjorie Row of Detroit, 3 and 2.

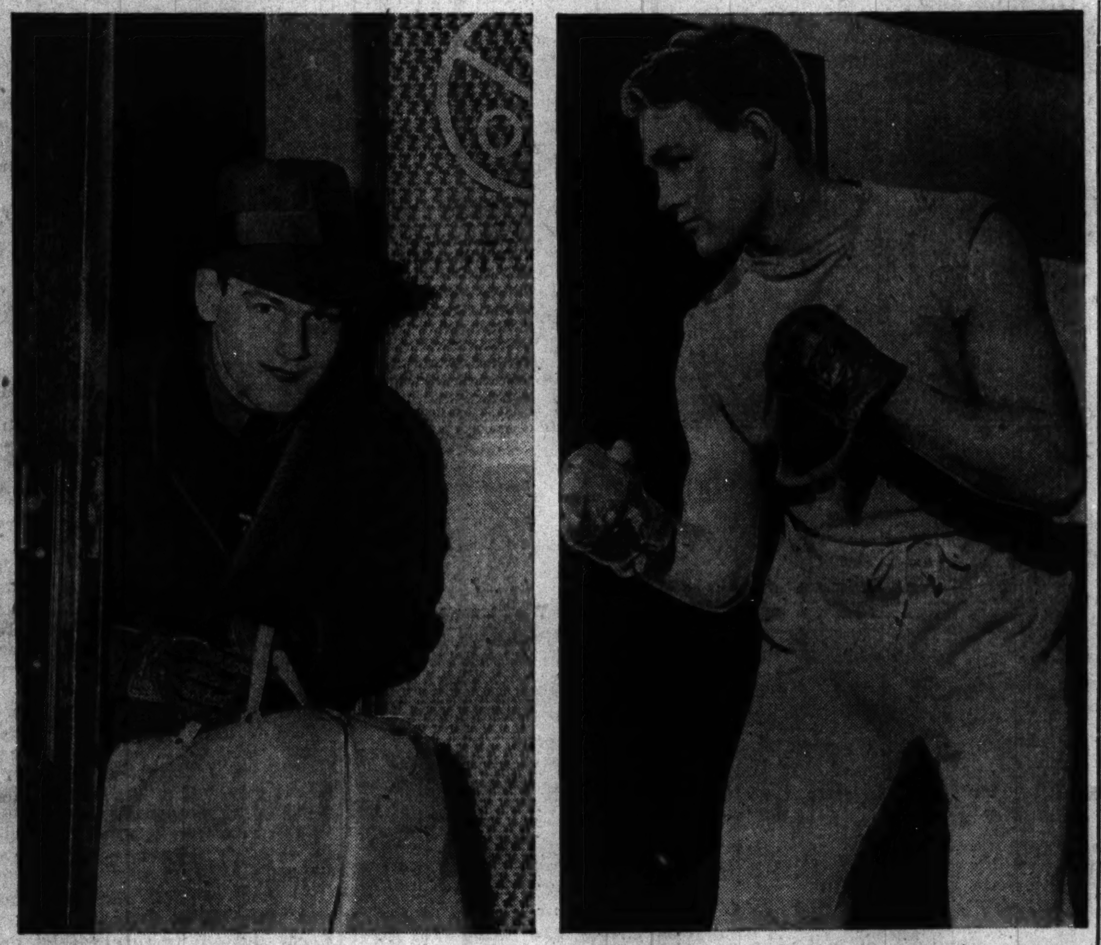
The South Side Is Backing This Lad



Come on in and be introduced, Harry! Golden Gloves fans, this is Harry Stephens, south side middleweight, coming thru the door. He'll be aiming for the Chicago Golden Gloves middleweight title in the city tournament tomorrow night in the Coliseum. Harry represents the CYO. His opponent will be Harry McIlvey, the north side winner. At the right, Stephens goes into his boxing stance.

Paddy Kane, veteran CYO boxing coach, gives a few pointers to Stephens in the gymnasium. The 32 contestants in tomorrow's big show closed drills yesterday.

War to Smooth Out Fairways for Dub Golfers of the Nation

The war and its resultant rubber shortage has come to the aid of the dub golfer.

Hazards on the nation's golf courses will be sliced down to a minimum this season to cut down the loss of golf balls. This was the consensus yesterday as the 16th national conference of the Greenkeeping Superintendents' association opened in the Sherman hotel.

Prominent in advocating the simplifying of golf courses was Norman C. Jones, superintendent of Medinah club's courses. He said that any alteration of the club's courses would be motivated by a desire to stimulate play, particularly among those in the high handicap brackets. He said he favored changes which would make the game more enjoyable to the average player without weakening the courses from a championship standpoint. Ten traps at Medinah will be turned into grassy hollows, and there is a possobility others will be added.

Maj. Griffith to Speak Today.

T. T. Taylor, superintendent of the Westchester club in Rye, N. Y., had this to say:

"The time usually devoted to maintaining fairways and greens in precision like perfection will be switched to the elimination of roughs and other unfair lost ball hazards."

Maj. John L. Griffith, commissioner of the Western conference, will address the groundskeepers today on "The Advantage of Athletics in War." On Thursday Virgil K. Brown, recreational chief of the Chicago Park district, will talk on golf's future. Other technical lectures are on the program.

Several hundred golf superintendents from thruout the nation and Canada were present for the first sessions. Due to wartime restrictions the commercial display exhibit will be the last one during the war.

Maintenance Problem Ahead.

The golf experts are agreed, too, that courses will be affected by the labor shortage, which will create a problem in maintenance.

Looking beyond 1942, Charles Burns, manager of an Akron, O., golf course, said balls made from reclaimed rubber would be put on the market if the rubber shortage still existed.

Already manufactured experimentally, he said, these balls are capable of 90 per cent of the distance of the ordinary ball "and are just as accurate and roll as far."

The association chose Akron for the 1943 meeting.

BY HOWARD BARRY.

The CYO, Coulon, Savoy, and Trafton gymnasiums reverberated yesterday with the thump of fists and the stamp of footwork as Golden Gloves boxers smacked out concluding punches in preparation for the city championship matches tomorrow night in the Coliseum.

At the CYO, Coaches Paddy Kane and Dick Fitzpatrick kept sharp eyes on Harold Dade, who is seeking his third Golden Gloves championship; on Harry Stephens, the sensational young Kenosha southpaw who knocks out his opponents with body punches; on Al Noto, who has brought the crowds up cheering in many bouts of previous seasons.

When they had a moment to divert their attention from these dangerous gunners, Kane and Fitzpatrick were giving pointers to other strong contenders for Golden Gloves titles, including Joe Dugo, Eddie Miller, Hubert Hood, and Emerich Mitchell.

Busy Gymnasium Scenes.

Over in Trafton's gymnasium, Larry Amadee, old time fighter who was seasoned in many a hard bout, was supervising the last workout of Charley Crump, the light heavyweight who has done his sparring with Tony Zale and Lem Franklin. Crump has never been beaten in his year of boxing.

Harold Koop and Peter Lowery of the detective bureau were checking up on their protége, Bob Dorgan, who trains in Coulon gymnasium. It's up to this hard hitting lightweight to vindicate the boxing strategy of the entire police force and of the whole Irish neighborhood around 89th and Loomis. For Koop and Lowery have had plenty of opinions and advice from the thousands who have taken a personal interest in seeing that Dorgan wins a city Golden Gloves championship.

Savoy Stars Bear Down.

To round out this last busy day of training, Coach Eddie Nichols and his assistants were putting the Savoy A. C.'s strong team thru its final paces. Johnny Johnson, a particularly strong and skilful middleweight, is considered the Savoy's best fighter—but there are others who are sure to give a good account of themselves James Calhoun, James Arnold, Thomas James, George Adams, and Elbert Adams will be in there punching for championships.

Even Augie Pope, who works for an automotive products company, found time to hustle over to the Franklin Park gym for a final session under Coach Danny Spunt.

Tomorrow's program will consist of 16 bouts between north and south side champions, who emerged from eliminations held previously in Loyola and St. Sabina gymnasiums. Open and novice division titles will be at stake.

The open division fighters will have a greater incentive than the novices because the winners will go on from the Coliseum bouts to fight as repre-

SAILORS DEFEAT CAMP GRANT IN OVERTIME, 48-44

Rockford, Ill., Feb. 10 [Special].—Playing the best game they have displayed this season, the Camp Grant Warriors forced the strong Great Lakes basketball team to battle thru two overtime periods tonight before the sailors won, 48 to 44. The game was witnessed by 2,500 fans in the new West High gym.

In the first overtime both teams scored three field goals, the extra period ending with the score 39 to 39. In the second overtime two field goals by John Lobsiger and two free throws by Bob Calihan put the sailors in front. Camp Grant rallied to count two baskets and a free throw, but the sailors came back with a basket and a free throw to clinch victory.

BRUINS BATTLE OSHKOSH; SEEK TO STAY IN RACE

Meet Champions Tonight in Cicero Stadium.

The Oshkosh All-Stars, defending National Basketball league champions and current leaders with 15 victories and only 3 defeats, will meet the Chicago Bruins tonight in Cicero stadium, 19th street and 52d avenue. A CYO senior division tournament game brings together the St. Nicholas of the St. Bernard league and Our Lady of Peace of the Mount Carmel league, starting at 7:30 p. m.

Sets Scoring Mark.

Oshkosh, which recently set a single game scoring mark of 66 points against the Indianapolis Kautskys, has four outstanding players in Center Leroy Edwards, Guard Charlie Shipp, and Forwards Gene Englund and Eddie Riska, the latter making his first appearance as a National league player.

Mike Novak, the Bruins' stringy center, has tallied 52 points in his last three games, after getting off to a poor start as a scorer.

Bruins Almost Out of It.

The Bruins must win seven of the remaining eight games to insure remaining in the contention for a playoff berth. Tonight's lineup:

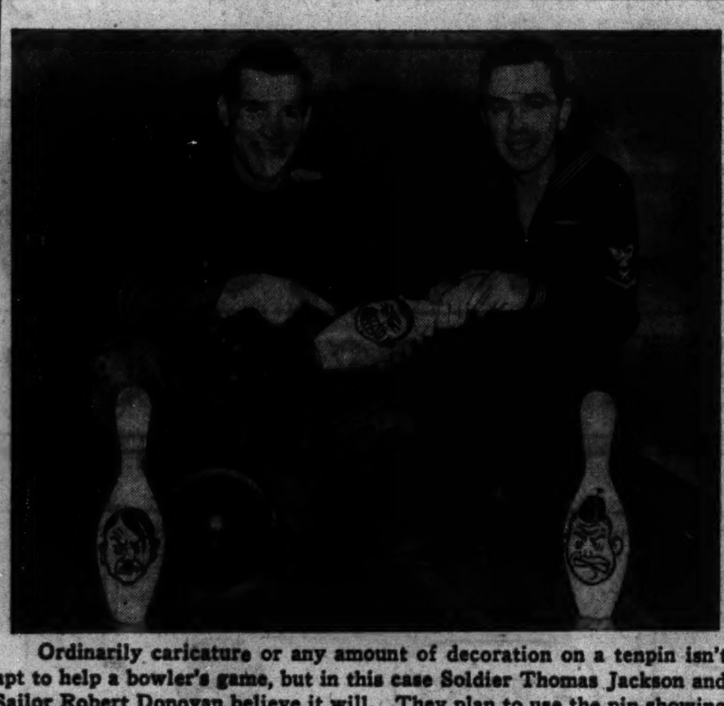
A Good Hit Is in Order



Ordinarily caricature or any amount of decoration on a tenpin isn't apt to help a bowler's game, but in this case Soldier Thomas Jackson and Sailor Robert Donovan believe it will. They plan to use the pin showing the likeness of Hirohito as headpin in bowling in the current contest of the $50,000 open play tournament. [Wide World Photo.]

DOUBLE HEADER CARDED FRIDAY AT MORGAN PARK

Howe, Roosevelt, Lake Forest, and Morgan Park Military academies will compete in a double header basketball game Friday evening in the Morgan Park gymnasium. The receipts will be given to the Naismith memorial fund. The first game will start at 7:30 o'clock.

Preceding the games coaches and players of the teams, Midwest Prep conference representatives, and other guests including several old timers will have dinner in Alumni Hall at the academy.

BASEBALL'S GOLF STARS TUNE UP FOR MEET TODAY

Monahan-Adams Take Pro-Am Event.

Miami, Fla., Feb. 10 (AP).—J. W. Monahan, a bull pen catcher for the Boston Braves as long ago as 1912, drew a low scoring partner for a pro-amateur preliminary today to show the way to the present day baseball players tuning up for their golf tournament tomorrow.

The portly Monahan, who can smack a ball 300 yards at times, teamed with Harry Adams, professional at the tournament course, to win the 18 hole best ball event after two extra holes.

They were tied at four under par 68 with Al Lopez, Pittsburgh catcher, and Bob Barnett, Miami Beach pro, but Adams fired consecutive birdies to win the playoff.

Derringer Shoots a 75.

Of favorites to come thru in the 54 hole medal play tournament Cincinnati Pitcher Paul Derringer fared best today. He had a 75 with his own ball and paired with Leo Walper of Washington for a best ball 69 which was good for a tie for third.

Defending Champion Merv Shea, Detroit coach, carded a 79. He and his two partners were well down the list in the pro-amateur. Shea and Charles McAllister of Miami teamed for a 74, and Shea played with Bill Gobel of Cincinnati for a 75.

Wes Ferrell, the temperamental former big league pitcher and a former ball players' champion, played well most of the way and got a team 73 with Claren Doser of Syracuse, N. Y.

Manush, Walsh Pair for 70.

Heinie Manush, the one-time Detroit slugger now managing Greensboro of the Piedmont league, and Frank Walsh, Miami Beach pro, were around in 70. Manush is the southpaw threat.

A mixup over the participation of Brooklyn players was settled today. Manager Leo Durocher and Scout Ted McGrew were en route here from Sarasota to join the Dodgers already on the scene—Johnny Rizzo and Arky Vaughan.

About 35 competitors will tee off tomorrow afternoon. The second and third rounds will be played Thursday and Friday.

MICHIGAN LOSES 2 VARSITY MEN BY INELIGIBILITY

Ann Arbor, Mich., Feb. 10 [Special]. —University of Michigan athletic teams fared exceedingly well in the recent examinations, according to a roundup taken today which showed that only two sports suffered losses of any importance.

The basketball team will finish the season without the services of Sophomore Ralph Gibert, whose defensive talents have attracted attention in recent games. The elongated forward failed in one course while carrying 19 hours in the engineering college as well as his extracurricular activities.

Of only slightly less importance was the loss of Sophomore Pitcher Harry Caswell to the baseball team. Coach Ray Fisher had counted heavily on the chunky youngster to bolster his riddled mound staff which carried the Wolverines to the Western conference championship last year.

LEM FRANKLIN KNOCKS OUT REIS IN FIRST ROUND

Toledo, O., Feb. 10 [Special].—Lem Franklin, the No. 1 contender for Joe Louis' crown, knocked out Al Reis of Detroit in a minute and a half of the first round of a scheduled 10 round bout tonight. Franklin weighed 202 and Reis 191. Reis was down before the knockout for a count of nine.

City Golden Glovers Await Title Bouts Tomorrow Night

sentatives of Chicago in the Tournament of Champions in the Stadium. There they will meet the best amateur boxers who can be mustered from a territory which includes 23 states.

Boxing Invasion Nears.

Finals were held last night in three Indiana cities, Fort Wayne, Muncie, and Richmond. Only one center—Quincy, Ill.—will pick its champions tonight, but earlier rounds will be run off in 11 other centers thruout Golden Gloves territory. Intensive action will continue thru this week and next, after which the teams will converge on Chicago for the big show in the Stadium.

The boxing fans who flock to the Coliseum tomorrow will be eager to compare this season's fighters with those of other years to get an idea how the winners will fare against the out of town competition in the Tournament of Champions. The boys are so closely matched that it seems certain that tomorrow's bouts will tell a convincing story of how good they really are.

DES MOINES TEAM STRONG

Des Moines, Ia., Feb. 10 [Special].—Radio station WHO at Des Moines will send the strongest team in its Golden Gloves history to the Chicago Tournament of Champions. Heading the list of WHO champions named at the finals last night is Vance Basler, light heavyweight, who was selected a member of the Chicago intercity squad last year after losing a close fight to Hezzie Williams, 1941 Chicago champion.

Another headliner from central Iowa is Burrell Smith, Oskaloosa, who took the welterweight title from Ozzie Lewis, defending titleholder in a rousing battle. Lewis will be remembered for his gallant stand against Morris Corona, Fort Worth, in the 1941 Chicago bouts. The Lewis-Corona bout was hailed as one of the greatest in Chicago Golden Gloves history.

Won AAU Title.

Smith, who lost to Lewis in WHO's 1941 bouts only to defeat the Des Moines Negro later for the Iowa AAU title, is one of the most rugged welters ever to carry the WHO title.

In the flyweight division, WHO will be represented by Hank Ulrich, Des Moines, last year's Iowa AAU champion and twice WHO runner-up. Don Gilman, another Des Moines product, is the WHO bantam king. Gilman is a former Iowa flyweight titleholder.

The WHO team:
112 POUNDS—Hank Ulrich, Des Moines.
118 POUNDS—Don Gilman, Des Moines.
126 POUNDS—Delbert Cockayne, Des Moines.
135 POUNDS—Bob Anderson, Des Moines.
147 POUNDS—Burrell Smith, Oskaloosa.
160 POUNDS—Charles Boston, Des Moines.
175 POUNDS—Vance Basler, Des Moines.
HEAVYWEIGHT—Mose Shackleford, Des Moines.

SCHEFFS, COALS BATTLE FOR LEAD AT SAMUELSON'S

Teams Are Separated by Only One Game.

BY C. H. BEUKEMA.

The natural match in the Samuelson Major Bowling league is scheduled tonight when the Fritzi Scheffs, leaders by a game, clash with the runner-up Wallace Coals. The match will be their fourth of the season. On the opening night the Scheffs swept the series and the Coals have administered like treatment twice since. In other matches the Michelobs meet the Goldammer Kids, Universal Automusics oppose Budweisers, and Waggoners are paired with Bee & Ramme.

Dominick De Rosa, president, and John Walters, secretary, of the Truckmen's league, which bowls at Milo Wiesner's, have worked out an unique defense stamp tournament plan, which is to operate on every third bowling night. Each of the circuit's 100 bowlers will contribute 50 cents on every tournament night which, plus an added $10 contribution, will provide $60 for stamps. The regular league nights' averages will determine the winners. The league is in its sixth year. . . . Jack Sampayo led the Morse Avenue Business Men's league with a 680 count, including a 254 game. Lou Fratini was second with 639 and John Johansen, third, with 639.

Classic League Idle Tonight.

The Classic league will be idle tonight. It was to have bowled at Major recreation. . . . Elwynn Parsaill battered down 748 pins, topped off with a 279 game, and his team, De Luxe recreation shot 3,123—with a low game of 1,036, yet the quintet lost three games to Edelweiss in the Greater Chicago Traveling league. Edelweiss piled up a 3,251 total. Playdium Goranson's, and Avondale also won three apiece.

Pabst Blue Ribbons have moved into the Lawrence Bowl Major league lead with 44 games won and 19 lost. . . . Not so long ago the Nonebetter Ice Creams swept a series with the Joseph L. Gills in the Windy City Major. To prove it was no mistake they whipped the Gills again Monday, this time firing 3,239 behind Jerry Pack's 723 to win two games. The defeat left them in a first place tie, however, as the Budweisers dropped two when the Ace Fasteners fired 3,213. Pat Pago of the Fasteners was top man for the league with 728.

Two Printers' Tourneys Ahead.

Printers are getting ready for two big tournaments—the sixth annual Union Printers' classic in Detroit March 22 and the second annual Printcraft Bowling congress event booked for New York April 10 to 14. The PBC, open to all members of the Allied Printing Trades, is expected to draw a much larger entry than at its inaugural last year in Cleveland. Entries for this event close March 10. Call Harry McLaughlin, Wellington 1867, or Alfred Swingler, Boulevard 4142. . . . Other tournaments:

Stack & Ryan eighth annual industrial, a handicap event to run week-ends thruout April. Entries close March 12. Teams and individuals must be employed at the concerns they represent. Jules Sowa, 1133 Milwaukee avenue, is secretary. . . . All-American individual handicap event, five games across 10 alleys, at Bensinger Randolph center. Entries close Feb. 28. Tournament is March 7-8 and 14-15. J. A. Stegwell, 207 West Harding road, Lombard, is secretary.

Chicago Recreation and the Fukas pared another game off the Internationals' lead in the South End Traveling league by sweeping series with Pilsen and Park Manor. Burck-Strachans' 3,232 was high series, featured by Roy Wagner's 711.

LEWIS PREPARES TO TAKE 22 CUBS TO ISLAND BASE

Number Actually Signed Is Gallagher's Secret.

BY IRVING VAUGHAN.

Altho far from certain whether the conveyances will be streamlined sleepers, standard Pullmans, day coaches or just plain every day red box cars, Bob Lewis of the Cubs has completed arrangements for his official opening of the traveling secretary season next Wednesday.

Lewis' 1942 debut, according to his script, will be embellished by 22 athletes of various degrees of attainment, coaches, officials, and the inimitable Dr. Andrew Lotshaw in person as well as his chest of restoratives. This assortment will make up the delegation leaving here for the training camp which up to the moment of going to press still was Catalina Island, 22 miles off the southern California coast by tugboat or plane. Other members of the ensemble will go direct to camp from their homes.

Lee and Myers May Go.

Barring what Manager James Wilson might do in the trade, sale, or release lines, there should be 40 candidates in camp before next weekend. Disposal in one way or another of Pitcher Bill Lee and of Infielder Billy Myers hasn't been dropped altho the transactions might be delayed indefinitely, the prospective purchasers being inclined to hold off until convinced they really are in a bad way for help. When they reach that stage they will see less objection to General Manager James Gallagher's terms which they now term excessive.

The contract item also may enter into just how many of the 40 now on the roster will be able to answer the first roll call on Catalina Island or wherever the training tent is pitched. Only a few of the Cubs are known to have signed and this information slipped out aboard some of Baseball Commissioner K. M. Landis' periodical bulletins. Gallagher has plugged that leak. He simply is secreting all the signed contracts. They will be forwarded to the Landis office later, but by that time Gallagher will have announced them in a bunch.

It's His Secret—Just His.

Just how many duly accepted documents Gallagher is protecting is anybody's guess, but it is known that all the boys haven't signed—only because their contracts haven't arrived. Gallagher has been mailing them out a few at a time since the holidays. The last batch was started on its way only yesterday. The men reserved for this treatment probably were those who did a bit too much fussing about pay last spring and who probably will suffer more severely when they get news of what their 1942 checks are going to look like. Having been worried for more than a month as to why their documents haven't arrived, they should be pretty well softened up.

The Cubs booked for Lewis' party next Wednesday night are:

Pitchers—Hirman Bithorn, Bob Bowman, Paul Erickson, Glenn Gardner, Emil Kush, Russell Meers, Vern Olsen, Tot Pressnell, Ken Raffensberger, and John Schmitz.

Catchers—Marvin Felderman, Clyde McCullough, and Bob Scheffing.

Outfielders—Phil Cavarretta, Dom Dallessandro, Charley Gilbert, Bill Nicholson, and Barney Olsen.

Coaches—Ki Cuyler and Dick Spalding.

The squad will be augmented by two extras—Pitchers Ed Hanyzewski and Henry Wyse. They are a couple of free lance youngsters who will be assigned later to one of the Cubs' minor league farms.

Stadium Fight Show Feb. 27 Is Postponed

A boxing show being arranged for the benefit of a national defense project in Chicago Stadium Feb. 27 has been postponed until March so as not to interfere with the Golden Gloves Tournament of Champions and finals in the west side building Feb. 23, 24, and 25, and March 6. The new date probably will be March 27. Suggested contestants include Tony Zale, Lem Franklin, Buddy Baer, Booker Beckwith, Nick Castiglione, Willie Joyce, and Leo Rodak.

Charles [Gorilla] Grubmyer and Rudy Kay, who put on a good show a week ago, will attempt to duplicate that performance in a return bout heading a wrestling card tonight in Rainbo Fronton, Clark street and Lawrence avenue. Supporting matches will bring together Ignacio Fernandez and Ole Olson, Mike Kilonis and Walter Palmer, Ken Fenlon and Gene Bowman, and Stanley Zeeman and Suni Rassmussen.

Altus Allen, former International Golden Gloves heavyweight winner, has been offered a preliminary match against Al Hart on the card topped by Lem Franklin and Bob Pastor in Cleveland, Feb. 24. Allen is training in Trafton's gymnasium for a six round encounter with Selman Martin in Midway arena Friday. The meeting will serve as a semi-windup to a 10 round event between Leonard Bennett and Cleo McNeal.

Entry Blank Is Now Ready for Casters

BY BOB BECKER.

Mr. Fisherman, it's time to fill out your entry blank if you want to have some fun and maybe win a prize in the Tribune casting contest to be held in connection with the International Sportsmen's show starting Feb. 21 in the International amphitheater. This annual tournament will continue thru March 1 with some kind of bait or fly casting event scheduled for every day. An entry blank is printed on this page. All fishermen and casters who want to compete should fill out one of these and mail it to the Casting Editor, Chicago Tribune, at once.

The average fisherman, who each summer takes trips to cast for bass, pickerel, and trout, has an excellent chance of winning one of the 25 handsome trophies to be awarded during the casting tournament. In fact, it has been built up from an entry of less than 100 casters in 1935 to more than 800 last year.

Events for Club Members.

There are events on the schedule which are exclusively for club casters—men who spend much of their spare time casting at established clubs instead of playing golf, shooting skeet, or engaging in other outdoor sports. But there are also several events in which club casters are barred, leaving an open field for the novice.

The main events for novices are the Skish contests to be held Feb. 26 and 27, and the Shore casting event Feb. 23 and 24. In both of these events standard fishing equipment must be used by all competitors. Lines must test at least nine pounds and reels must be of standard manufacture and be fitted with level-winding devices.

Novices Get Chance to Win.

The Shore casting event, formerly called "obstacle casting," is open only to novice casters and the rules relative to equipment are the same as those for Skish. In this competition the casters aim their ⅝ ounce plugs at camouflaged targets made to resemble actual locations on lakes and streams where bass, muskies, and other fresh water species usually are found.

Casters belonging to local casting clubs should make their entry thru their club secretaries. Individual casters who do not belong to any club should fill out the entry blank appearing on this page and mail to the Casting Editor, Chicago Tribune. No entries will be accepted by phone. The complete schedule and set of rules will be mailed to each entrant.

CRANE WINS, 41-17

Crane Tech's junior basketball squad moved into a tie yesterday with Austin for second place in the west section of the Public School league by defeating Kelvyn Park, 41 to 17, in Crane Tech gymnasium. Crane Tech and Austin, which was idle yesterday, each has won five games and lost one. Ted Mruk and Paul Blasucci were Crane Tech's high scorers against Kelvyn Park, the former contributing seven field goals and one free throw and Blasucci adding five baskets and two free throws.

Wells' quintet scored its fifth triumph in seven engagements, routing Foreman's junior squad, 44 to 21, on the Wells court. Wells held a 20 to 10 advantage at the end of the first half. Ed Klodzinski starred for Wells, scoring five field goals and one free throw. Lineups:

MANLEY TRIUMPHS

Manley High's junior team, led by Len Solomon and Harold Ordman, yesterday won its fourth game in the central division of the Public School league, triumphing over Du Sable, 53 to 36, in Manley gymnasium. Solomon scored four field goals and three free throws, and Ordman collected five baskets and one free toss. It was Du Sable's fifth defeat in six games.

Farragut and Kelly were victors in two other central zone junior contests. Farragut rallied in the second half to conquer Gage Park, 26 to 23, on the latter's court, and Kelly turned back Harrison Tech, 41 to 24, on the Kelly floor. Kelly led, 19 to 8, at the conclusion of the first half. Lineups:

SENN, AMUNDSEN FIVES TIE FOR 2D IN NORTH SECTION

Seniors Take Sixth Game in Eight Starts.

Senn High and Amundsen's senior basketball team went into a tie for second place in the north section of the Public School league yesterday. Senn's seniors whipped Schurz, 49 to 25, in Senn gymnasium, while Amundsen defeated Lake View, 48 to 25, on the Amundsen court. Senn and Amundsen each has won six games and lost one.

Corwin Prentice, guard, was the leader in Senn's victory over Schurz. He scored nine field goals and two free throws. It was the second sectional defeat for Schurz. Bruce Canatsy and Jack Weyrich starred for Amundsen against Lake View, the former scoring 10 baskets and two free throws and Weyrich contributing six field goals and two free throws.

Steinmetz, Roosevelt Win.

Steinmetz and Roosevelt also triumphed in senior games. Steinmetz won from Sullivan, 38 to 27, on the Sullivan floor, while Roosevelt conquered Taft, 30 to 24, on the former's court. The setbacks sent Sullivan and Taft near the cellar in the standings, each quintet having absorbed five defeats.

Roosevelt's junior quintet remained as a contender for the title in that division by scoring its sixth victory in eight games, routing Taft, 62 to 11. Irving Denio produced 33 of Roosevelt's points on 15 field goals and three free throws. Sullivan whipped Steinmetz, 55 to 28; Amundsen won from Lake View, 35 to 22, and Senn defeated Schurz, 51 to 26, in the three other junior contests.

St. George Junior Quintet Defeats Mt. Carmel, 33-29

The St. George junior team dealt Mount Carmel its first defeat in seven games and dropped the south side team into a tie for the Catholic Basketball league lead by winning, 33 to 29, in Evanston last night. Mount Carmel as a result shares the lead with St. Philip.

St. George took an 8 to 7 lead in the first quarter and built its margin to 18-14 at the half. Nicholl scored three baskets and four free throws for the winners, but Kempfer of Mount Carmel was the game's individual star with 14 points on six field goals and two free throws.

In the north section senior race Loyola routed De Paul, 38 to 20, at De Paul, for its seventh consecutive victory. St. Ignatius clung to second place by defeating St. Patrick, 39 to 24, for its sixth victory in seven games. Lineups:

2,388 DOGS GO ON VIEW TODAY IN NEW YORK SHOW

New York, Feb. 10 (AP).—The Westminster Kennel club's 66th annual show will bring an entry list of 2,388 purebreds to Madison Square Garden tomorrow seeking what now amounts to the world championship of show dogs.

A new monarch is assured because Champion My Own Brucie, the coal-black cocker spaniel which carried home the crown for the last two years, will not be a competitor. This year his owner, Herman E. Mellenthin, will be the best of show judge.

The show will be run off in two days again this year with all breeds being judged in a day and a half of quick appraisal in order to clear the show rings for the major awards Thursday afternoon and night.

When the field is narrowed down to the six best dogs for the final judging, it may include three of the standouts which opposed Brucie last year. The trio includes Mrs. Marion Florsheim's Afghan hound, Champion Rana of Chaman; Mr. and Mrs. W. H. Long Jr.'s collie, Champion Cadet of Noranda, and W. O. Bagshaw's miniature pinscher, Champion King Eric von Konigsbach.

SPEED TRAPPER'S PLEA TO AVOID FINE BLISTERED

No Mercy Shown to Your Victims, Says Judge.

Charles S. Braun.

Superior Judge William J. Lindsay made a blistering reply yesterday to a plea by Charles A. Braun, former police magistrate of Dixmoor, who sought to avoid payment of a $2,000 fine for operation of a speed trap. Braun, in tears, said he is insolvent and ill and should not be forced to work out the fine in jail.

Braun was brought into court from the Bridewell where, with four others found guilty in the speed trap case, he recently completed a year's term. They were convicted in November, 1938.

"I will show you the same mercy and compassion you showed the farmers and Chicago motorists to whom you put the screws," Judge Lindsay told Braun. "You're yellow all the way thru and I pay as much attention to your tears as you did to the people you kept locked up until 3 o'clock in the morning so they could send some one out to raise $25 bond.

Doubts Poverty Plea.

"That racket was too good. You can't make me believe you haven't something planted away. Besides, if you are suffering all the things you say my conscience won't let me turn you out into the streets in this blustering weather. If you're as sick as that you belong back in that ivy-covered tower where you'll be free from all noise and disturbance."

Judge Lindsay also reminded Braun of the case of a farmer arrested in Dixmoor for speeding, who left a truck load of hogs for security while seeking bond and returned to find three hogs missing. He then asked Braun whether he were a former motorcycle policeman in Posen. Braun said he had been.

"Do you remember how you would split the 'take' with the Posen justice of the peace in a certain saloon there?" Judge Lindsay asked.

Braun was unable to remember.

Sets Future Hearing.

"Go on," Judge Lindsay said, "I have driven by the place and dropped in and I saw you on many occasions."

He then granted Braun permission to reappear March 27 to renew his appeal at the same time with Charles Paduano, former Dixmoor policeman, also still in the Bridewell, who will appear on a pauper's petition and ask that he not be made to work out a $500 fine.

Earlier Assistant State's Attorney Richard Austin told the court that Braun had transferred some property in Harvey to a sister-in-law. Braun said it was to satisfy a debt, and was worth only $1,100.

Scheduled for $4,500 Bond.

"When your sister-in-law scheduled it as bond for some of your pals," Austin retorted, "it was listed as worth $4,500."

Austin said he would attempt to learn what had happened to other property reported owned by Braun at the time of his arrest.

The others sentenced with Braun and Paduano were Charles Special, former mayor of Dixmoor, who paid a $1,000 fine; Charles Grecco, former policeman, who paid $500, and Tony Bader, former policeman, who was released without paying his fine of $500 on a plea of illness and poverty

RESTAURANT MEN ASK PATRONS TO HELP SAVE SUGAR

A campaign to save sugar was organized yesterday by the Chicago Restaurant association. Signs will be posted in eating places asking patrons to coöperate.

Donald F. Kiesau, executive secretary of the association, said customers waste much sugar, putting more into their coffee than is dissolved. He said placards will carry the motto: "Sir well—put the axis in hell."

The restaurant owners also agreed on a program for saving sugar in the kitchen. The sugar content of cakes will be reduced and corn sirups and honey will be used where possible, Kiesau said. All recipes will be examined to determine how much sugar can be eliminated.

Chilean Congress Denied Report on Rio Conference

SANTIAGO, Chile, Feb. 10 (AP).—The Chilean congress adjourned tonight without receiving a report from Foreign Minister Juan Bautista Rosetti on the recent Rio de Janeiro conference, which recommended breaking off relations with the axis powers. His report was withheld at the request of Vice President Mendez.

Chile and Argentina are the only American republics maintaining relations with Germany, Italy, and Japan.

[ADVERTISMENT]

BACKACHE, LEG PAINS MAY BE DANGER SIGN

Of Tired Kidneys

If backache and leg pains are making you miserable, don't just complain and do nothing about them. Nature may be warning you that your kidneys need attention.

The kidneys are Nature's chief way of taking excess acids and poisonous waste out of the blood. They help most people pass about 3 pints a day.

If the 15 miles of kidney tubes and filters don't work well, poisonous waste matter stays in the blood. These poisons may start nagging backaches, rheumatic pains, leg pains, loss of pep and energy, getting up nights, swelling, puffiness under the eyes, headaches and dizziness. Frequent or scanty passages with smarting and burning sometimes shows there is something wrong with your kidneys or bladder.

Don't wait! Ask your druggist for Doan's Pills, used successfully by millions for over 40 years. They give happy relief and will help the 15 miles of kidney tubes flush out poisonous waste from the blood. Get Doan's Pills.

MRS. ALICE RICE, NOTED FOR BOOK, 'MRS. WIGGS,' DIES

'Cabbage Patch' Story First of Many.

Alice Hegan Rice.

Louisville, Ky., Feb. 10 [Special].—Mrs. Alice Hegan Rice, who won international recognition as a writer with her first published book, "Mrs. Wiggs of the Cabbage Patch," in 1901, died at her home here tonight following a long illness. She was 72 years old.

The success of her first book was so great that it remained the mainstay of her literary reputation thruout a busy life during which she turned out several novels and many short stories. Her last book, "The Inky Way," published in 1940, was a literary autobiography which told also of the career of her husband, Cale Young Rice, poet and dramatist.

Worked with Husband.

The husband survives her and they had no children. They were married in 1902 after "Mrs. Wiggs" had received a promising reception from the public and after one of Rice's early volumes had been published. With the first proceeds of their combined literary successes they established a home here where, in adjoining studios, they did most of their subsequent writing.

"Mrs. Wiggs," a story of characters in a Louisville slum section, was translated into French, German, Spanish, Norwegian, Danish, and Japanese and an edition was produced in braille for the use of the blind. It was the basis of a motion picture and a play which was produced in the United States, England, Australia, India, and South Africa.

Wrote Other Stories.

Other books by Mrs. Rice included "Lovey Mary," "Sandy," "Mr. Opp," and "A Romance of Billy Goat Hill." More than a quarter of a century after her first novel she scored a big success with "The Buffer."

Altho the Rices always maintained their home in Louisville, they traveled extensively. They gathered material for Mrs. Rice's novels and her husband's poetry in two trips around the world and in frequent trips to Europe.

FORMER CONVICT FIGHTS RETURN TO MICHIGAN CELL

Joseph Nolan of 5307 North Damen avenue, an ex-convict who has spent 17 of his 43 years in prison on robbery charges, asked Gov. Green yesterday to save him from extradition to Michigan, where authorities seek to return him to prison.

Nolan and his attorney, Morris G. Meyers, told the governor's representatives at Springfield that Nolan was sent to the Joliet penitentiary in 1921 for a holdup. In 1927 he was paroled. In 1930 he was sent to the Michigan state prison at Jackson for a $47 holdup, which he denied. Last Nov. 5 he was released on parole from the Michigan prison, but he was turned over to Illinois authorities for violation of his parole here.

Asserting that he was innocent of the Michigan charge, and hence not a parole violator, Nolan invoked habeas corpus proceedings to avoid going back to the Joliet prison, but the Michigan officials then demanded that he return to the Jackson prison. Nolan meanwhile has been earning $70 a week as an electrician. The governor took the case under advisement.

Highland Park Girl, 18, Revived by Inhalators

Miss Laverne Lichtwalt, 18 years old, 1403 West street, Highland Park, employed as a telephone operator in Wilmette, was revived twice last night by a Highland Park inhalator squad after she had collapsed from a sudden internal illness. Miss Lichtwalt, daughter of Frank Lichtwalt, chief engineer of the Elm Place school in Highland Park, was taken to the Highland Park hospital.

SEVEN ACCUSED OF LAND FRAUD ASK ACQUITTAL

The federal government rested its case yesterday in the $7,350,000 Mexican timber land fraud trial of seven officials and associates of Resources Corporation International, and Judge Michael L. Igoe began hearing arguments on a motion for a directed verdict of not guilty.

Floyd E. Thompson, chief defense counsel, said no evidence has been presented to show that the defendants, accused of having violated the mail and securities law and having swindled 2,000 midwestern investors, had not entered into timber cutting contracts honestly.

He also argued that nothing has been presented to indicate that the late Harper S. Hoover, whom the government calls originator of the scheme, did not acquire two million acres of Mexican timber land, that there is not 110 million dollars' worth of timber on the land, or that the investors may not yet receive the profits promised. Two of the original nine defendants have been dismissed.

WARNS OLD KIND OF SALESMANSHIP WILL BE NEEDED

Salesmen will have to relearn their job and go back to basic selling principles to be successful during the war and postwar periods, Richard Milton, Chicago advertising agency head, told members of the Chicago Salesmen's club last night at a meeting in the Merchants and Manufacturers' clubrooms in the Merchandise Mart.

Too much stress has been put on salesmanship in recent years, he declared, with too little attention given to merchandising. Manufacturers of almost every type of consumer goods have view with each other to bring out more and more new models, new styles, and more complicated designs of their products. As a result, he said, selling costs have increased with retailers unable to keep large inventories of any lines of goods because of the rapidity of style changes. This has forced the burden of storage and quick delivery for immediate sales back onto the manufacturer.

RAIL SWITCHMAN DIES OF INJURIES AFTER CAR CRASH

James C. O'Daniell, 65 years old, 102 Iowa street, Joliet, a railroad switchman, died yesterday in Oak Forest infirmary of injuries suffered Sunday in an automobile collision at 159th street and Crawford avenue, Markham. Four other persons, including his wife, Anna, 56, were injured.

Up to 4 p. m. yesterday 102 persons had been killed by automobiles in Cook county since Jan. 1. Of these 79 were killed in Chicago, where 2,417 were injured in the same period.

Weston, W. Va., Feb. 10 (AP).—Dr. Harry C. Howard, 73 years old, a Methodist minister who delivered the first Mother's day sermon in a church in Grafton, W. Va., on May 10, 1908, died yesterday in a Weston hospital.

BOY SCOUTS LAUNCH WARTIME DRIVE FOR $90,000 IN CHICAGO

The Chicago council of the Boy Scouts of America opened its wartime financial campaign at a luncheon meeting in the University club, 76 East Monroe street, yesterday.

The goal this year is $90,000, Hyde Gillette, loop broker and chairman of the drive, told a group of business men who had volunteered to lead the solicitation in their districts. Wartime means additional activity among the 33,000 Scouts and leaders in the council, he pointed out.

OPEN JOB DRIVE FOR RECIPIENTS OF OLD AGE AID

The state division of public assistance has begun a campaign to obtain jobs for old age assistance recipients who are able to work, it was disclosed yesterday. Bertram V. Jones, special assistant to Fletcher C. Kettle, superintendent of the division, was in Chicago obtaining pledges of aid from manufacturers' and business groups, and civic and fraternal organizations.

Jones said these groups are being asked to form community committees to find jobs which elderly persons can fill. He estimated that of approximately 150,000 persons now receiving old age assistance in Illinois, 33 per cent are able to perform some kind of work.

Defense needs of industry and the armed forces are creating an increasing demand for workers in the upper age brackets, Jones said, and present an opportunity to return many old age assistance recipients to financial independence. At the same time the 3 million dollar monthly expenditure of the old age assistance division would be reduced.

Dashes Into His Burning Home; Saves $3,900 Cash

Police and firemen now know why Peter Zelkovitch dashed into his burning apartment at 604 West Garfield boulevard last night and grabbed a coffee can from a pantry shelf. He was in his tavern nearby when the fire broke out. "Why the hurry?" asked police as Zelkovich dashed out, hugging the can. He opened the can and revealed his answer—$3,970 in bills, according to a count made by Park Policemen William Lahart and Edward Bolka.

FARM SENATORS FIGHT WICKARD GRAIN DUMPING

Committee Votes to Insure Prices.

Washington, D. C., Feb. 10 (AP).—Accusing Secretary of Agriculture Claude Wickard of trying to depress prices of several major crops, the senate agricultural committee voted unanimously to forbid government sales of cotton, wheat, corn, and other commodities below parity prices.

Sen. Guy Gillette.

The committee approved a bill by Senators John H. Bankhead [D., Ala.], Guy M. Gillette [D., Ia.], and Richard B. Russell [D., Ga.] to prevent Wickard and Price Administrator Leon Henderson from "dumping government stocks on the market in order to beat down prices," as sponsors put it.

The new price control law prohibited any ceilings on these farm products until they reached 10 per cent above parity but the farm-minded senators complained that Wickard and Henderson recently announced they intended to use government stocks of these commodities to keep prices below these levels.

"Not Slap at Wickard."

"This is not a slap at Secretary Wickard," Gillette said. "It just tells Mr. Wickard that he can't do what he said he planned to do."

Backers of the legislation said they expected congressional approval but conceded privately that President Roosevelt might veto it. He vetoed a measure last year that sought to forbid the government from selling its cotton and wheat for the duration of the war.

The senators said that they wanted prices of cotton, wheat, and corn to reach a full parity level, considerably above recent market prices. A parity is one that would give the farmer the same return for his produce, in terms of other commodities, as he enjoyed during a 1909-1914 base period.

Lucas Favors Move.

Sen. Scott Lucas [D., Ill.], a committeeman who said he was not a member of the farm bloc, declared he could see no reason for government officials trying to keep any farm price below parity "because that has been the goal of farmers and the farm program for more than 20 years." He added that if farmers received a full parity return at market prices, congress could eliminate "annual payments of millions of dollars in benefit payments."

"Apparently the agricultural bloc found that Wickard was about as bad as Henderson," Lucas remarked.

Gillette, Lucas, and other senators from the corn belt complained that Wickard was trying to hold corn prices at about 85 per cent of parity to increase feeding of live stock, dairy herds, and poultry to obtain larger production of meats, eggs, milk, and similar products.

Stocks on Hand Listed.

Bankhead reported that the Commodity Credit corporation now owned about 4,500,000 bales of cotton, about 300,000,000 bushels of wheat, and about 250,000,000 bushels of corn. The agriculture department reported the latest parity prices for cotton as 18.10 cents a pound, more than a cent above market prices; the parity price for wheat at $1.29 a bushel, about 29 cents above the market, and corn at $0.937 a bushel, about 21 cents above the market.

Bankhead said that the new legislation would apply to about 4,500,000 bales of cotton, 300,000,000 bushels of wheat, and several hundred million bushels of corn.

WPB PENALIZES CHICAGO FIRM FOR VIOLATIONS

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Feb. 10.—Three companies, one of Chicago, were penalized by the War Production board today on charges of violating priority orders governing aluminum scrap.

The A. B. C. Pattern and Foundry company, Chicago, is forbidden to receive, deliver or accept purchase orders for aluminum or aluminum products for two months. It also is forbidden to process any aluminum between Feb. 20 and March 10.

The Chicago firm is charged with having accepted delivery of 17,510 pounds of aluminum scrap between July 24 and Nov. 1 without a preference rating.

The same penalties were invoked against the National Pressure Cooker company of Eau Claire, Wis. It is charged with having accepted delivery of 740,856 pounds of aluminum scrap, in violation of priority orders.

The New England Metals company, Providence, R. I., is charged with having delivered 555,000 pounds of aluminum scrap to the Eau Claire factory in violation of priority orders.

A. F. Cervenka, president of the Chicago company, which has its plant at 4021 West Kinzie street, could not be reached at his office or home last night for comment on the order.

Meat Output Sets New Peak; Hogs Rise Despite 'Ceiling'

Increase 27 Per Cent

Last month's meat production was the largest for any January on record, the department of agriculture reported yesterday. Packing plants under federal inspection were estimated to have produced 1,727,224,000 pounds of beef, veal pork, lard, lamb, and mutton, compared with the exceptionally large total of 1,355,630,000 pounds in January, 1941.

This 27 per cent increase, amounting to 371,594,000 pounds, is equivalent to a normal month's consumption of more than 18 million Americans.

A large share of the output is understood to have gone to England. Lend-lease purchases of pork and lard during January totaled 174,631,573 pounds, which accounts for about 65 per cent of the increase in pork and lard output.

Butcher Million Cattle.

Packers butchered 1,057,159 cattle, which produced 557,144,000 pounds of beef, against 453,289,000 pounds in January last year. The veal tonnage was placed at 47,080,000 pounds, compared with 43,561,000 a year ago.

Production of lard and pork rose from 788,844,000 pounds in January, 1941, to 1,055,338,000 pounds last month.

The January slaughter figures of recent years:

	Cattle.	Hogs.	Sheep.
1942	1,057,159	5,830,613	1,610,991
1941	891,329	4,517,314	1,625,178
1940	827,348	5,355,793	1,598,193
1939	761,460	4,043,152	1,455,711
1938	829,802	4,200,988	1,552,017
1937	867,465	3,519,423	1,700,006
1936	906,099	3,427,799	1,540,132
1935	814,120	3,047,533	1,344,727

Sellers Win Skirmish

Lend-lease pork buyers and packing plants coöperated to check the rise in the hog market but were outmaneuvered by hog raisers in the stockyard market again yesterday. Farmers cut shipments to all packing plants and pork recovered more of the sharp losses incurred late last week following the announcement by government buyers that they had placed a price limit on all pork for shipment to England.

After an extremely slow start as buyers and sellers haggled over prices, the market action improved, and prices ruled steady to 10 cents higher per hundred pounds for the session. The average moved up 5 cents to $12.40 and stood above any corresponding day in 16 years.

Gain of $1.30 Since Jan. 1.

This price showed a gain of $1.30 compared with the first day of 1942. It stood 62 per cent higher than the corresponding date in 1941 and 140 per cent higher than in 1940.

Despite the fact farmers have more hogs to sell than they had at this time last year, current volume has decreased. Monday and Tuesday farmers sold 147,000 hogs at the 11 major markets, compared with 171,000 Monday and Tuesday last week, 168,000 the same two days last year, and 199,000 two years ago.

Butcher shop owners obtained concessions for some cuts of fresh pork in Packingtown yesterday. Top light loins declined 50 cents a hundred pounds, wholesaling at $23.

NATION AT WAR TOLD IT LACKS METAL AND MILLION ENGINEERS

New York, Feb. 10 (AP).—A somber report on America's war effort, with the nation short a million engineers and technicians and lacking "every last metal and mineral," was presented to the American Institute of Mining and Metallurgical Engineers here today. "We don't have enough of any metal," Wilfred Sykes, Chicago, chairman, and Clyde Williams, Columbus, O., vice chairman, said, in a joint statement. Some improvements were promised for 1943.

Sykes, who is president of the Inland Steel company, blamed part of America's present steel shortage on the shipment of 25 million tons of scrap iron abroad, mostly to Japan in the decade before this war. Now, without enough scrap, he said, we will have to get nearly all our steel out of ores, which is the hard way.

"This year," he said, "we will produce about 83 million tons of steel. We could make more if we had the scrap. This is our most critical year. Any place we can get scrap is going to be helpful."

He predicted 90 million tons of steel production in 1943 and 98 to 100 million in 1944.

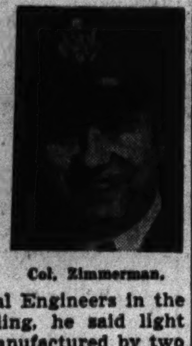
Chicago Area to Make New Light Tanks

Two types of light streamlined combat tanks will roll off assembly lines in a few months in the Chicago area, Lieut. Col. Fred R. Zimmerman, chief of the tank and combat vehicle division of the Chicago ordnance district, revealed last night.



Col. Zimmerman.

Speaking at a dinner of the Chicago section of the American Society of Mechanical Engineers in the Civic Opera building, he said light tanks would be manufactured by two leading farm implement companies. The ordnance district completed a contract a few weeks ago with International Harvester company for large scale tank production in the Rock Island-Moline-Davenport area.

45,000 Goal for 1942.

The light tank program will augment the existing production of 28 ton medium tanks by Pullman-Standard Car Manufacturing and the Pressed Steel Car companies in the Chicago district, Col. Zimmerman said. He emphasized the immensity of the task before the district in meeting President Roosevelt's 1942 goal of 45,000 tanks.

"The medium tank being made in the Chicago district has the fighting capacity [fire power] of more than 200 infantrymen," Col. Zimmerman said, in describing the improvement in tank engineering. "They can withstand the fire of 377 mm. guns as well as 30 and 50 caliber machine guns.

Best Tanks in World.

"The United States has the best tanks in the world. Improved engineering design has eliminated sharp angles and large flat surfaces, and advanced welding methods have eliminated rivets to withstand powerful guns better."

Tank contracts negotiated by the Chicago ordnance district since Dec. 7 amount to 400 million dollars, and with about 100 millions let before the Japanese attack, now total 500 million dollars, Col. Zimmerman said.

PURCHASE OF ARMED FORCES' FOOD TO BE DIRECTED IN CHICAGO

Chicago will be the center of War Production board operations connected with military purchases of perishable foods, it was revealed yesterday. John A. Martin of Oak Park, was appointed assistant to Douglas C. Mackeachie, director of the WPB purchases division, and will establish offices in the city to coördinate purchases for the army, navy, and marine corps.

Martin was formerly vice president and general manager of the Wesco Foods company, and for 10 years was director of produce operations for the Kroger Grocery and Baking company, of which Wesco is a subsidiary.

INT. HARVESTER PROFITS CLIMB TO 30 MILLIONS

Implement Firm's Sales Set Peak.

International Harvester company yesterday gave its stockholders a detailed account of its operations in the fiscal year ended Oct. 31 and of rapid changes that are taking place in its business as a result of the arms program.

Among the disclosures made by Fowler McCormick, president, in his annual report were:

Harvester's net income of $30,634,588 was the largest since 1937. Sales were the largest on record. Total taxes more than doubled the figure of the preceding year. American farmers, with the largest income since 1920, bought the most farm machinery in the history of the industry. The demand for the company's motor trucks was of unprecedented proportions.

Large Increase in Salaries.

The average number of employés for the 1941 fiscal year was 10.9 per cent larger than for 1940. In October, the average was 58,000 in the United States, against 52,000 in the 1940 month. Total compensation paid workers in this country in the 1941 year was $121,600,000, exclusive of executive officers' salaries, against 98½ millions in the preceding year.

Profit margins are becoming narrower as war production increases. Temporary unemployment is being created as a result of major readjustments made necessary in the shift of plants from normal to military production, but the management expects jobs created by war work eventually will more than offset the unemployment caused by reduced output of farm machinery.

Many Changes Expected.

In reporting these developments, McCormick predicted that in 1942 "great changes will inevitably take place in the company's business." He said the immediate job "is speedy conversion of available facilities to new war work." Harvester already is engaged extensively in production on more than 400 million dollars of war orders.

Comparative figures on profits, sales, and taxes were:

Net income, $30,634,588, equal to $5.87 a common share, against $23,161,110, or $4.11 a share in the year ended Oct. 31, 1940; sales, $364,635,000, against $274,682,000, and taxes [federal, state, and local], $28,830,000 against $14,062,000. Federal income and excess profits taxes were $17,421,000, against $5,151,000.

Because of the war, the company eliminated from the balance sheet its entire investment in subsidiaries in Germany, Italy, France, Denmark, and Latvia, using $9,388,000 of the 30 million dollar reserve for foreign investment for this purpose.

All of Harvester's factories except two small plants are or soon will be doing some degree of war work, McCormick said, and listed the many products being made.

Small Business Promised New Chicago Aid for War Contracts

Another entrance for midwestern small business men who have been knocking vainly on the front doors of Washington government offices was established in Chicago yesterday with the formal appointment of William D. Saltiel, special assistant to the attorney general, as head of the midwest small business advisory section.

The section is a unit in the justice department's anti-trust division, headed by Thurman Arnold in Washington and represented in Chicago by Daniel B. Britt, special assistant. The unit will aid small business men in their efforts to participate in war production by interceding for them, by giving legal clearance for arms production pools, and by investigating complaints that large contractors are monopolizing the war industries, Saltiel said.

Small Business Defined.

"Mr. Arnold has defined small business as that business which is not represented in Washington," Saltiel said. "Big business has had the superior advantage of being represented at the capital. This has militated against the opportunities of the smaller business man.

"It is natural that many small business men have been confused when they attempted to obtain information as to their possible functions in this emergency. Often they were unable to gain access to the proper authorities. In consequence, thousands of business men were faced with ruin, one reason being their inability to obtain priorities."

Saltiel emphasized the vital importance of the small plants to the war production program. He said these factories can produce millions of dollars of war materials. He said his office would strive to gain for the small manufacturers equal opportunity with the large companies in obtaining war contracts.

'Mountain of Work'

Cleveland, O., Feb. 10 (AP).—"Hold yourselves together—there's a mountain of work to be let soon." Small manufacturers fearing shutdowns of their plants because they lack war orders received this encouraging word today from Floyd B. Odlum, economic adviser to the War Production board.

"Thousands upon thousands of plants must yet be shifted from their normal business to war or essential work," said Odlum, addressing the Cleveland council of Smaller Business of America, Inc., by telephone because he was delayed at Grand Rapids, Mich.

"Smaller plants are being shifted at the rate of several thousand a month, but there are many thousands still to be brought in."

Two Arms Pools Approved.

Two arms production pools, the Metal Fabricators institute and the Garfield Park Industrial Defense group, already have been approved by the Chicago anti-trust division office, Saltiel said. These combinations of small plant facilities are ready to receive military contracts.

Saltiel entered the anti-trust division last September after having been in private law practice for about 10 years. He was city attorney of Chicago from 1927 to 1931 and before that assistant corporation counsel and special attorney to the board of education.

Market Holiday

Banks and security and commodity markets will be closed tomorrow in observance of Lincoln's birthday. Live stock markets will operate as usual.

BIG AD CAMPAIGN TO INCREASE SALE OF MILK PLANNED

The Milk Foundation, Inc., composed of dairymen and distributors of the Chicago area, announced plans last night for a $250,000 national advertising campaign to increase the consumption of milk. The members volunteered to raise the fund by contributions of 1 cent a hundred pounds of milk from the dairymen and from the distributors.

Meeting in the Drake hotel, the members installed Arthur H. Lauterbach of Chicago as president; Francis H. Kullman of Chicago, the retiring president, as first vice president; Arthur Hartman of Hampshire, Kane county, as second vice president; Walter Schaub of Chicago as secretary, and George Schultz of Appleton, Wis., as treasurer. Paul F. Deysenroth is executive secretary.

URGE TREASURY TO REVEAL PLAN FOR NEW TAXES

People Need Time to Prepare, Says Wiley.

BY JOHN FISHER.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Feb. 10.—A plea for the treasury to quit dawdling over prospective tax recommendations and relieve the suspense of the nation's taxpayers was made in the senate today.

Sen. Alexander Wiley [R., Wis.] declared that it is nearly a month since public tax hearings were supposed to begin and that no recommendations have been received from the treasury, and no member of the senate finance committee or the house ways and means committee can tell what the new tax bill will provide.

"It seems to me," Wiley said, "that the people of this country are entitled to know what the tax load is going to be in 1942. By that I mean they should be made aware as soon as possible of what financial sacrifices they have to make in their standards of living."

Time Needed, Says Wiley.

He said the taxpayers need sufficient time to plan means of meeting the prospective tax burden and added that public knowledge of the new taxes would have a beneficial effect and curb potential inflation—presumably by forcing the public to save for taxes and spend less for commodities and luxuries.

He asserted such information should be given out within the next 60 days and that unless the treasury produces definite recommendations the house ways and means committee, which initiates tax legislation, should go ahead.

President Roosevelt, in his budget message, requested 9 billion dollars in new taxes this year, or approximately three times the new levies enacted in 1941, but that is about all that is known about the new tax burden. It is necessaray to get details

THE DOUBLE LOAD OF BUSINESS
GONE are the uncertainties of 1941 and the years before. Our nation now knows that its course has been set and that its full-time duty is all-out production for victory.
Dislocation of our normal economy is the necessary price which we gladly pay for the ability to defend our freedom. But business has a double load in maintaining both military production and basic civilian requirements.
To help maintain vital non-military production and consumption as well as to aid further in speeding munitions output, the American National Bank and Trust Company is cooperating closely with management in financing production for war and for essential civilian needs. The assistance of this business-minded bank and its officers is at the disposal of industrial executives.

STOCK MARKET PRICES SLUMP ON WAR NEWS

But Losses Are Reduced in Late Rally.

New York, Feb. 10 (AP).—Stocks lost another round in the battle of war nerves today, leaders giving up fractions to a point or more over a wide front.

Fears that Singapore soon would be taken by the Japanese led to a fair amount of precautionary selling which prevented the market from attaining any sort of balance. At the lowest, declines ran to as much as 2 points for numerous industrials, but minor recoveries near the close reduced some of the gaps.

The Associated Press 60 stock average recorded a net decline of .6 of a point at 36.8 and at this level was within 1.4 points of the 1941-'42 low. Despite sluggish periods, transfers were more active than in recent sessions, at 639,960 shares. Yesterday's volume was only 404,220.

Steels Lead Descent.

Business news, including some favorable earnings statements, was no effective offset to the adverse Pacific situation.

Steels led the descent, but their losses were cut at the close. A factor in the selling in this group, brokers said, was the suggestion that wage increase demands of the SWOC might portend a shortening of the companies' profits.

Stocks showing final losses included United States Steel, Bethlehem, Youngstown Sheet, Chrysler, General Motors, Montgomery Ward, Sears-Roebuck, Case, Harvester, Boeing, Douglas, American Telephone, Texas company, Santa Fe, and Great Northern. Du Pont fell 3¼ to a new low for the last year.

CHICAGO LIST LOWER.

Prices slumped on the Chicago Stock exchange yesterday and trading increased to 22,000 shares from 14,000 Monday.

Commonwealth Edison stock, the volume leader, declined ⅛ point to 21⅛ on transfers of 2,300 shares. Other active issues included Aviation corporation, off ⅛; Chicago corporation common, unchanged, and General Motors which lost ⅞. The preferred stock of Chicago corporation closed at a new 1941-'42 high of 33, up ½.

United States Steel gained ⅛ after the close in New York, the only dually listed issue to change in price in the extra half hour's trading in Chicago.

Commodities

Adverse war news and weakness in grains and securities sent cotton futures down $1.05 to $1.10 a bale yesterday. A limited amount of hedge selling figured in the downturn. Wool tops closed .2 to .5 cent a pound higher. Grease wool was unchanged to .2 cent lower. Santos coffee was steady to .3 cent lower.

PURE OIL PROFIT NEARLY DOUBLED, DAWES REPORTS

Woolworth Income Also Rises During 1941.

Henry M. Dawes.

A pronounced increase in 1941 earnings of the Pure Oil company, Chicago, was disclosed yesterday by Henry M. Dawes, president. He announced after a meeting of directors that estimated profit for the year was $15,300,000, equal after preferred dividend requirements to $2.86 a common share. In 1940 net income was $8,718,057, or $1.21 a share.

Dawes said the company's annual report will be mailed to shareholders early in March.

The F. W. Woolworth company announced that its 1941 profit rose to $36,114,372, equal to $2.69 a share, from $24,104,815, or $2.48 a share, in 1940. Federal income, capital stock, and excess profits taxes more than doubled, amounting to $13,730,000 against $6,600,000. The figures covered the Canadian subsidiary as well as the parent company.

Problems Await Solution.

C. S. Woolworth, chairman, and C. W. Deyo, president, predicted the chain's management will have "perplexing problems" to solve this year, but termed the company's inventory position satisfactory in view of rising costs and increased volume of business.

They said sales in 1941 showed the largest year to year gain in the company's history. Wage payments to store employés were 5½ million dollars larger than in 1940, but reductions in other expenses resulted in a small decrease in operating expenses per unit of sales.

Crucible Steel Company of America announced 1941 profit of $7,439,480, equal to $12.95 a share, compared with $6,230,180, or $10.24 a share, in 1940. The increase was recorded in spite of a boost in federal income and excess profits taxes to $14,797,787, from $3,636,193 in 1940.

Sales Gain 64 Per Cent.

Crucible makes special types of steel. F. B. Hufnagel, chairman, said that by the end of 1941 "only an insignificant percentage" of its output was for civilian use. The year's sales, at $127,753,667, were 64.4 per cent larger than in 1940.

A decline in 1941 profit to $3,527,775, equal to $8.13 a share, from the preceding year's $3,670,700, or $8.42 a share, was reported by the American Chicle company. Provision was made for $2,780,416 of income and excess profits taxes, compared with $1,393,384 in 1940.

Vice-President and Treasurer

People and Events

Fred C. Moffatt.

Fred C. Moffatt was reëlected chairman of the New York Curb exchange yesterday for a term of one year. Five class A governors, regular members of the exchange, six class B governors, associate member partners or non-member partners of regular exchange members, also were elected.

John A. Stephens, director of industrial relations, and Roger M. Blough, general solicitor, were elected members of the board of directors and the executive committee of United States Steel Corporation of Delaware, Benjamin F. Fairless, president, announced yesterday.

Opportunities and requirements for young women seeking work in food products industries will be discussed tomorrow at a luncheon and free job clinic sponsored by the Illinois Women's executive committee of the Office of Public Instruction in the Merchants and Manufacturers' club.

TREASURY URGED TO REVEAL PLANS FOR NEW TAXES

People Need Time to Prepare, Says Wiley.

on rates and types of taxes before a taxpayer can figure the portion of his pay check which goes to Uncle Sam next year.

At present some 22 million people are preparing income tax returns before the March 15 deadline. The higher levies assessed this year will, on the average, triple the amount of federal income taxes paid last year. In some cases, depending upon the income, the increase is much greater.

The treasury each year is silent about its tax proposals until they are presented formally to the house ways and means committee by the secretary of the treasury and other treasury officials. Members of congressional tax committees—the senate finance and house ways and means committees—have their own views on what taxes should be levied, but nothing specific is done until the treasury's views are obtained.

The treasury is trying to eliminate differences of opinion between treasury and congressional experts before public hearings begin.

Secret Parleys Held.

Secret conferences have been held but so far have been limited mostly to administrative changes in the tax laws, and the main hurdles—new taxes and their rates—remain to be leaped. It is reported the treasury recommendations may not reach congress before March 15.

It is known that expanded social security taxes are part of the program, because the administration recommended them last fall in connection with the announced program of expanded social security coverage. In his budget message the President specified an increase of 2 billion dollars in pay roll and unemployment compensation taxes. This accounts for 2 billions out of the 9 million dollar total in new levies.

The big problem is to raise the other 7 billions from tax sources, some of which are regarded as already pretty well taxed out.

Disagreement Expected.

Observers say it is here that the treasury and congress are bound to disagree. The administration has favored heavy graduated taxes on individual and corporate incomes, some of which have reached the point of diminishing returns.

One of the newest wrinkles is a proposed withholding tax on salaries, and last November the treasury privately recommended a 15 per cent withholding tax at the source of income. This since has been whittled down to 5 per cent and may be acceptable to congress at that rate, which would yield in the vicinity of 3 or 4 billion dollars.

A federal sales tax also is viewed favorably in congress, altho it has been opposed by the administration until now. The President admitted in his budget message, however, that such a tax may have to be accepted temporarily.

Sen. Walter F. George [D., Ga.], chairman of the senate finance committee, favors enactment of new types of taxes rather than further sharp increases in present levies on income.

It is considered this would mean enactment of sales and withholding taxes. Treasury officials appear to favor big increases in surtaxes on individuals and corporations and a decrease in exemptions on excess profits taxes.

HENDERSON GETS POWER TO RATION RETREADED TIRES

Nelson Delegates Rule to Price Administrator.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Feb. 10.—Authority to ration retreaded and recapped tires was delegated to the Office of Price administration tonight by Donald M. Nelson, chairman of the War Production board. The order also authorized Price Administrator Leon Henderson to ration camelback, the rubber compound used for retreading and recapping tires.

A ration order has been expected by this industry, in a turmoil since sales of new tires were limited last month to services related to the war, public health, or safety. The industry has sought a generous allotment of reserve supplies to keep the nation's 33 million motor vehicles in operation. Without rationing, it has been charged that rubber is being wasted by panicky motorists recapping casings that still have many miles of service in the original treads and recapping other casings that aren't worth the effort.

Machine Sales Halted.

Last week, Henderson halted the sale of retreading and recapping equipment pending issuance of a rationing order to bring about a more equal distribution of this equipment thruout the country.

Another directive, as the WPB orders are called, clarified the automobile ration authority of the OPA. It set forth that Henderson is empowered to ration taxicabs and station wagons as well as passenger automobiles.

Distribution of passenger cars purchased before Jan. 1, when sales and deliveries were frozen, is to begin later this week. The ration distribution of the other cars in the nation's stocks, the last to be built until the war is ended, is to start on Feb. 26.

Tires Bought in Canada.

The United States is purchasing tires in Canada and giving them to England under lend-lease. Under one contract arranged with the treasury, this country is shipping $19,138 worth of Canadian made tires and tubes to England each month.

The contract is said to be one of many this government has concluded under lend-lease. One manufacturer reported that half the 200,000 tires produced in this country for military purposes are being shipped abroad.

The Canadian contract was made with War Supplies, Ltd., a British-Canadian agency, which has offices here to facilitate acquisition of lend-lease funds. The order called for 350 11 by 20 14-ply tires and tubes. The unusually large tires, which would be used on heavy trucks, farm tractors or military machines, cost $51.55 each; the tubes $3.13.

INCREASED HOME FINANCING ASKED OF LOAN GROUPS

The United States Savings and Loan league's executive council called upon its 3,600 member associations yesterday to "assume higher risks" in financing the construction of homes.

In a statement of suggested policies for 1942, the council said:

"Associations should carry on vigorous lending programs realistically adjusted to today's conditions. Where building materials are available and the demand for new homes exists there is every reason to finance the construction of additional homes. In many areas creation of housing units is essential to military victory."

ATLAS DISPOSES OF 25 ISSUES IN '41; ACQUIRES 21

Portfolio Changes, Lower Asset Value Reported.

Floyd B. Odlum.

The Atlas corporation, large investment company headed by Floyd B. Odlum, made many changes in its holdings of of stocks in 1941, its annual report showed yesterday. Twenty-five issues were liquidated and 21 were added to the portfolio.

Holdings of steel, aircraft, motor, and other shares were reduced in some instances sharply. A 10,000 share holding of Pullman, Inc., was entirely disposed of. Among others disappearing from the portfolio were 9,500 shares of Bethlehem Steel and 5,000 shares of United Aircraft.

Atlas reduced its investment in Curtiss-Wright stock by 10,000 shares, in International Harvester by 1,300 shares, in United States Steel by 4,000 shares and in Caterpillar Tractor by 1,000 shares.

Other Holdings Reduced.

Other shares in which reductions were reported included Northrop Aircraft and Phillips Petroleum.

Stocks not shown in the portfolio a year earlier included these, held in the following amounts on Dec. 31, 1941: Westinghouse Electric, 4,000 shares; General Electric, 10,000; North American company, 33,000; Socony-Vacuum Oil, 10,000, and Amalgamated Sugar, 31,000. The investment in Fairbanks, Morse stock was increased by 1,000 shares.

The report showed that the indicated asset value of Atlas common stock as of Dec. 31 was $11.42 a share, compared with $12.26 a year earlier.

Odlum asserted that changes in the national economy resulting from the war, and adjustments that will come after the conflict ends will create many problems for managements concerned with investments in securities.

Reservoir of Demands.

"Substitute materials and products will be developed to take the place of many of the old things that were part of our habit of life," he said in discussing the postwar outlook. "Vast unfilled demand for certain things will constitute a reservoir for release into the economic stream. Postwar dislocations and readjustments will have an intensity depending to some degree on the length of the struggle and sound planning done in the meantime."

Odlum was head of the contract distribution division of the old Office of Production Management and is now an economic adviser to the chairman of the War Production Board.

BONDS DECLINE UNDER INFLUENCE OF WAR SITUATION

New York, Feb. 10 (AP).—Bond market prices swung lower today under the impact of liquidation attributed to the increasingly grave news from the Pacific battle areas. Speculative rail liens for the most part firmed a shade at the close, but failed to regain losses that ranged from fractions to more than a point.

Chicago and North Western issues, however, finished around their best levels of the year, rising on a wave of buying after court approval in Chicago of a reorganization plan wiping out the 180 million dollar equity of preferred and common stockholders. Northwestern refunding 5s were up 2⅜ at 19⅝, general mortgage 5s gained 2½ at 31 and the 6½s of '36 added 4½ points at 36½. Volume in these issues was heavy.

United States government loans were about steady to 25/32 of a point lower on the stock exchange.

SUN LIFE INVESTS HEAVILY IN WAR BONDS OF ALLIES

United States Holdings Up to 53 Million Dollars.

Every available dollar of policyholders' premium savings of the Sun Life Assurance Company of Canada, Montreal, is being applied, together with the investment income of the company, to the purchase of bonds of "the allied countries," Arthur B. Wood, president, said yesterday in his annual review of the company's operations.

Government bond holdings totaled nearly 215 million dollars at the end of 1941, Wood reported, and included $53,215,946 of United States government bonds. Also held were $83,367,250 of Canadian, $47,208,809 of British, and $32,042,826 of bonds of other British empire governments. The company's total investment in the United States exceeds 430 million dollars, Wood said.

War Claims Are Small.

Death claims resulting from the war have constituted only 2.2 per cent of total claims during the last two years, he reported, compared with average peacetime experience of 4 per cent of all claims resulting from automobile accidents.

"The mortality experience of the British business is particularly noteworthy," the reports aid, "for, including all deaths among the armed forces and among civilians due to air raids or other causes attributed to the war, it is substantially the same as the average death rate under the company's entire business thus far during the war."

Insurance Retained.

The Institute of Life Insurance reported yesterday in New York that more American families are keeping their life insurance in force than at any time since 1920. Cash surrender values paid out last year were the lowest in relation to total assets since that year, and the ratio of policy loans to assets was lowest since 1906, the institute said. Policy lapses were reported probably the lowest on record in relation to total insurance in force.

Total of surrender values paid out during 1941 was $564,846,000, compared with $680,062,000 in 1940 and a peak of $1,356,612,000 in 1933. Loans to policy holders outstanding at the end of the year were estimated at 2 billion 920 million dollars, a drop of 171 millions from a year earlier, comparing with the depression peak of 3 billion 806 million dollars.

LANDLORD'S LIABILITY.

I am the owner of a building containing four apartments, three of which I rent out and the fourth I use as my own residence. Would you please explain what expenses I am allowed to deduct for income tax purposes? In 1941 I installed a new furnace and four new refrigerators. Am I permitted to deduct the cost of this new equipment.—G. E. C.

Answer: All amounts you receive from the renting of your apartments is taxable income. You may deduct from this income all expenses and charges necessary for the maintenance and operation of this rented property. Such allowable deductions include taxes, depreciation on buildings and equipment, heat, light, water, gas, electricity, repairs, painting and decorating, interest on indebtedness, janitor's wages and rental commissions. If your deductible expenses exceed income, you have a fully deductible loss.

The cost of the new furnace and refrigerators is not an expense, but a capital expenditure which may not be deducted. You are permitted to deduct for the depreciation of such equipment over their useful life.

It is important to note that the deductions for expenses and depreciation may be taken only for that portion of your property which is rented out. You may not deduct personal expenses or depreciation for personal property.

Thus, since one of the apartments, or one fourth of the building is used by you as your personal residence, one fourth of the total expenses and depreciation is personal and nondeductible. For example, you are not allowed to claim depreciation on the refrigerator in your own apartment. If all the apartments were decorated at a cost of $100 each, you could claim the $300 spent on the three rented apartments as deductible expense, but not the $100 paid for decorating your own quarters.

NOT RELATED.

During 1941 I supported the two minor children of a friend who died the previous year. I have not adopted these children. May I take the $400 credit for dependents for each child? I am single with no other dependents. Would it be possible for me to claim the exemption for head of a family because of my supporting these children? They are living in my home. —D. H. B.

Answer: You may claim the $400 credit for each child if you provided more than half their support during 1941. They need not be adopted by you to be considered dependents. You may not, however, claim the head of a family exemption on the basis of supporting these children in your home without first legally adopting them.

No matter what kind of work you want, the best way to find it is to read the

CHICAGO TRIBUNE HELP WANTED COLUMNS

To make sure you miss no worthwhile opportunity to get a better-paying job, follow the Help Wanted columns in the Tribune, which prints more Help Wanted advertising than any other Chicago newspaper.

"LET NELSON HANDLE THE JOB"

"He has been studying that work in his spare time."

Could you deliver if your employer called upon you to take a job which required special skill and knowledge?

If you are doubtful about your ability, it will be well worth your while to devote a part of your spare time to receiving special instruction which can help you win promotion and better pay.

Take your first step today toward a better future. Consult the offerings of schools which advertise in the Instruction, Trade Schools, Musical and Dramatic, and Dressmaking and Millinery Schools columns in the Tribune want ad section.

Need help? Phone your Help Wanted ads as late as 5:30 p. m. and you can start to interview applicants the first thing in the morning. With over 1,000,000 circulation, daily and Sunday, the Tribune is the quick action employment medium.

With hundreds of thousands more readers than other Chicago newspapers, the Tribune can produce the volume of response you need in order to make a satisfactory selection from competent applicants.

Call SUPerior 0100—Want Ad-Viser. If you are a telephone subscriber, you may charge your Tribune want ad. If you prefer, a representative will call on you at your request.

INCREASED RAIL FARES EFFECTIVE THRUOUT NATION

Illinois Situation Is Not Yet Clarified.

Fares on thru railroad tickets were boosted 10 per cent thruout the nation yesterday. Exceptions to the general increase included multiple ride suburban tickets and tickets for travel within states in a few cases in which state utility commissions must grant authority for increases.

The Illinois Commerce commission announced several weeks ago that it would not approve the 10 per cent increase for travel inside the state because of an Illinois law which limits such fares to 2 cents a mile. However, the commission decided to get the advice of the attorney general before taking any legal steps to stop the increase.

No Decision Reached.

A spokesman for the commission said yesterday that the attorney general had not reached a decision and the commission will not take action until it receives advice from him.

Meantime the railroads have applied the 10 per cent increase to one way and round trip tickets on travel within the Chicago suburban areas as well as to intrastate tickets. The Illinois Commerce commission has before it the request of the railroads to make a 10 per cent increase on multiple ride tickets, such as 10, 25, and 50 ride, effective on March 8.

The Illinois Central yesterday acted separately to get a 10 per cent increase on multiple ride suburban tickets, asking the Illinois commission to grant a preliminary hearing on the request. Asserting that the road needs the revenues, Joseph Wright, attorney, indicated that the road wished to increase the suburban fares at once, giving passengers coupons which would entitle them to refunds should the petition be refused later.

Other Increases Proposed.

He also indicated that the road proposes to increase fares for one way and round trip suburban tickets 10 per cent on Feb. 16.

The Illinois Central said that the top suburban fare is now 1.47 cents a mile and even with the 10 per cent increase it will be below 2 cents a mile. The Illinois Central carried 28,651,963 passengers in suburban trains in 1940 and 27,141,094 in the first 11 months of 1941.

SET GOVERNMENT EGG BUYING PRICE AT 12 YEAR PEAK

The department of agriculture yesterday established wholesale egg prices in Chicago at the highest February average price since 1930. It announced it will maintain the wholesale price of "fresh graded firsts" at or above 27½ cents a dozen.

Altho eggs of this grade were selling in the wholesale market yesterday at 28¼ to 28¾ cents, and at retail brought 40 cents or more a dozen, dealers reported that as a result of the government action, they did not expect retail prices to make the usual seasonal declines, but rather to hold close to current levels.

The department said that 27½ cents would be the minimum price at which it would offer to buy eggs on the Chicago Mercantile exchange under a program intended to support producer prices at not less than 85 per cent of parity.

PLACE SPECIFIC LIMIT ON PRICES OF NYLON HOSE

Washington, D. C., Feb. 10 (AP).—Price Administrator Leon Henderson tonight announced specific price maximums for nylon hose, wiping out an earlier order which imposed a ceiling on the basis of levels prevailing last Oct. 1-15. Trade sources said in explanation of the switch that some manufacturers had raised prices prior to the Oct. 1-15 period, leaving at a disadvantage other hosiery mills which had not boosted quotations.

Like the earlier price order, today's did not put a lid on retail prices, but Henderson reiterated his warning that "retail prices of nylon are as high as they should go."

The ceiling was extended, however, to the wholesale level, thru a provision forbidding jobbers and wholesalers to add more than 10 per cent to the manufacturers' maximums.

OFFER CANADIAN VICTORY BONDS IN 3 MATURITIES

OTTAWA, Ont., Feb. 10 (AP).—Canada's second 600 million dollar victory loan will be offered in three maturities, Finance Minister J. L. Ilsley announced today. There have been previous loans of 200 and 300 million dollars in addition to the first loan of 600 millions. A selling campaign under direction of the national war finance committee will start soon.

Maturities will be as follows: A 2½ year 1½ per cent issue, maturing Sept. 1, 1944; a six year issue, maturing March 1, 1948, bearing a coupon of 2¼ per cent, and a 12 year issue maturing March 1, 1954, bearing interest at 3 per cent.

STEEL PLANTS' CAPACITY SETS PEAK DURING '41

New York, Feb. 10 (AP).—American steel mills increased their annual capacity 4,418,000 net tons during 1941 to a record total of 88,570,000 tons, the American Iron and Steel institute reported today.

Shipments of finished steel products by subsidiaries of United States Steel corporation in January amounted to 1,738,893 net tons, the highest for that month in the history of the corporation, it was announced.

CORN SCARCITY IS INDICATED BY LARGE DEMANDS

Futures Up Slightly in General Rally.

BY PHILIP WARDEN.

Food manufacturers expecting to substitute corn sugar for the rationed beet and cane product may encounter difficulty in obtaining supplies, corn processors revealed yesterday. The processors are working at capacity and, rather than seeking new customers, are doling out the corn sugar to their old clients.

Biggest consumer of corn sugar probably is the rayon industry. Old formulas for making rayon produced a finished product that was 60 per cent corn sugar by weight.

Feed Demands Increasing.

With rayon producers at full capacity turning out defense materials such as parachute cloth, and clothing makers using increasing amounts of rayon in filling out woolen fabrics, the processors do not expect any let-up in their demand. Meanwhile animal feed requirements are growing daily and the processors are at a loss to predict what would happen if the corn crop should be short.

Unanimous approval of the senate agricultural committee of legislation designed to curb sales of government owned farm commodities that would depress prices brought a sharp advance in grain prices at the close of yesterday's session on the Board of Trade.

Sharp Rise in Soy Beans.

In the last moments soy beans shot up 4½ cents a bushel from the low levels it had reached early in the session. Final prices were 1⅞ to 2¼ cents above Monday's close, May selling for $1.97⅛ a bushel.

Grain men said the advance resulted mostly from the large number of shorts in the markets rushing to cover on the bullish legislative reports from Washington.

After May wheat had sold at the lowest prices since Jan. 2, the market was caught in the late rally. It rose 2 cents and finished ⅞ to 1⅛ cents higher than the preceding close with May at $1.29½ a bushel.

Corn closed ⅝ to ⅞ cent a bushel higher; oats, ⅛ to ½ cent; rye, ⅞ to 1¼ cent, and lard, unchanged to 2½ cents per hundredweight higher.

TWO RELIANCE UNITS DEVOTED TO WAR GOODS

The two Washington, Ind., plants of the Reliance Manufacturing company are engaged exlusively in making parachutes and aerial delivery equipment for the army and navy, Herbert G. Mayer, president, told stockholders of the company yesterday at the annual meeting held in Chicago.

The rest of the company's plants are operating at capacity on work clothing and other cotton garments. Some of these also have government contracts, Mayer said. Production capacity at the Indiana plants probably will be expanded, he added.

Barney S. Berman, a merchandise manager, was elected a vice president and to the board of directors, increasing the directorate to six members.

At the annual meeting of the Fitz Simons & Connell Dock and Dredge company, John J. Roche was elected a director to succeed H. N. Cooper Jr., who resigned.

LEGAL NOTICES.

To the Creditors, Policyholders and All Other Persons Interested in the Affairs of Pilot Reinsurance Company of New York:

NOTICE IS HEREBY GIVEN:

I. The undersigned, Louis H. Pink, Superintendent of Insurance of the State of New York, has been directed by Order of the Supreme Court made on the 4th day of February, 1942, to take possession of the property and to liquidate the business of Pilot Reinsurance Company of New York, pursuant to the provisions of Article XVI of the Insurance Law of the State of New York. The undersigned has, pursuant to said Article, duly appointed John P. Traynor, Deputy Superintendent of Insurance and J. Donald Davis, Special Deputy Superintendent of Insurance as his agents, to liquidate the business of the said company at the office of said Deputies, 160 Broadway, Borough of Manhattan, City and State of New York.

II. Pursuant to the aforesaid order, the said Pilot Reinsurance Company of New York is dissolved, and all insurance and other contracts and obligations of said company terminated and expired as of February 4, 1942, and the rights and liabilities of all persons under such policies, contracts and obligations became fixed on that date pursuant to the Insurance Law of the State of New York. Policyholders of Pilot Reinsurance Company of New York will not have any insurance protection on policies or other contracts after February 4, 1942.

III. All persons indebted to in any manner or having any property of said company in their possession are hereby required forthwith to render an account of said indebtedness and to pay the same and deliver such property to the Liquidator at his office above stated.

IV. All creditors of said company and all persons having any unsatisfied claims or demands of any character against it are hereby required to file with, deliver and present the same in writing duly verified, to the said J. Donald Davis, Special Deputy Superintendent of Insurance, at his office above stated, ON OR BEFORE JUNE 1, 1942.

V. Liabilities will be determined as to all claims duly presented and all assets distributed according to the Insurance Law of the State of New York, without further notice to persons failing to comply with the directions herein contained.

VI. All communications and transactions relating to the said company and the liquidation thereof should be addressed and had with said J. Donald Davis, Special Deputy Superintendent of Insurance, at his office as above stated.

Dated: New York, N. Y., February 11, 1942.

LOUIS H. PINK,
Superintendent of Insurance of the State of New York.
JOHN P. TRAYNOR,
Deputy Superintendent.
J. DONALD DAVIS,

● This is a new map of South America, eight of whose ten republics have severed diplomatic relations with the axis powers. Only two—Argentina and Chile—so far have not broken with the axis, altho both have acted to suppress totalitarian influence, bar war materials to the axis, halt business relations with the same, and outlaw fifth column activities. Chile, under a new administration, however, is expected at any time actually to sever relations with the enemies of the United States. The map shows Peru and Ecuador as before their recent territorial settlement, by the terms of which the boundary between the two now starts at the ocean, about 100 miles south of Guayaquil, and extends southerly, then easterly, and finally northeasterly on a zig-zag course by small rivers and streams to the border of Colombia. The settlement gives Ecuador about 30,000 square miles and Peru about 125,000 square miles of the formerly disputed area.
